Fights to Overcome Post-War Decline.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Why did the English, possessors of the proudest and most powerful air force in the world at the end of the war of 1914-1918, allow themselves to fall so far behind German, Russian and Italian air power during the last eight years?

This is a question universally asked today, the twenty-fifth anniversary of Great Britain's entry into the world war, by those who know the vast sums of gold and the enormous array of man power now concentrated on the job of hoisting England back to her former position of dominance in the air.

The only true answer is that there were many factors — political, economic and technological: Chiefly at fault were the political forces that ruled England during the years 1931 through 1935. That was the critical period for England—the period during which the axis powers and Russia laid the ground work for their aviation programs and slowly began building the air fleets they possess today.

Appropriations Slashed.

In England the late J. Ramsay MacDonald was prime minister. Lord Londonderry was MacDonald's minister for air. It was a period during which appropriations for the air force reached new low levels. Roughly 80 million dollars was granted for both civil and military aviation in England in 1933—a typical year of this period.

On this sum less than 30,000 officers and men were maintained and a total of 3,000 airplanes, two-thirds of which were obsolete or training types, comprised the empire's entire flying equipment. Thus had England declined from a wartime high of 300,000 officers and men and 22,000 airplanes in December, 1918.

It is on record that the chief officers of the air ministry made ardent and repeated pleas for substantial increases in allowances for men and machines. And they also begged futilely for advancement of sums for aviation research. The so-called senior services—the navy and the army—commanded all the governmental attention and the air force was ignored.

Boosts for Civil Aviation.

Furthermore, approximately 40 per cent of the total air appropriation was directed to civil aviation, establishment of new routes, subsidy to Imperial Airways, etc. The Royal Air Force had extremely slim pickings.

About this time came a number of engineering advances in aviation. Engineers began to learn how to build all-metal machines braced entirely from within. The monoplane came into its own. Retractile landing gears were designed and aviation motor manufacturers began producing reliable units of ever increasing power.

The result was that every airplane that was designed prior to 1933 suddenly became obsolete. The newer designs, low-wing monoplanes with clean lines and all bracing inside the skin, suddenly began to increase speed. With speed increases came similar jumps in range and in the general effectiveness of aircraft for war purposes.

Germany, Italy Quick on Uptake.

In Germany and Italy particularly the possibilities of the airplane as a major instrument of warfare were clearly realized. In Germany, with the rise of Hitler and the Nazi movement, the world war aviators who were close to the new government began to exert pressure to concentrate upon the building of a great air fleet.

Similarly the Fascist chiefs perceived that for sums far less than those required to train and equip either a navy or land army, they could produce a strong fighting force in the air. And so the Italian aviation industry began receiving strong government support.

None of this occurred, however, in England. Although aircraft designers were aware of outside activity they made few changes in their old biplane designs. One conservative group among the designers argued that all the new engineering knowledge was merely a fad and that the old ways were best. And this was the strong group.

An indication of the English tn-

ACT TO ENFORCE DRIVER LICENSE LAW IN COURTS

New Rules Drafted to Halt Violations.

The revelation that no systematic effort has been made in Chicago to enforce the many provisions of the drivers' license law, which became effective May 1, brought court action yesterday to restore teeth to the safety measure.

John D. Hayes.

Judge Francis Borrelli of the Safety court and John D. Hayes, assistant to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court, at a special conference outlined action to be taken by the police and the courts for full enforcement of the license law.

The conference developed that four times as many drivers lost driving privileges during the first five months of 1938 as during the first five months of 1939, although the latter period included one month of the license law.

Many Escape Notations.

Under the enforcement rules set up by Judge Borrelli and Hayes, all trafic violators will be required to produce their licenses in court. In the past many have avoided having records noted on the back of their licenses by saying they had left the licenses at home.

Court clerks will record the terms of all sentences, license suspensions, and revocations. If a motorist's driving privileges are suspended his license will be sent to the secretary of state, with a notation of the conviction and the terms of the suspension.

Licenses of persons found guilty of driving while intoxicated will be revoked, as will those of persons convicted three times for reckless driving.

Convictions to Be Recorded.

Convictions which do not involve license suspension or revocation will be noted on the back of the driver's license by court clerks, who then will return the license to the motorist.

Investigation revealed that in the past some judges and court clerks have failed to record the violations and convictions, as required by the drivers' license law. This, it was said, prevented the detection of habitual violators.

Judge Borrelli and Hayes said a driver's license will be accepted in lieu of cash bond up to $25 and sometimes $50, or a real estate bond of $400 in all but serious cases such as drunken driving, reckless driving, and the like.

Drivers to Get Receipts.

Where a driver offers his license for bond he will be given a receipt by police which will serve in place of the license until he gets it back.

Records of Municipal court showed that the driving rights of 685 motorists were suspended during the first five months of 1938. Those who incurred this penalty during the first five months of this year totaled 162. A total of 1,931 persons was arrested for serious motor violations in the first five months of 1939 and 1,982 were arrested in the corresponding period of 1938.

The law empowering judges to suspend a motorist's driving privileges went into effect July 1, 1937.

Woman's Flight Spurs Action.

Action to enforce the drivers' license law was spurred by the case of Mrs. Joan Meriault, who forfeited her bond on a charge of reckless driving while on probation for another motor violation.

She was arrested May 22 on a charge of drunken driving and was placed on probation for six months by Judge Thomas A. Green, who then was sitting in the safety court. Her driving privileges were suspended for that period. A week ago she was arrested again on a charge of reckless driving and failed to appear in court after her release on a $50 bond.

Police said that when she was arrested the second time her driver's license did not bear a notation of the previous conviction.

Judge Green issued a warrant for her arrest yesterday, charging her with violating her probation.

Clerks in the safety court said they were unable to remember whether they had recorded the conviction on Mrs. Meriault's license at the time of her first arrest.

Judge Caverly Dies at 78 on Bermuda Trip

Judge John R. Caverly of the Circuit court, whose most famous case was that of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, slayers of Bobbie Franks in 1924, died yesterday in Castle Harbor, Bermuda. He was 78 years old.

Judge Caverly.

Judge Caverly suffered a stroke Thursday evening while in Bermuda on a health cruise and was given the last rites of the Catholic church. He died about noon yesterday, according to word received in Chicago by his sister, Mrs. Margaret Maloney, 1440 Arthur avenue. Judge Caverly was a widower.

A nurse accompanied the judge when he left Chicago two weeks ago. His court appearances for some time had been shortened by the condition of his health. Many days he would sit for only an hour or so.

Two Slayers Plead Guilty.

The Loeb-Leopold murder trial put Judge Caverly's name on the international front page. The two young slayers pleaded guilty and threw themselves on Judge Caverly's mercy. The state nevertheless presented its case. Clarence Darrow, who died a year ago, conducted the defense.

Loeb and Leopold were sentenced for kidnaping and murder. The terms insured that they would spend their lives in prison. Loeb was killed by a fellow prisoner in Stateville in January of 1936. Leopold still is in Stateville.

Another famous case over which Judge Caverly presided was that of Harvey Church, who was hanged in March of 1922 for the murder of two auto salesmen, Carl Ausmus and Bernard J. Daugherty.

Judge Born in London.

Judge Caverly, who lived at the Edgewater Beach hotel since the death of his wife in 1932, was born in London, England. His law degree was obtained at Lake Forest university in 1897. He paid for his education by carrying water in the steel mills for 87 cents a day.

He was city attorney of Chicago from 1906 to 1910 and was a judge of the Municipal court from 1910 to 1920. He was elected to the Circuit court in 1924 and was reelected in 1927, in 1933, and again last spring. In 1923 and 1924 he was chief justice of the Criminal court.

Judge Caverly for years was a close companion of Ald. Michael [Hinky Dink] Kenna of the 1st ward. Their friendship was formed long before the judge ascended the bench. Intimates of the two say Caverly and Kenna dined together almost daily for nearly a third of a century.

Wife's Health Affected by Shock.

Between the time of hearing the evidence and passing judgment in the Loeb-Leopold case, Judge Caverly attended a funeral. Some one telephoned Mrs. Caverly that her husband had been shot and killed. She never recovered from the shock.

Relatives of Judge Caverly, in addition to Mrs. Maloney, are another sister, who is a mother provincial in the Order of the Good Shepherd, and a brother, James. The body will be brought back to Chicago for funeral services.

PRINCESS JULIANA'S SECOND BABY IS BORN; AND IT'S ANOTHER GIRL

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Aug. 5 [Saturday] (AP).—Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands presented the House of Orange with another daughter early today. The child was born at 1:09 a. m. at Soestdyk palace.

It had been hoped by Netherlanders that the baby would be the first male heir to the throne of the little kingdom in almost a century.

KERCHOO! HAY FEVER SEASON HAS ITS DEBUT

The open season for sneezing began yesterday. O. C. Durham of North Chicago, detected the first three ragweed pollen grains of the season.

The three grains, which are microscopic when compared to the 1,006 found on one August day in 1934, were harbingers of acute suffering for the 70,000 hay fever victims in Cook county.

Durham, chief botanist at the Abbott laboratories, declined to make his annual prediction about whether this will be a good or bad season.

Paddles His 16 Foot Canoe from Chicago to Galveston

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 4 (AP).—Edward Spinden, who left Chicago June 22 in a sixteen foot canoe, ended his journey by way of the Mississippi river and the intracoastal canal today. He planned a trip to Mexico before returning home. Total traveling expenses thus far, Spinden said, were $35. Outside of a couple of rain storms on the Mississippi, the voyage was without incident.

The Auld Kirk Pays Honor to Auld Servant

Argyle, Ill., Aug. 4 [Special].—On a foggy night in 1836 John Greenlee slipped through the streets of his native town of Campbeltown, Scotland. He was dressed in woman's clothing to escape the agents sent out by the powerful duke of Argyll to throw him into a debtor's cell.

Honest Scotchman though he was, Greenlee had determined he no longer would endure the oppressive taxes imposed by the greedy duke. In a year of famine he and his neighbors had seen the duke's tax collectors take away their grain, virtually all they had to eat, to pay levies that had mounted steadily.

Greenlee made his way to the sea, leaped into a small boat, and rowed out into the fog. The next day a sailing vessel picked him up and, after a voyage of many days, finally landed him in New York.

Finds a Rich, Free Land.

Members of a Campbeltown family named Armour had been in America and had told, upon their return to Scotland, of the rich lands in northern Illinois. Greenlee made his way here and settled. He wrote letters home telling his neighbors of the freedom and the beautiful country he had found.

In response to his letters a number of his friends in Argyllshire, Scotland, crossed the ocean. In a few years emigrants from Campbeltown had settled around Greenlee in the rich farming area centered on the present village of Caledonia in Boone county and extending west into Winnebago [illegible]

[illegible] Presbyterians, the settlers centered their activities in the auld kirk, as they had at home. Following tradition, they passed the church elderships from father to son.

A Bit of Scotland.

In 1844 the settlers built the Willow Creek church. Now, ninety-five years later, the kirk is still the center of community life. It is one of the largest rural Presbyterian churches in America.

Today the settlement, as it is still called, is as definitly Scot as old Campbeltown. The fourth and fifth generations occupy the old farms.

These descendants of Greenlee and the other founders gathered tonight at the auld kirk 300 strong to honor the longest eldership ever held by a member of their church. The guest of honor was David Picken, now of Rockford, who today rounded out fifty years as an elder.

Two former pastors, the Rev. Edgar W. Smith of Streator and the Rev. Thomas Bater of St. Louis, were present.

PAY ROLL TAXES SLASHED; DEFICIENCY BILL PASSED

Deadlock Broken by Two Houses on Social Security.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—The elimination of higher pay roll taxes totaling an estimated 900 million dollars in the next three years was assured today by congress when a twenty-one day deadlock over amendments to the social security act was broken.

A compromise agreement by senate and house conferees was approved quickly and unanimously by the house and sent to the senate, where an early indorsement was expected.

In today's compromise an amendment requiring the federal government to pay $2 for every $1 contributed by the states toward old-age benefits up to a total of $15 was eliminated. Another amendment, providing a formula for reducing state pay roll taxes for unemployment compensation in states where ample reserves were believed to have been obtained, also was dropped.

900 Millions to Be Saved.

Far overshadowing these two eliminated amendments were the major provisions of the bill resulting in savings to employers and workers totaling 900 million dollars in the next three years. Pay roll taxes to that amount, which would have gone into the federal treasury under the original bill, were canceled.

When the social security act was passed in 1935 it provided that a 1 per cent tax should be paid by employer and worker on salaries up to $3,000 a year. The tax would have increased next year to 1½ per cent and eventually to 3 per cent.

Called Great Improvement.

The new amendments freeze the old age insurance tax at 1 per cent on the worker and employer for 1940, 1941, and 1942. Instead of a staggering reserve fund of 47 billions, the bill substitutes a pay as you go system with a moderate contingent reserve.

Praising the amendments, Representative Allen T. Treadway [R., Mass.] said that they constitute a distinct improvement in the present law. In a report supplementing the committee report on the bill he recalled that installation of the pay as you go system was recommended in the Republican party platform in 1936.

The bill also moves ahead two years the start of old age annuity payments.

Persons who were 65 years old last Jan. 1 were added to the list of beneficiaries who will begin to receive checks next January instead of in 1943, as originally planned.

Increases Federal Contribution.

The measure also increases from $15 to $20 the maximum amount the government will pay toward state old age pensions on a dollar-for-dollar matching basis with state funds. A maximum payment of $40 a month to old age pensioners is thus possible.

Only the first $3,000 an employer pays an employé for a year will be taxed under the unemployment-compensation provisions. This is already the case in old age insurance. This change is expected to save employers about $65,000,000 a year.

A total of about 1,100,000 additional persons [seamen, bank employés, and employed persons age 65 and over] are brought under the old age insurance system and about 200,000 under unemployment insurance [chiefly bank employés].

Senate Balks Change in 130 Hour WPA Work Month.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—The thirteen billion dollar first session of the seventy-sixth congress cleared the decks tonight for adjournment sine die tomorrow.

Final adjournment of the seven month session before midnight tomorrow was assured when the senate tonight passed the 189 million dollar third deficiency appropriation bill, the last administration spending measure of the session.

The only essential business awaiting final disposition before passage of the adjournment resolution is: A conference on the third deficiency bill tomorrow morning, expected to require very little time; approval of the conference report on the deficiency bill by the house and the senate; and approval by the senate of the conference report on the social security act amendments.

May Quit in Afternoon.

Indications tonight were that the wind-up of the session might even come late tomorrow afternoon. Only a senate filibuster could prevent adjournment before midnight, and none is in prospect.

There has been an overwhelming demand for adjournment among the weary legislators for weeks, and their impatience has increased since the house yesterday killed the 800 million dollar housing subsidy bill, all that remained of President Roosevelt's original 4 billion dollar spending-lending program.

Senate leaders had hoped to adjourn the session tonight, but Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.] said he saw no point in working late in order to avoid a session tomorrow. Mr. Woodrum is chairman of the house conferees on the deficiency bill, and he refused to agree to a conference tonight.

Other Obstacles Removed.

Before the house recessed for the night at 6 p. m., after devoting most of the day to consideration of minor bills on the calendar, it granted unanimous consent that the conference agreement on the deficiency bill may be filed and considered at any time tomorrow. This was to make it possible for congress to adjourn sine die tomorrow. The senate recessed at 10:45 p. m. until tomorrow noon.

One big obstacle to adjournment was removed when the senate and house conferees broke a three week deadlock and reached an agreement on the amendments to the social security act.

The senate obviated another possibility of delaying the sine die adjournment when it refused to suspend its rules for the adoption of any riders to the deficiency bill intended to amend the 1939 relief appropriation act.

Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nevada], author of a rider to amend the relief act to restore the prevailing [union] hourly wage scale for WPA workers, moved to suspend the senate rule against legislation on a general appropriation bill. Requiring a two-thirds vote for adoption, his motion received only forty ayes to thirty-one noes.

WPA Layoff Repealer Dies.

The 1939 relief act requires all WPA enrollees to work 130 hours a month for a so-called security wage. McCarran's amendment was designed to restore the old wage scales under which WPA workers were paid the prevailing hourly rates for similar work in their respective communities and skilled workers could earn their security wage in sixty hours a month or less.

The senate defeated another rider by Senator James E. Murray [D., Mont.] intended to repeal the provision of the relief act requiring the layoff on Sept. 1 of all WPA workers who have been on the rolls eighteen months. This provision, it is estimated, will affect about 650,000 WPA workers.

The senate rejected a rider by Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] intended to revive the federal theater project of the WPA which the 1939 relief act abolished.

The senate also rejected an amendment by Senators Robert M. La Follette [Radical, Wis.] and Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] authorizing the secretary of agriculture to refinance farm mortgages on which the payments periodically due exceed the normal farm income available for debt service.

Senate Adds 119½ Millions.

The senate's largest restoration to the deficiency appropriation bill was that of 119½ million dollars requested by the administration to replenish the capital losses of the Commodity Credit corporation. This corporation makes price pegging loans on corn, cotton, wheat, dairy products, and other commodities under the New Deal's farm program.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace had denounced the action of the house in eliminating the crop loan appropriation, calling it a "national calamity" and saying it would mean 1932 farm prices.

Vandenberg Votes for Bill.

Only one Democrat—Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island—voted against the 119½ million dollars for crop loans and the Republican senators were divided on the question. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], a contender for the 1940 presidential nomination, spoke critically of the appropriation but voted for it after two other Republican presidential aspirants—Robert A. Taft of Ohio and H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire—had voted against it.

The four other senators who voted against the item, all Republicans, were Frederick Hale of Maine, Wallace White of Maine, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts, and John E. Townsend Jr. of Delaware.

Senator Vandenberg called attention to the fact that congress at this session already had appropriated a total of approximately 1¼ billion dollars for the various activities of the department of agriculture.

213 Millions in Losses.

Senator John A. Danaher [R., Conn.] reminded the senate that congress was called upon a year ago to appropriate 94 million dollars to replenish capital losses by the Commodity Credit corporation and that today's appropriation would make a total of 213 million dollars in losses.

The corporation has a lending authority of 900 million dollars in addition to its capitalization of 100 million. Senator William H. King [D., Utah] said it was his understanding that the crop loans had resulted in tremendous losses to the treasury and would greatly exceed the 213 million dollar capital impairment when finally appraised.

Besides the 119½ million dollar crop loan appropriation the senate restored numerous small items for New Deal administrative agencies which the house had rejected. One of these increased the allowance for the wages and hours division of the department of labor—for the employment of additional enforcement agents—from 1 million dollars, as voted by the house, to 2 million dollars, as requested by the budget bureau.

The bill also carried approximately 90 million dollars for the Social Security board, 5 millions of which was made necessary for the social security act amendments approved today.

The deficiency bill was approved by the appropriations committee and rushed to the senate shortly after noon, even before it was printed. So eager were members of the senate for congress to adjourn that they gave unanimous consent for the bill's consideration with only one copy in existence, and it dog-eared with typewritten committee amendments.

Barkley to Fly Home.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] was in a stew throughout the day, hoping that congress would adjourn in time for him to go home and vote in the Kentucky governorship primary tomorrow. President Roosevelt, however, accommodated "Dear Alben" by ordering an army airplane to stand by at Bolling field to take him to Paducah at 4 a. m. tomorrow. The plan is to get Barkley to Paducah, let him vote, and get him back here by the time the senate convenes at noon.

It was explained at the war department that the use of an army airplane by civilians, including members of congress, can be ordered only by the President, and that the order must be accompanied by a statement that such use of the plane is required by the defense interests of the nation.

U. S. JOBHOLDERS BEGIN RESIGNING POLITICAL POSTS

Comply with Hatch Law; Others Wait Ruling.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—Federal employés began quitting political party posts here and there over the country today, in compliance with the newly-enacted Hatch law, but there appeared to be a far greater number awaiting interpretations of the act.

The legislation curtails the political activities of government employés; there is still uncertainty as to all its specific applications. Attorney General Frank Murphy said he had received scores of requests for such information, and pending his rulings many are withholding action.

Advises District Attorneys.

However, Murphy did advise today all federal district attorneys that under the Hatch law they could not continue to hold office if they became candidates for political jobs.

He told specifically Charles F. Uhl, district attorney at Pittsburgh, and Assistant District Attorney John B. Ray that under the Hatch law they could not campaign for state offices and retain their federal jobs. Uhl already had announced publicly that he was resigning to run for a judgeship.

Although reports from most parts of the country indicated a tendency to quit political life to retain federal jobs, Philadelphia proved an exception. There John B. Kelly, city chairman of the Democratic organization, announced that about fifty persons holding minor federal posts were quitting their jobs to run for state offices.

Denver Jobholders Comply.

At Denver, Colo., a half dozen federal workers, including a United States district attorney, dropped their connections with local political organizations.

Mrs. Jennie Kirby, Democratic national committeewoman for New Mexico, resigned that post because, she said, it conflicted with her job as director of the state's department of welfare.

At Seattle, Henry I. Kyle, new assistant attorney general in charge of certain Indian legislation in western Washington, said he would resign tomorrow his post as chairman of the King county [Seattle] Democratic organization.

Kentucky Primaries Today.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4 (AP).—Kentucky's Republican and Democratic state primaries will be held tomorrow, the first since the enactment of the Hatch law forbidding most federal employés to participate in elections.

There are four Democratic and four Republican candidates for governor. On the Democratic side Lieut. Gov. Keen Johnson, supported by Gov. A. B. Chandler's administrative forces, and John Young Brown, former congressman who claims New Deal backing, appear the leaders in preprimary interest.

Charles D. Arnett, secretary of state, however, has asked federal protection under the new Hatch law, charging he was being illegally harassed by use of the WPA.

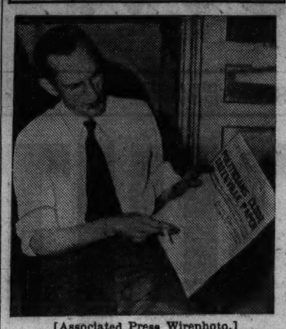
TYDINGS FRIENDS PUT HIM IN RACE FOR PRESIDENCY

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 4 (AP).—Friends of United States Senator Millard E. Tydings, survivor of the New Deal's 1938 purge, today tossed his hat into the ring for the Democratic nomination for president next year.

Tydings' name was added to the growing list of presidential possibilities by Baltimore's Calvert club, which said that campaign stickers already printed and the club's projection of his candidacy both had the senator's full approval.

In Washington, Tydings neither confirmed nor denied the political organization's claims. "I have no statement on that," he said, when asked flatly whether he would be a candidate.

Tells of Padlocking



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP)—Treasury officials said today the plant of the Greenville Home News at Jersey City, N. J., was padlocked yesterdar after six months of efforts to obtain payment of social security taxes which had been unpaid since the end of 1936.

They said the plant was closed by the execution of a tax lien filed in the United States District court in January.

At the time the lien was filed, officials related, the publisher of the small weekly newspaper was offered a plan of monthly settlements but declined the offer.

They added that the procedure was identical with that followed in all tax delinquency cases, and said a similar lien was put on the multi-million dollar properties of the Associated Gas and Electric company for failure to pay alleged income tax deficiencies until the company recently made an $8,700,000 settlement to lift the lien.

They flatly denied that the padlocking had any political implications.

FEDERAL PENSION BOOST TOO LATE FOR ILLINOISIANS

Illinois old age pensioners will not share in the federal pension increase voted by congress yesterday for the reason that Gov. Horner on Thursday vetoed a bill providing for state pension boosts. He did this on the advice of United States Senator James M. Slattery.

The measure killed by Horner would have increased the maximum pension from $30 to $40. Under old agreements the federal government matched dollar for dollar up to $15 with the state to provide the $30 pension. A bill was introduced in congress to enable the government to match dollar for dollar up to $20. To get this federal help, the state legislature passed a bill increasing Illinois pensions to $20.

On Thursday Senator Slattery telephoned Gov. Horner that the federal measure appeared to be doomed because of an amendment seeking to require the government to give $2 to each state dollar. At that time Gov. Horner had only a few hours in which to veto the state bill or let it become law. He took Slattery's advice and vetoed it. Less than 24 hours later the threatening amendment was dropped, and the Washington bill passed.

10 CONGRESSMEN HAILED FOR VOTE ON SPENDING BILL

The ten Illinois congressmen who voted against President Roosevelt's spend-lend bill were praised in a letter of congratulation sent to them yesterday by the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"We have noted with gratification your vote on the spend-lend bill and congratulate you on opposing an obvious increase in the national debt," said the letter, signed by Oscar G. Mayer, association president. "Our organization, I am sure, reflects the attitude of business interests in general in expressing our appreciation for the initiative and courage you have shown, and we feel confident it will have a salutary effect on business as a whole."

The congressmen who were placed on the association's roll of honor are:

DECLINE AND RISE OF BRITAIN'S AIR POWER TRACED

Private Industry Comes to Timely Rescue.

ability or unwillingness to seize upon and utilize improvements is seen in the distrust, even today, with which the controllable pitch propeller is regarded in England. Only within recent weeks has the air ministry ordered these propellers—considered elsewhere as the greatest single aviation advance in ten years—for England's newest fighting planes.

As time passed Germany's secret aircraft building was brought out into the open. The factories there were tooled up for quantity production—first ever attempted in airplanes—of the latest designs of bombers and fighters. By 1934 Germany was building airplanes at a speed never approached previously by any nation.

In England such men as Winston Churchill and his son-in-law, Duncan Sandys, began crying warnings. They investigated German aviation activities, recognized the danger to England, and plainly told both the people and government about it. But their appeals for action brought only laughter

New Standard Created.

English aviation experts called Churchill's figures on German aircraft production fantastic. They were fantastic by ordinary standards, but Germany had created a new standard that the world today is trying to match.

Ironically enough, Churchill's warnings had the effect of increasing the governmental opposition to air increases. The reason was that MacDonald and his cabinet could not admit Churchill was right. Nevertheless, the air appropriations in 1934 were increased to 85 million dollars and the air force given nearly 80 per cent of that total.

In June, 1935, Stanley Baldwin succeeded MacDonald as prime minister. Churchill's warnings brought enough support for the air ministry to double the appropriations of the preceding year. It was estimated that England needed 1,750 first line airplanes for her defense. It was decided to try to reach that goal by 1939.

Appropriations Soar.

But as information sifted out of Germany, as the Nazis and Fascists increased the importance of planes, the needs of England were more clearly recognized. In 1936 the air appropriations were 225 million dollars.

Up to this time the government had attempted a dual objective—to satisfy elements within England who were demanding an adequate air force and yet keep expenditures within bounds. But in midsummer of 1936 the government suddenly became convinced that Churchill's stories were true and the economic restraint was thrown off.

Here the technological difficulties began. The government was demanding an immediate high gear production of types of airplanes that were the equals or superiors of the fast German and Italian fighters and bombers. And it was discovered that English manufacturers were not equipped for such production and, furthermore, knew no way to achieve it.

Shadow Factory System.

Thus it was that the now famous shadow factory program was conceived. Governmental agents, faced with national emergency, appealed to private industry—the automobile manufacturers, the larger aircraft engine manufacturers, and the executives within the nation most experienced with modern precision manufacturing—for assistance.

It was decided to supply funds for all the aircraft manufacturers to build new plants or increase their existing factories. In addition the government agreed to build seven enormous factories, all guaranteed never to compete with private industry, and completely equip them with the latest and finest machinery and tools for large quantity production.

From this time on the expenditures for aircraft in England have soared. In 1937 they went to 442 million dollars. In 1938 they climbed to 775 million dollars and for 1939 they have now been increased to 1 billion 303 million dollars.

Business Men in Charge.

The men actively in charge of this vast program are the business executives of the country—heads of the largest automobile and machine tool concerns. At this time there are more than 2,000 private companies concerned in the direct manufacture or management of the governmental shadow factories, where airplanes or components are fabricated.

Naturally there was a tremendous lag in the program. It is impossible to create machine tools that are required for quantity production of modern aircraft and aircraft motors overnight. And it is impossible also to create the factories and establish the production lines for quantity building of airplanes in short periods.

During the year 1937 production of complete airplanes was small. The estimated output was less than 125 units a month for the entire year. Some of the newest plants began to get into action during the latter months of 1938 and production went up to 200 units a month.

Wood Takes Charge.

Reasons for this delay were not well understood here and ultimately a storm arose in parliament over the apparent failure of the program. Lord Londonderry had been succeeded in 1935 by Viscount Swinton and in 1938 Swinton's resignation was forced by those who charged his ministry with general inefficiency. Viscount Swinton was succeeded by Sir Kingsley Wood, former head of the British postoffice.

After the Munich pact in September, 1938, all England began to understand the German air strength and there has been support for the aviation program ever since. This program now is well under way, as the writer can testify from personal observation.

If any group of men can be credited with saving England it should be the heads of the automobile and aircraft motor industry. Particularly is this true of the Rolls-Royce Motor company. This concern now is managing five huge factories, all constructed within the last thirty months, where their now famous Merlin motors are being turned out.

MRS. ELEANOR KIMBALL.

Charles Henry Gallway Kimball, 11 Scott street, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court from Mrs. Eleanor Cushman Kimball, daughter of the Arthur W. Cushmans of Winnetka. They were married Sept. 19, 1934 at a wedding in the sunken gardens of the Cushmans' home. Mr. Kimball, an attorney, charged that his wife deserted him on July 31, 1938. He is the son of the Ralph Riggs Kimballs of Hinsdale.

CLEAR HURDLES FOR YOUNG HEIR TO GET MILLION

2 Kin of Mrs. Ada Garrett Take $50,000 Each.

The way was opened yesterday for Jason Paige Jr., young advertising man, to obtain the $1,000,000 trust fund left him by his great-aunt, Mrs. Ada Sawyer Garrett, often described as Chicago's Hetty Green.

Judge John J. Lupe approved a settlement giving $50,000 each to Mrs. Garrett's only two heirs at law who had threatened to contest her will. Members of the law firm of McCulloch, McCulloch, and McLaren, attorneys for the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, executor and trustee, said this removed the last obstacle to probating Mrs. Garrett's $2,250,000 estate.

Checks Are Distributed.

Checks for $50,000 each were turned over to representatives of Mrs. Adeline Mabel Wakem, 1120 Lake Shore drive, and Joseph A. Cary of Albany, N. Y., first cousins of Mrs. Garrett. Cary was left $3,000 in the will. Mrs. Wakem was not mentioned.

"These two, the only heirs at law, complained that the will was not valid," said the order signed by Judge Lupe. "They alleged Mrs. Garrett was incompetent to draft a will and that due and wrongful influence was brought to bear.

"They threatened to file suit to break the will. Negotiations have been conducted between them and those benefiting under the will. Cary and Mrs. Wakem agreed to settle for $50,000 each and have waived the right to bring suit."

Mrs. Garrett, granddaughter of Justin Butterfield, a pioneer Chicagoan who once defeated Abraham Lincoln for land commissioner of Illinois, died on June 18, 1938, in her apartment at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. She was 82 years old.

Found Near Starvation.

Left a $1,000,000 fortune by her grandfather, Mrs. Garrett pyramided this sum by astute investment. In later life she became eccentric, and on April 8, 1927, after being found near starvation in a hotel, she was declared incompetent.

Mrs. Garrett drew her will in 1904, six years before the birth of Paige, who is 29 years old and lives at 390 South avenue, Glencoe. Mrs. Garrett, however, provided for any heirs his parents might have. Mrs. Paige is a great granddaughter of Butterfield. Paige's father is a broker.

TUBE FOR RIVER SUBWAY SECTION NEARLY FINISHED

6,500 Ton Link to Be Towed 15 Miles by Water.

Construction of the steel portion of the huge subway section to be placed under the Chicago river at State street is nearing completion in South Chicago, Ralph H. Burke, chief subway engineer, said yesterday.

The twin tube piece of the tunnel — 200 feet long, 40 feet wide, and 23 feet high — is being built in one piece in a dry dock at 101st street and the Calumet river. In the next two months a concrete lining and an outside layer of concrete will be added. Then the tube will be sealed at both ends so it can be floated to the State street river crossing.

There it will be sunk into position for subway use in a channel dredged out to a depth thirty feet below the present river bottom. The total weight of the one piece section will be more than 6,500 tons, including 200 tons of steel. It is being built by the Graver Tank and Manufacturing company of Chicago.

Intricate Engineering Job.

Subway engineers say that the State street river crossing project is the most intricate engineering job involved in the whole Chicago subway system. The procedure of sinking the section into place is being used in preference to boring a tunnel under the river because the depth of the tube, if sunk from above, will be considerably shallower than if a tunnel method were used.

Burke explained that if a tunnel were bored at least fifteen feet of earth would be required between the river bottom and the top of the tunnel to prevent a blowout from the high air pressure needed in tunneling.

By building the tube first and sinking the section from the river, he said, only five feet of earth will be needed over the top. The shallower depth will permit the subway to make a more gradual climb and level off at Lake street on the south, where a station platform will be built.

Steps in Work Described.

The steps in sinking the tube were described as follows:

1. The huge tube section will be built watertight and equipped with a temporary prow. It will be towed 15 miles from the dry dock to the State street crossing.

2. Meanwhile, a channel 30 feet deep will be scooped from the river bottom, making a trough 200 feet long and 40 feet wide.

3. The tube will be lowered by pouring enough additional concrete on top to sink it. Steel cables operated from two barges will control the drop. Masts from each end of the tube will show above water as guides.

4. The river bottom will be restored and a coffer dam will be built at each end of the tube. The dams will serve as huge steel boxes to keep out water while connections with the river section of the tube are built. The ends of the river tube will be fitted into the coffer dams and the joints will be sealed watertight by means of concrete collars around the tube.

5. Workmen then will cut out the bulkheads at the ends of the river section. Concrete subway tubes built in the coffer dams will connect with the ends of the 200 foot section, making a continuous tunnel extending to land on each side.

6. The coffer dam job includes the sinking of huge caissons at the sides of the tunnel. They will support the piers for the new State street bridge, which will straddle the subway tunnel.

The sinking is scheduled for November, and the whole river crossing project is to be completed early next year.

How Subway Will Be Built Under River

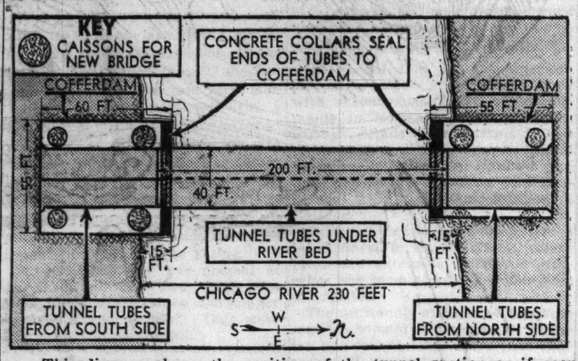
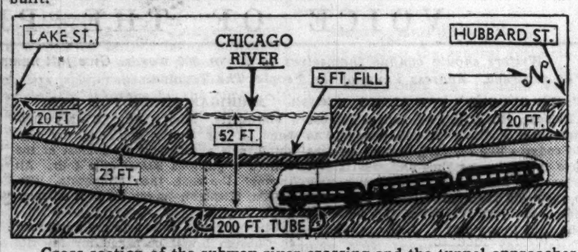
A section of subway tunnel weighing 6,500 tons will be towed from South Chicago and sunk in the Chicago river at State street. Concrete will be poured on top of the double tube to sink it. Steel cables operated from barges at either end will control the sinking. After the submersion sand and clay will be filled in to restore the river bottom. The view is northward.



This diagram shows the position of the tunnel section as if seen from above. Each of the two ends of the tube will fit into a large coffer dam, where connections with additional subway sections will be made in dry ground. Caissons on either side of the tunnel in the coffer dam will serve as supports for piers of the new State street bridge to be built.



Cross section of the subway river crossing and the tunnel approaches to the stream. A gradual climb to the normal subway depth of forty feet will be made on either side from the extra fifteen foot dip necessary to go under the river.

SUBWAY DAMAGE PAYMENTS ARE CALLED UNLIKELY

Property owners who expect to collect from the city for damages resulting from subway construction are facing disappointment, Joshua d'Esposito, project engineer for the Public Works administration, said yesterday. He spoke at the Executives' club luncheon.

"There is bound to be some property damage in the building of as big an improvement as the subway," D'Esposito said. "The courts have held, however, that any damages must be offset by benefits accruing to the owners as the result of the improvement. The benefits will exceed the damages in most cases."

D'Esposito said some settlement of earth and pavement is inevitable in subway construction, and that some old loop buildings probably would have to be torn down because of interference of the subway with foundations. He asserted the low level subways now being built would cause much less disturbance than would a high level tube.

Instructor Killed in Plane Crash at Urbana Airport

Urbana, Ill., Aug. 4 (Special).—Glenard Field of Dakota City, Neb., an airport instructor, was killed, and Harry R. Ely of Fort Collins, Colo., a student flier, was seriously injured in an airplane crash tonight at Urbana airport. The plane crashed from a height of 500 feet but did not burst into flame.

PASSENGER GAIN AT AIRPORT IS 12.5 PCT. IN YEAR

The number of passengers originating or terminating flights on commercial airlines at Chicago airport increased 12.5 per cent during the first six months of this year over the same period of 1938. This was announced yesterday by Walter Wright, superintendent of aviation and small city parks.

There were 8,968 arrivals and 9,044 departures from the field in the first half of 1938. During the current year there have been 10,077 arrivals and 10,189 departures. The report was made to Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt.

FIND BABY LOST FOR 33 HOURS IN RAINY WOODS

Livingstonville, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—David Ellett, 2 years old, unharmed by exposure in rain-drenched mountain woods, was found tonight sitting in a brush area over which 150 civilian conservation corps workers had searched for thirty-three hours.

"I want to go home," the child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Esten Ellett, pleaded tearfully when searchers found him within two miles of the spot from which he wandered yesterday.

State police with two bloodhounds also had searched the woods.

COURT EXPECTED TO O. K. LAWS FOR SUPERHIGHWAYS

Start Test Case on Issue This Fall.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicago and Cook county officials believe that the Illinois Supreme court will validate the $60,000,000 superhighway laws enacted by the general assembly last month. This opinion was expressed yesterday by Philip Harrington, city transportation commissioner; Daniel Ryan chairman of the county's roads and bridges committee, and Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club.

A test case on the constitutionality of the statutes, to be started probably in the Sangamon county [Springfield] Circuit court this fall, will not be a one-sided affair, however. Gov. Horner allowed the bills to become laws without his signature after Attorney General John E. Cassidy gave an opinion to the chief executive saying that the legislation was of doubtful constitutionality.

Duty to Defend Acts.

In a suit to enjoin state officials from issuing any of the notes authorized by the statutes, the attorney general's duty will be to defend the acts of the legislature. He said yesterday that he did not want to comment at this time. He probably will be assisted in the trial by attorneys for Chicago and for Cook county.

The superhighway laws provide that the governor, state treasurer, and state auditor may issue and sell these notes to be retired from shares of the gasoline tax revenue to be allocated to Chicago and Cook county prior to July 1, 1959. No referendum is required.

"The state constitution contains two provisions which must be taken into consideration," said Attorney Braun. "The first of these prohibits the state from contracting an indebtedness greater than $250,000 without approval of a referendum election. The second limits the total indebtedness of any county or city to an amount not exceeding 5 per cent of its taxable property.

Might Be Held State Debt.

"If the notes constitute an indebtedness of the state, the statutes would be invalid because of the failure to provide for a referendum. If the notes constitute an indebtedness of either Cook county or Chicago, increasing the total debt beyond the constitutional limitation, the statutes would be invalid.

"It is my conclusion that the notes would not constitute a debt of the state within the meaning of this prohibitory section of the constitution. The general credit of the state is not pledged to their payment; the holders of such notes may look for payment only to the funds derived from the motor fuel tax fund and allocated to Cook county and to Chicago.

"For this same reason, the notes would not constitute debts of the city of Chicago or of the county of Cook, even if they were issued directly by these political subdivisions. The fact that they are to be issued by the state is reason alone that the notes can not be said to create debts of the city or county."

Levy Called Privilege Tax.

Commissioner Harrington, advised by the corporation counsel's office, explained that the bills were passed on a theory that the motor fuel tax is a privilege tax, a toll measured by the consumption of gasoline for the use of public highways including city streets. The Illinois Supreme court has held that the gasoline excise is a privilege tax.

"The gas tax," said Mr. Harrington, "is a rate or charge to all persons, resident or nonresident, for use of the roads. Future revenue from these rates or charges can be pledged without creating a general obligation against the state just as future revenues from any other public service utility owned and maintained by any municipality may be pledged without creating a general obligation against the municipality.

"Analogous are water bonds, issued without referendum and with the approval of the Supreme court to build water works. The bonds are paid by a metered service charge upon the users, just as the gas tax is a metered service charge on the users of the roads."

ROBBERY BONDS TOTAL $30,000.

Anthony Horvath, 22 years old, who was identified by seventeen persons as one of two bandits who preyed on strollers in Burnham park, was held to the grand jury on three charges of robbery yesterday by Judge Eugene L. McGarry in Felony court. Total bonds were fixed at $30,000.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Joe Louis earned $388,426 for three fights in 1938. How much should he pay in income tax?

Where Answered.

In the loop.

The Answers.

Miss Marion Freebol, 5814 Superior street, nursery school teacher—I think he should pay about a third. That's a good sum for anybody to pay, especially for his occupation. It does not take a great deal of thought, although it does take physical ability. The government plays around with enough money as it is.

Otis Johnson, 1413 West 111th street, a dishwasher—I think Joe Louis ought to pay a thousand dollars to the government willingly. If he made $388,426 in three fights he should pay $1,000 with a free will as income tax because he made so much. He won't even miss it.

Harry Ensminger, 4416 Malden street, broker—He pays 60 per cent by the law, but if I had my say he'd pay 10 per cent and not a cent more. Why give it to Uncle Sam? He can use it as well as Uncle Sam can and better. Also, it'd be in circulation. If I were in his place I wouldn't want Roosevelt to spend it for me. I'd have more fun spending it myself.

Mrs. Dorothy O'Brien, 5635 Pensacola avenue, housewife—About 25 per cent. That's a fair margin. I think he should be entitled to keep about $300,000 for himself because of the expenses he is under for training and so on. His fighting years only last so long and he ought to get all he can while he's at it. I wouldn't want to pay any 60 per cent myself; I couldn't live on the rest.

John O. Sykora, 1818 Highland avenue, real estate broker—About half. I know I'd pay half. I would pay two-thirds. That's a lot of money to be made during the depression. He won three battles and is entitled to it after winning three fights. Yes, he's making plenty of money, but he can't last many years as a fighting man. It's like the movies. You've got to make money while the making is good.

Miss Anne Susen and her brother, William, who live at 410 South Prospect avenue and at 211 Ashland avenue, respectively, in Park Ridge, were back yesterday from a two month big game hunt in Brazil. William Susen is an executive of a dye company at 1963 Southport avenue.

Left in New York was their bag of game to be prepared for their trophy rooms. Included were four jaguars, two apiece, which the South Americans call tigers. The largest, 280 pounds, was shot by Miss Susen. There were also two 24 foot anacondas, numerous ocelots, and a tu-yu-yu, a 6 foot bird that lands like an airplane.

"We traveled for miles in Matto Grosso with our horses belly deep in the Sarayes marsh muck and water," said Miss Susen. "We lost many of our dogs in tiger chases and once a tiger that we had wounded nearly got us both. Our chief guide, Lowro, was a half caste terror with nineteen notches on his gun ,each of which he proudly insisted represented a man he had killed."

3 WORKERS HURT BY EXPLOSION IN ABANDONED TANK

Three men were burned, one critically, yesterday in an explosion in an abandoned tank at the rear of 2713 South Dearborn street. An acetylene torch apparently ignited gasoline fumes in the tank.

Carl Hansen, 27 years old, 4237 Drexel boulevard, was most seriously burned. He was taken to the Michael Reese hospital. The others injured were John Zywicki, 33, of 1811 North Sawyer avenue, and Frederick Grant, 42, 458 West 32d street. They were taken to Wesley Memorial hospital.

All three are employed by the H-G Rubber company, which was moving into the premises. The men were preparing to move the tank when the explosion occurred.

SENATOR TAFT'S CANDIDACY.

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for President. He is the son of a President. His name is widely known. He is also a son of what has been regarded as a strategic political key state. He went to the United States senate in the revulsion against the New Deal in many formerly Republican states in 1938. It is quite natural that he should be thought available for the nomination.

In his letter to the chairman of the Republican county committee in Cincinnati and an interview Senator Taft discussed frankly the troubles a Republican will have when he takes over the debts and liabilities of the New Deal. The New Dealers will leave problems to be liquidated, and even with the country regaining confidence and prosperity, the process will be difficult. Senator Taft does not minimize any of these difficulties. Settlement day will come when the New Deal has been ended but a country with new reason for hope and confidence will help. It was an able letter.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan has announced his candidacy. Senator Taft has done so. It is to be expected that others will follow. It is the proper thing to do. The Republicans of the country should have an early preview of their probabilities and observe the progress the candidates make in the good opinion of the people.

THE MOODY BROTHERS.

Springfield is showing proper pride in the Moody brothers, who set a new world's endurance record for light planes and as this is written are still aloft.

The Moody boys represent a school of flyers that unfortunately has decreased in recent years. It was those flyers, almost invariably with slender finances, who took the risks of the speed, altitude, endurance and other tests that bit by bit widened the horizons of aviation.

With progress in air science, a great deal of modern research has become too costly for private purses, and has demanded the greater resources of corporations. But another reason, and a wholly unjustified one, for the decrease in the private adventures that have contributed so much to aviation advance, has been the hidebound attitude of authorities at Washington.

These burocrats are increasing their authority at every opportunity. They should remember that they contributed nothing to advance aviation to its present position. Being what they are, it is unlikely that they will make substantial contributions to its further advance. The least they can do is to stand aside and refrain from interfering with the men who at their own risk have developed flying and will develop it further if given the opportunity.

FAIR TAX BILLS.

With the signature by Gov. Horner of the preadjudication bill Cook county will make a second attempt to give all taxpayers equitable treatment in the application of tax rate cuts. The present act presumably cures defects in a previous measure that the Supreme court declared unconstitutional.

Uncertainty as to the legality of their tax bills, aggravated by politically motivated acts of judges and other public officials to "help the taxpayers" by reducing taxes after they had been levied and the money anticipated and spent, has long been recognized as an important contributing factor to tax delinquency in this county. Taxpayers who paid their bills promptly and in full found themselves penalized time and again. Those who failed to pay were given various reductions, some of such doubtful legality that review of them by the Supreme court was blocked by legal chicanery. The discouraging effect on tax payments is obvious.

The preadjudication act provides that objections to the legality of tax levies shall be made before the taxes are extended and bills are prepared. The effect will be that all taxpayers will be relieved of paying illegal rates. At present only those who file objections in court are so relieved. Since it is usually not worth while for small taxpayers to object, the new procedure will relieve them of an injustice. It will also make unnecessary millions of changes in tax records that were sometimes ordered as a result of blanket reductions granted after taxes were extended. The physical work of making these changes was expensive and kept tax collecting offices in a constant turmoil.

There is one danger in the preadjudication process: That is that it may encourage the setting up of straw men for the counsel of local governments to knock down and thus validate tax levies that are actually illegal. This is a matter that must be watched, particularly since the advantage to an individual taxpayer who successfully objects to an illegal rate is reduced if the reduction granted goes to all taxpayers.

The bill provides that the preadjudication hearings may be held in the Circuit court, which has twenty judges. Formerly the County court had exclusive jurisdiction. This frequently in the past has interposed a bottleneck in the tax collection process because the county judge was unable to handle the large number of objections filed and refused to delegate such work to judges called in from other counties, as other cases pending in his court are delegated. In so far as it will expedite tax litigation the change is a good one.

UNFAIR TO UNION LABOR.

The Wagner act is a fraud, as any one who knows what is going on in this country can testify.

The law is not promoting peaceful labor relations, as the strikes in Cleveland, Detroit, and at the Green Mountain dam in Colorado, to say nothing of the threatened strikes in the stockyards, attest.

And it is not an instrument to enable employés to organize freely. The latest decision of the labor board in the American Can company case in Brooklyn forbids workmen to choose their own bargaining agency. The plant was organized by the C. I. O. A relatively small number of men employed as engineers, firemen, oilers, and electricians did not wish the C. I. O. to represent them. They preferred to have their own craft unions negotiate for them. This the labor board has refused to countenance. These employés must be represented by the C. I. O., says the board, whether they want to be or not. They may think that the C. I. O. will not make as favorable a deal for them as their own union might obtain, but that is their tough luck. They'll take what they get and like it.

The law says that an employer who coerces a workman into joining a particular union or forbids him to have a union is guilty of unfair labor practice and can be penalized accordingly. There is no quarrel with that provision. It is just, enlightening, and reasonable. But it is equally just, enlightened, and reasonable to forbid any one else to coerce a citizen into joining a labor organization not of his own choosing or to forbid him to have the kind of union representation he desires. There is no practical objection to allowing engineers and electricians to have their own representation if they desire it; thousands of employers are accustomed to dealing with a number of unions in their plants and the practice does not make for strife and does not promote low wages and poor working conditions. On the contrary, some of the best paid industries [printing, for example] are organized in precisely that way.

The simple explanation of the decision is that the Wagner act and its creature, the labor board, are Mr. Roosevelt's payment to John Lewis and the C. I. O. for the half million dollars contributed to the Roosevelt campaign fund. The board does what Mr. Lewis wants it to do to aggrandize him, enrich his treasury, and augment his political power. That is what the board was designed to do, that is what it does do as a rule, and that is what it will continue to do unless the law is amended to prevent abuses and the personnel of the board is changed in the interest of unbiased justice.

TWO KINDS OF ROAD GRAFT.

In the seventeen years from 1921 to 1937 state highway departments alone spent about $14,000,000,000 in state and federal funds to build and maintain highways and bridges. Without graft as good a job probably could have been done for half that sum.

There are two kinds of graft in highway construction. The kind that attracts public attention is rakeoff graft. This consists of kickbacks by contractors to public officials and campaign funds, bribery to influence choice of materials, collusion in condemnation actions, and similar unsavory transactions.

Rakeoff graft, large as it may be in the aggregate, is a drop in a bucket compared with the other form of graft that afflicts all public construction, but highway building in particular. This is the diversion of public funds to serve special interests. It covers the whole field of highway construction, from the graveling of a road past the township road commissioner's farm to the location of superhighways.

The public is defrauded just as certainly when a governor or other official builds an unneeded highway to win votes as it is when a contractor bribes an inspector to approve a road slab of less than specified thickness. In each case it is being denied the utility for which it pays. The only difference is that you can send the contractor to jail if you catch him, but you can't imprison the public official.

Chicago is about to embark on a program of superhighway construction that it has needed sorely, from the standpoints of safety and convenience, for more than a decade. The usefulness of the superhighways will depend largely on the extent to which graft is eliminated in their construction.

Rakeoff graft is to be guarded against, but it is relatively easy to stop. The real danger to the superhighway program is that it may be perverted to serve special interests, with the result that the superhighways, however "honestly" constructed, will not deliver the service properly to be expected from them.

Editorial of the Day

DEMOCRACY IN SPORTS.

[Hartford Courant.]

If democracy is to function anywhere, it ought to function in the field of sports, where what a man does, not what a man is, is the only thing that counts. The meeting at New Britain the other night, where a considerable gathering protested the disbarment of a player in the Connecticut State Baseball league apparently for the sole reason that he is a Negro, was therefore a good sign. Whether or not the disbarred player returns to the field, the protest ought to result in a reversal of the ruling that kept him out of the games following his participation in one, ironically enough, on Memorial day.

In a totalitarian state the disbarment of a player because of his race would be natural enough. The Nazis do not permit either Negroes or Jews to participate in organized athletics, and when a Negro from the United States won an event in the Olympic games a few years ago the fuehrer was so displeased that he declined to award the medal. Perhaps the sponsors of the rule disbarring the Negro from the Connecticut State Baseball league were not aware that they were imitating the fuehrer, but they were, and by their ruling they set a precedent that, in the future, might be cited to justify the disbarment of players of other descent.

Democracy admits of no qualifications; if not lived up to rigorously it becomes dangerously impaired. And in Connecticut particularly, where men of all nationalities and all countries have come to work and to play, any step that leads to erecting barriers between groups and individuals is a blow at the peace and the unity of the community. As good sportsmen, the managers of the Connecticut State Baseball league ought promptly to eliminate a rule that, based on prejudice, derives more from "Mein Kampf" than from the Declaration of Independence.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

DANIEL'S FIRST CASE.

The editorials to the left of us and the Voice of the People to the right of us have been volleying and thundering about "mystery" and detective stories in the Bible. On the left you have heard the tale of Eglon, king of Moab, and his slaying by the crafty Ehud. [Judges iii., 14-26.] On the right, a day or two later, you read about the shrewd detective work of Daniel, who proved that the priests of a Babylonian temple, and not their brazen idol, consumed every night twelve bushels of flour, forty sheep, and fifty gallons of wine. [Bel and the Dragon, in the Apocrypha iii., 22.]

But there is a better story about this father of all detectives, Daniel, to be found in the Apocrypha as "The History of Susanna," generally known as "Susanna and the Elders." Here he rises from elementary technique [strewing ashes to secure footprints of thieving priests] to the Olympian heights of Hercule Poirot, who merely asks a few questions to reveal the culprit. Here he is the tricky cross-examiner of suspects, the human lie detector.

"Susanna and the Elders" is in perfect short story form; it follows all the rules; it has a lovely heroine, an inspired hero, and a pair of hypocritical and conniving villains. Susanna, a beautiful wife in Babylon, was bathing in her garden when two old codgers who had been appointed censors of morals attempted her seduction. If she resisted, they threatened to denounce her as an unfaithful wife, caught with a young man who had escaped.

She screamed for help, and they denounced her. A trial followed, and she was sentenced to death on the testimony of the elders. Then up rose Daniel, saying, "Are ye fools, that without examination or knowledge of the truth ye have condemned a daughter of Israel?"

* * *

He separated the elders and asked each in turn, "Under what tree sawest thou them?" One of the old reprobates said, "A mastick tree" [oriental gum]; the other said, "A holm tree" [evergreen oak].

So the elders were executed instead of Susanna.

AUGUST IN MAINE.

A sleepy little seaport town in Maine
Beckons with snowy sail and brackish air,
Bidding me seek remembered scenes again,
And all the sweet contentment drowsing there.
So I shall go tonight where rip tides leap
O'er rugged rocks; there I will find a place
To kiss the hems of fields of Queen Anne's lace.
'Tis there again Atlantic waves will keep
A tryst with me each summer afternoon,
Whisper to me and soothe me while I sleep
In that fair haven, at the hour of nine
Each morning, three days late, I'll read the Line.

On a bus coming down Sheridan road I heard a Chicago woman calling shots for the benefit of her companion who apparently was from out of town. At Addison street the latter noticed the Alaskan totem pole to the east of the drive and asked about it.

Mr. Chips and the Empire.

Despite its slight discrepancies, "Good-by, Mr. Chips," is the great movie of the year for the simple reason that the British empire is—the British empire. After all, Mr. Chips is the empire, and the generations of schoolboys who passed before his desk are the people of the empire. It's an easy matter to substitute the long reign of Queen Victoria [sixty-four years] for Mr. Chips' reign at Brookfield—and there you have it! Brookfield, I fancy, is a combination of Eton, Rugby, Westminster, and Harrow—and there you have the empire. If America had one or two James Hiltons, we might readily recapture the lost art of—reading. That Fella Down in Streator.

"MAD DOG!"—SOME PRECAUTIONS.

THE cry, "Mad dog!" is heard far less often today than it was two or three generations ago. Nevertheless, rabies is a common disease affecting dogs and all warm blooded animals. It is communicated to human beings, usually through saliva. A bite serves as an immediate method of inoculation. Handling a sick dog without covering the hands and forearms with rubber gloves is dangerous, as pets have a habit of licking even the faces of their owners. There is ample evidence to show that a wound is not necessary for the acquisition of the virus.

We know little about the nature of the poison, although the diagnosis can be made by examining the brains of infected beasts. The presence of certain forms within the cells [Negri bodies] is accepted as proof. These were described many years ago by Adelchi Negri, an Italian physician. Unfortunately, Rover may be a menace several days before he gives the slightest sign of illness. All of which means that particularly during the rabies season—the warmer months—we should discourage the lapping propensities of our household favorites.

What precautions may be observed? At one time it was thought that the rabid canine always was vicious — racing through the streets, foaming at the mouth, and snapping at everything and everybody. If one's pet suddenly becomes fierce and hard to manage or if, ordinarily pugnacious, he develops overnight a docile disposition, look out for him. He should be confined and left alone, as this may be a period of brain irritation.

Sooner or later paralysis of the muscles which govern chewing and swallowing will appear. This causes the lower jaw to hang downward so that the mouth is partly open with the tongue protruding. The eyes have a peculiar stare and the tone of the voice, in barking or whining, is altered. Since movements of the throat are impossible, there may be drooling from the mouth, although in some cases the oral cavity is quite dry. Because he is suffering from a brain disease [encephalitis] and is delirious, he may bite or snap at anything that comes within reach. He rarely will go out of his way to make an attack, but if disturbed will resent in no uncertain terms even the kindly ministrations of his master. After two or three days he becomes lethargic, dull, and finally unconscious. Recovery among dogs is unknown.

Should a person be bitten or suffer a laceration, we must make sure that the cause thereof is penned up and watched for the development of symptoms noted above. If he dies the brain should be examined for evidence of this dread malady. As promptly as possible the lesion should be cauterized thoroughly with strong nitric acid. If a physician is not immediately available the material can be obtained from the nearest drug store and applied with a glass rod to all parts of the wound, special pains being taken to reach all recesses and pockets. A tooth puncture should be opened surgically—a sharp razor blade will suffice. This will enable the acid to reach the bottom of the channel. It also is important that the edges of the skin be covered completely. Pasteur's method of prevention then should be resorted to. This means a number of injections over a period of several weeks. The vaccine should be secured from a laboratory of sound reputation and known scientific accuracy.

Statistics from the state of Indiana carry a substantial lesson. In the twelve and one-half years from January, 1926, to June, 1938, the diagnosis of rabies was made in the state health laboratory on 6,172 specimens. During the same interval 7,659 persons received the Pasteur treatment. In all, forty humans died. Only 5 per cent of them had had their wounds cauterized.

How does it affec the human body?

As in certain other virus disorders, symptoms arise in the nervous system. The poison travels from the superficial nerves to the spinal cord and thence to the brain. Thus we can understand that if an abrasion occurs on the foot or the lower leg it will require longer for the trouble to become apparent than if the injury is about the neck, head, or face. Two to six weeks may elapse from the time the virus is introduced until there are manifestations.

We are in the season when, at least for the next month or two, we must exercise due vigilance not to expose ourselves to sick animals—domestic or wild. If Rover contracts hydrophobia, don't blame him, for he is seriously ill.

CAUSES OF TOOTH DECAY.

B. J. writes: What food elements are lacking to cause numerous cavities in the teeth along the gum margin? I have been told that it is due to an acid condition. I use a pint of milk and one orange each day.

REPLY.

Tooth decay no doubt is due to a combination of factors, chief of which are the following: [1] An acid condition of the mouth occasioned by poor mouth hygiene and a diet high in starches and sweets; [2] a diet deficient in vitamins and minerals; [3] some disturbance of the body mechanism which prevents the absorption of these materials. You may need more calcium and vitamins. Cleanse the mouth frequently.

SINUS OPERATION.

F. D. writes: What is a radical antrum operation? Would X-ray be of any help in showing just what the condition is before submitting to surgery?

REPLY.

A procedure which provides a sufficiently large opening for the drainage of pus from an infected sinus. As a rule, an X-ray examination will show the true state of affairs.

"OLD CODGER" FOR ALTHO, ETC.

Delavan, Ill., Aug. 3.—Go ahead and use that short spelling. It will look odd to old codgers like me [79], but all reforms have to start some time and now is just as good as any other. The English stick to their old spelling. Honour and a lot more. Do you remember the humorist who used to say B4? J. G. CONNELL.

STEP TOWARD WORLD LANGUAGE.

Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 2.—Please count my vote for "tho," "altho," and "thru." Thirty years' experience in teaching English to foreigners has made clear that the silent letters constitute one of the greatest difficulties in mastering our language. With a little intelligent simplification English could attain an undisputed position as a world language.

HERMANN S. FICKE,
University of Dubuque, Department of English.

"YES"; IT IS SENSIBLE.

Fayette, Ia., Aug. 2. — Please adopt "altho, tho, thru" as part of your simplified spelling list. They are very sensible and already partially recognized.

HARRY MONGOLD.

SEES NO OBJECTION.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—To some of your present new spelling I take objection and have wondered why you did not begin with tho, altho, and thru, to which I can see no objection. JOHN F. LYNCH.

EVENTUALLY; WHY NOT NOW?

Chicago, Aug. 2.—By all means let the world's greatest newspaper adopt the simplified spelling for tho, altho, and thru. These spellings are already in use to some extent and are sure to come into general use in time. Why not speed the time? B. F. AFFLECK.

MURDER ON THE HIGHWAY.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Last Saturday night three lives were claimed by the grim reaper, and why? Just because a driver who just couldn't wait rattled the driver of the car ahead. Nobody knows just who he was and probably they will never find out. We hope the driver who caused the accident will quit driving for, after all, he has killed three people. The three victims were young and full of life, and to give them up to the grim reaper is not exactly fair, just because the party was in a hurry and couldn't wait. Murder on the highway is all it is.

I am thinking not only of the three dead and the one in the hospital, I am thinking of the engineer of the freight that hit the car—it isn't a pretty sight to see a car go under your wheels.

PRICE OF A HAIRCUT.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—In answer to the plea of "A WPA Worker," the majority of the journeyman barbers fully realize that 75 cents is entirely too much to pay for a haircut and also that 35 cents is too high for a child's haircut. The prices and hours are set by the Master Barbers and the journeymen barbers abide by these rules. If 50 cent haircuts for adults and 25 cents for children would go into effect, every one would gain by it.

Is it because the British are involved and not the Germans?

MICHIGAN SHORE FOR HER.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 3.—My husband, I, my Scotty dog, and my big, shiny, new automobile are almost at the end of a glorious 20,000 mile tour. All through the east, then Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan—every bit of it entrancing!

The moment I return to my apartment in Chicago I will be asked my favorite spot. Bar Harbor? Cape Cod? New York's Finger lakes? The Catskills? No, no! The lovellest, most breath-taking, most romantic bit of heaven is right here on Chicago's own Lake Michigan. Yes, you've guessed it! Or then, again, have you?

It's the Petoskey-Harbor Springs region of northern Michigan, on Little Traverse bay. Ordinarily I should say that the Bay of Naples is the world's most beautiful body of water, but as I am intensely American of late I'll substitute Little Traverse. All the resorts on the bay are in a ten mile radius: Petoskey, Bay View, Ramona Park, Roaring Brook, Wequetonsing, Harbor Springs, Harbor Point—each different from the other but all gay, exciting, and overrun with the finest, friendliest Chicagoans you can find anywhere outside Chicago itself.

The Little Traverse Bay region will make you glad merely to be alive!

MRS. C. R. L.

FOR THE ROOSEVELT ARCHIVES.

Chicago, July 30.—The Hatch bill, providing for keeping political jobholders out of political activities, is before the President for his signature.

A statement made by Mr. Roosevelt with reference to this bill at a recent press conference should be put in writing, preserved, and prominently exhibited with his other papers in the Roosevelt memorial for the people [more properly by the people] at his Hyde Park estate.

This paper would serve future generations of students of oratory and political legerdemain. Mr. Roosevelt is quoted as saying: "I am absolutely in favor of the objectives of the bill, but am concerned over the specific effects."

J. W. HARRISON.

FOOD BARGAIN AT THE FAIR.

Morrison, Ill., Aug. 3.—I see you published the cost of a meal at the New York World's Fair. You gave one extreme. Here's another:

I bought a big hotdog for 10 cents and a big cup of root beer for the same price and went down the street enjoying life. By the time I had exhausted those I ran into Heinz's exhibit. Result: Free soup, free milk at a nearby milk exhibit, and not so far off Kraft's cheese—free cheese.

My well balanced evening meal cost me 20 cents and I enjoyed it all.

ALBERTUS PERRY,
Minister Methodist Episcopal church.

P. S.: I'm going to try it again next week.

ON THE BUSINESS HORIZON.

Chicago, Aug. 2. — We are beginning to see a little daylight again on the business horizon. The stock market is going up, steel production is up, power consumption is up. There is the making of a definite building boom; private investment capital is coming out of hiding.

But all this sounds too good to last very long. As soon as business starts to show a little profit we see signals for cutting this down. Newspaper headlines: "C. I. O. Eyes Little Steel," "C. I. O. to Invade the Building Field," "General Motors Factories Shut Down Due to Strikes," "C. I. O. and the Packing Industry Girding for a Fight," "A. F. L. and C. I. O. Fight Each Other for Recognition," "One Killed and Many Hurt in Battle Between Strikers and Nonstrikers," etc.

Is it not possible for the New Dealers to profit by past experiences and sanction diplomacy and coöperation instead of hate and that dog-eat-dog attitude that has governed disputes among labor unions and between labor and capital? Why not give the man looking for a job a break by giving those who would hire him a break? STANLEY A. JACQUES.

A WORD FOR MRS. HEFFERAN.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—We of the Chicago Woman's Aid, a civic organization of about 1,000 women, are vitally interested in all matters pertaining to the just, honest, and efficient administration of the Chicago public schools. We feel that the unpleasant situation which has arisen in connection with the examinations of the Teachers' college is very unfortunate.

We have known and carefully observed Mrs. Hefferan through her many years of unselfish, devoted service to the community as a member of the board of education. Her past record clearly indicates that her sole purpose always has been to improve the educational opportunities of the school children of Chicago.

Since we do not know the facts and circumstances concerning the present controversy we, of course, are not attempting to pass judgment, but we do feel that it is regrettable that the motive of one who has proved her sterling worth in public service should be questioned. BELLE-FRANCES R. SAHUD,
Corresponding Secretary.

SLEEPING ON LAKE FRONT.

Chicago, July 31. — Sleeping out in Grant park these nights is no great hardship. To me the only worry is about the "ham and" in the morning. No cops molest you. Just spread out a couple of TRIBUNES on the grass, and so spend the night. Why, I didn't even see a murder or a holdup committed.

The night finished with a happy ending. I got a job as a dishwasher in a Greek restaurant. I was glad of that, because a series of open air nights would have meant insufferable boredom.

FRANCO FASTENS GRIP ON SPAIN BY ONE-PARTY RULE

Gives Fascists Complete Control of Government.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Aug. 4.—Generalissimo Francisco Franco today announced reorganization of the Falange Espanola—Spain's Fascist party-government organization—on a permanent footing, suspending all admissions to active membership for the next five years except to [illegible] veterans.

A decree specifies that hereafter no one will be admitted to active membership without five years' probation as an associate member. The only exceptions will be those who performed extraordinary service during the war.

The most significant change decreed for the party is a rule to bar late comers from trying to get on the band wagon now that the Falange has full control of the country. The Falange dominates the government to the exclusion of all other groups.

Increase Grand Council.

The number of members of the Falange's grand council was increased from fifty to seventy-five. The council is purely an advisory body and is unable to legislate. It gives advice to Franco but does not have the power to tell him what he shall do.

Reorganization of the Falange comes while the nation is waiting to hear what changes will be made in the cabinet. A shakeup, expected since the end of the war, is imminent and may be announced any day.

Among other moves, the defense ministry is expected to be split into two or three sections as in most other countries. The new cabinet lineup probably will confirm the grip of the Falangists on the nation's government.

The statutes announced today were approved a year ago, except for the membership point. Their publication formally established them as official.

Set up Two New Groups.

The statutes also establish two new party groups under the auspices of the Falange, one for ex-soldiers and the other for former political prisoners. Among the latter is the nation's No. 2 leader, Ramon Serrano Suner, minister of interior, press, and propaganda, who did not fight but passed several months in a Madrid prison before he managed to escape to Nationalist territory.

They set up special services to handle all important phases of government—foreign affairs, education, press, propaganda, social work, labor unions, and other functions.

Is Militant Movement.

The Falange Espanola, says the decree, "is a militant movement inspirer and the basis of the Spanish state which assumes the task of returning to Spain the profound feeling of indestructible unity of destiny and faith, of establishing an economic régime superior to the interests of the individual, group, or class, for multiplication of wealth in the service of the state, of social justice and of Christian liberty of the individual."

On the basis of the wide powers given by the party-state system, the statutes for the party are virtually statutes for the government of Spain.

Queen of England Is 39; Celebrates Day Quietly

Gimp's Daughter Dies

EDITH SNYDER.

Miss Edith Snyder, who supported her stepmother, Ruth Etting, against her father, Martin [The Gimp] Snyder, in his trial for attempted murder, died yesterday in the St. Clair hotel.

Miss Snyder, who was 22 years old, came to Chicago last spring suffering from an ulcerated lesion of the heart valves. Since June 30 she had been living with Mr. and Mrs. Max Halperin in the hotel. Halperin, a theatrical agent, was her godfather.

Her mother, Mrs. Edith Coyne, was with her when she died. Her father is in jail in Los Angeles pending the outcome of his appeal from a six month to twenty year sentence for attempting to kill Myrl Alderman, the present husband of Miss Etting.

Snyder's daughter was present at the shooting. She had been Miss Etting's secretary since the singer divorced Snyder in 1937. They were married in Chicago in 1922.

FEAR RENEWAL OF IRISH SABOTAGE IN NEW BOMB BLASTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—An explosion in a box of letters being unloaded from a mail truck and a fire in a letter box today caused England to fear renewal of sabotage by the outlawed Irish republican army. The blast and fire, which occurred at Preston and Blackburn, in northwestern England, were the first hints of a revived terrorist campaign since July 25 when one man was killed in an explosion at the King's Cross railroad station. Blasts at Bradford and Halifax also were reported. Adoption of the deportation act, aimed at Irish army suspects, has kept activities attributed to the organization dormant for the last week.

BRITISH SAILORS MUTINY AGAINST FOOD; 31 IN PRISON

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—"Mutiny" on the Blue Star liner Napier Star against hot pot—the British version of beef stew—has sent thirty-one sailors to jail for six weeks.

Prosecutors charged at the trial that the uprising occurred May 1 at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, and delayed sailing an hour and a half as the crew members, in effect, held the ship to ransom until they were promised bacon and eggs.

The captain said the hot pot tasted all right to him but the sailors contended it wasn't "fit for a dog to eat."

Priest Who Saved the Life of Mussolini in War Dies

COMO, Italy, Aug. 4 (AP).—Don Francesco Redaelli, a parish priest, who saved Premier Mussolini's life in the world war, died today. He was 54 years old. Father Redaelli helped carry Mussolini from a battlefield on the Carso front when he was wounded by a grenade. With forty-two wounds, the future duce of Fascism was in serious condition and it was believed he might not have survived except for the aid of the priest.

MOB OF CHINESE INVADES BRITISH FIRM; WRECKS IT

Hurls Smashed Equipment Into River at Tientsin.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4 (AP).—The sacking of a British company's offices in Tientsin today was the biggest development in the anti-foreign campaign in China which, many signs indicated, might soon take a turn against Americans.

A mob of Chinese, said by Britons to have been Japanese-instigated, attacked the Tientsin offices of the British International Export corporation, smashed all moveable equipment and tossed it into the Hai river.

Report American Protest.

The belief that an anti-American campaign might be imminent grew with unconfirmed reports of developments in Kaifeng, Honan province. Though details were lacking, it was understood American Consul-General Clarence J. Spiker in Hankow had protested to the Japanese consulate-general against anti-Americanism in Kaifeng.

Britons recently have been forced by Japanese to leave Kaifeng, where there are extensive American properties and some American commercial enterprises.

The unfriendly attitude of Japanese sentries toward Americans in Tsingtao has roused fears there that they soon will be victims of the anti-foreign campaign. Reports circulated that Japanese consulates would refuse further permits to Americans for travel in the Japanese-occupied sections of China in retaliation for America's abrogation of its 1911 trade treaty with Japan.

Suppress Anti-British News.

Going against the general anti-British trend, Japanese authorities imposed restrictions on Tientsin Chinese-language newspapers against the publication of anti-British news, which has been extensive since the blockade against the British concession in Tientsin was imposed June 14. Some observers believed the order might have resulted from the British-Japanese negotiations in Tokio, where Britain insisted unfriendly propaganda must cease before important issues could be discussed.

Infiltration of Chinese irregulars into the Shanghai-Nanking area in preparation for major fighting was reported by Chinese sources which said troops were getting ready to attack railways, arsenals, and Japanese bases in the region under nominal Japanese control since early in 1938.

Charges Pressure on Japan.

TOKIO, Aug. 4 (AP).—A high government official accused America and Great Britain today of joint pressure on Japan and declared events are forcing Japan toward a military alliance with Germany and Italy.

It was stated that conclusion of a German-Italian-Japanese pact might come at any moment, though ignorance was professed concerning the meeting in Italy of the Japanese envoys to Rome and Berlin, Toshio Shiratori and Lieut. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima.

[Rome dispatches said the ambassadors had cabled a detailed report to Tokio after a two day conference in which Stefani—official Italian news agency — said they "discussed the question of the Tokio government's adherence to the Italian-German alliance."]

The official said by the forcing events he meant Washington's action in abrogating the 1911 American-Japanese trade treaty and British resistance toward settlement of currency issues in the conference here on the Tientsin dispute.

AN INTIMATE LOOK AT MARS CONFIRMS PLANT LIFE THEORY

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—Studies of Mars made on its recent approach to the earth "now make it difficult to continue to believe that life on the earth is a result of some special unique act of creation," Dr. H. Spencer Jones of the Royal observatory said today.

Mars on July 27 made its nearest approach to the earth in fifteen years, and astronomers are winding up their studies of data collected during the planet's visit.

Their observations strengthened the belief already held by many that there is plant life on the planet.

Hence, Dr. Jones observed:

"The question of whether there is any animal life on Mars is of relatively minor importance compared with the new reasonably certain evidence there is vegetation.

"The bridge between animal and plant life would seem to be much narrower than the bridge between no life and plant life."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—A terrific gas explosion today rocked London's wholesale district, injuring more than 100 persons and shaking ancient St. Paul's cathedral as it wrecked a vacant five story building.

The blast was believed set off by a fire alarm system short circuited while the building sank and severed a gas main. The building, being demolished, burned after the explosion.

Many of the injured were girl clerks and stenographers who were given first aid for cuts and bruises on the scene. Other injured persons fled to St. Paul's cathedral, nearby, where their injuries were treated. The famous stained glass windows of the cathedral were not broken by the blast but it was feared the church building, parts of which date back to 1066, may have been damaged.

JAPANESE JAIL BRITISH CHURCH CONGREGATION

PEKING, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Japanese method of getting British missionaries out of Shansi province was described today by American travelers from Tayuanfu.

They said a church was surrounded during services and the entire Chinese congregation was arrested on leaving. After three days in jail the women and children were released and the missionaries were told "an unpleasant fate" awaited the men unless the church workers left.

The sixteen Britons then closed their mission and hospital and departed. Floods have stranded them in Hopei province for several days.

Toronto Police Raid Centers of Race Track Information

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 4.—Alleged race track betting information institutions in Toronto, including the Canadian Racing and Financial News, were raided by Toronto police tonight. The police said M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, is the owner of the Canadian Racing and Financial News and head of the Nation-Wide News Service. Police claimed that Annenberg's alleged racing information service employed eighteen telephone operators and contained more than a hundred lines, with private leased wire connections to Chicago and New York.

FRANCE STANDS BEHIND BRITAIN, JAPAN IS TOLD

Paris Proposes It Be Included in Parley.

PARIS, Aug. 4 (AP).—France stepped into the British-Japanese negotiations for settlement of China issues with a notice to Tokio today that French interests were linked with those of Great Britain.

Charles Arsene Henry.
[Acme Photo.]

The foreign ministry disclosed that Charles Arsene Henry, French ambassador to Tokio, had visited the Japanese foreign office to point out formally the unity of French and British interests in the orient.

Offers to Join Parley.

He was understood to have expressed French readiness to participate in the British-Japanese talks, converting the Tokio conference into a three power parley.

A similar notice was said to have been given to London, promising that the French government would take a stand identical with that of Britain.

This was in response to a British inquiry as to France's position concerning deposits of Chinese silver in French and British banks in the British concession at Tientsin. Japan has demanded that the silver be turned over to its puppet régime at Peking. Britain replied it could not act because French interests were involved.

PROPOSES JOINT FLEET

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's intimation in the house of commons today that Great Britain might send a fleet to the far east as a result of unsettled conditions there brought a suggestion from John Morgan, Labor member, that the British and American fleets be combined under command of an American admiral to keep order in the orient.

"I would regard it as a first class move if we allowed an American admiral to be in charge of a joint fleet in the far east and coördinate our military resources," Morgan said.

Chamberlain's statement, which he described as "not a threat, only a warning," was interpreted by the progovernment British press as indicating a stiffening of the government's attitude toward Japan. But in informed circles it was declared that in the present stage of international tension there is little likelihood of Chamberlain weakening Britain's armed forces in the European arena by sending vessels to the east.

Admiral Criticizes Policy.

Sir Roger Keyes, admiral of the fleet and a member of Chamberlain's own party, sharply criticized the government's far east policy. He said that if stronger action had been taken earlier, the risks now being run would not have arisen. He declared that if sufficient ships were in the east at present to enable some to be sent wherever threats to trade existed, and that if the admiral on the spot would be given a free hand, British prestige soon would be revived.

Chamberlain said Japanese insults to Britons made his blood boil, but followed his remarks about sending a fleet to the far east by stating:

"We would much rather settle our differences with the Japanese by discussion and negotiation, provided we can do so without sacrificing what we conceive to be fundamental considerations and principles, than to do it by threats of force."

SOUTH AMERICAN LAW ON COPYRIGHT VOTED; PARLEY IS ADJOURNED

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug. 4 (AP).—The South American conference on international law which approved a project on intellectual property, or copyrights, stipulating newspaper articles could be reprinted by others provided the name of the newspaper was mentioned, adjourned last night until Feb. 5, 1940. The sessions began July 18.

In the intellectual property proposal, signatory states will undertake to guarantee the copyright of any work which is an intellectual creation, comprising literature, music, engineering works, drawings, paintings, sculpture, architecture, etchings, photographs, lithographs, and moving pictures.

The proposed agreement would provide that illegal reproductions of works which are legally protected could be seized by the authorities of the signatory states. It would be effective for an indefinite period, but any signatory could cancel it by giving two years' notice.

REVEAL LAWYER'S BIG INCOME AFTER LOAN FOR MANTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 4.—Over the vigorous protests of the defense, the government today placed in the record income figures for Louis S. Levy, prominent lawyer, fighting disbarment for his relations with Martin T. Manton, ex-judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals, convicted of conspiracy.

United States Attorney John T. Cahill showed that Levy had an income of $1,396,000 from his law practice in the seven years following a $250,000 loan that he helped to arrange. The loan found its way into Judge Manton's business enterprises. Thirty days after the loan was made, Manton ruled favorably for Levy's client, the American Tobacco company, in a $10,000,000 stockholders' suit against its officers.

The government introduced the income figures to show that Levy had funds with which to repay the loan but never did so.

FATHER OF TWO, A NAZI REFUGEE, HANGS HIMSELF

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Albert Aaron, German refugee whose wife died July 12 of an overdose of sleeping tablets, was found hanging today from the door of his apartment in Kew Gardens.

Police Detective Patrick Brennan said Aaron left a note to his sons, Daniel, 14 years old, and Frank, 11, saying: "I am going out of your life to meet your mother." Neighbors said the boys were attending a summer camp somewhere in New Jersey.

Aaron, an attorney from Glisse, near Frankfort, Germany, came here twenty-two months ago.

DANZIGERS BUILD BRIDGE AS LINK TO EAST PRUSSIA

Path for Possible Troop Movement Seen.

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Aug. 4 (AP).—A new pontoon bridge floated at a Danzig dock tonight ready to be thrown across the Vistula river and fill the most serious gap in land communications between the Free City of Danzig and German East Prussia.

The bridge, about twenty-five feet wide and supported by twenty-four pontoons, will connect the two Free State communities of Kaesmark and Rotebude, the latter some twelve miles from the East Prussian frontier.

Informed foreign circles regarded the bridge as having significance as a possible avenue for troop transportation from East Prussia to the Free City, whose Nazi-dominated government has declared its desire to return to the reich.

OFFER TRADE WAR PEACE

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Aug. 4.—Poland is willing to call it quits in the oleomargarine war if Danzig will do likewise. That was the essence of a note from the Polish foreign office to the Danzig senate this afternoon. The note was delivered by the Polish high commissioner, Marian Chodacki, to the senate's president, Arthur Greiser.

Specifically, the note said that the Polish government is willing to rescind its decree considering the products of the huge Amada fatstuffs factory as foreign merchandise. It will, therefore, send its customs inspectors back to the Amada factory so that they can certify that all its products are manufactured inside the Free State.

Wants Pledge of Coöperation.

But first, the Polish government wants assurance from the senate that these inspectors will not be hampered and also a general pledge from the senate that it will adopt a more coöperative attitude than it has been observing lately.

The note rejected the senate's protest against the number of Polish customs inspectors inside the Free State territory. The senate had claimed that there were at least twice as many inspectors as were needed and that more than half of these were industrial and military spies.

The tone of the whole note, while firm, was not sharp nor unfriendly. This was interpreted as indicating that both sides were anxious to avoid taking any decisive steps.

Boycott Is Charged.

Welfare organizations in cities of northwest Poland were reported to be collecting foodstuffs and shipping them into the free state to relieve the distress of some hundreds of Polish customs, railway, postal, and administrative employés and their families.

Some of these complained they were literally starving as the result of a boycott by Danzig merchants, who, it is charged, refuse to sell any Pole even the most elementary necessities.

Australia Gets Twice as Many Immigrants in Year

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

CANBERRA, Australia, Aug. 4.—Nearly twice as many immigrants were admitted to Australia during the fiscal year ended June 30 than in the previous fiscal year, it was revealed in official figures today. The total was 12,309 against 6,769. Jews increased from 570 to 4,638, due to an agreement to admit 15,000 refugees by 1941. There were 1,159 Polish, 2,896 Italian, and 156 British immigrants during the year.

BACK OF THE STATUS QUO

By CALEB

IT IS customary to speak glibly of an organization in good running order as "a going concern." Since it functions quietly and smoothly; since its services dovetail neatly together . . . its whole equilibrium is taken for granted, as one takes for granted the sun's morning arrival, or the sequence of months on the calendar.

Applied to a great store, this "existing condition of things"—this status quo—is purposely kept within the confines of routine. Thus, shopping (the store's real function, from the public's point of view) can be made an affair of prompt, pleasant, undistracted despatch. Yet behind that exterior of efficient retailing must be carried on a business entirely different—one that in itself requires a large organization, expertly directed to a purpose unrelated to merchandising. . . . This is the business of maintenance.

Ice machines, for example, with a daily capacity of 200 tons, must constantly supply refrigeration for fur storage vaults, drinking fountains, and tea room kitchens. Boilers that annually consume 20,000 tons of coal must be kept ceaselessly on the job to provide for power needs. Electric current sufficient to light a residential city of 40,000 people must be kept flowing to sixty acres of building-space. Huge pumps, supplying a million gallons of water daily, must perform their job of washing 600,000 cubic feet of air per minute for the ventilating system.

Pneumatic tubes—some 25 miles of them—must be kept shuttling some 4,000 carriers on service errands to every part of the establishment. A battery of 45 elevators that travel around 500 miles per day must be manned and systematically operated to carry a hundred thousand or more passengers on their store travels. Two complete electrically-operated escalator systems from basement to ninth floor, with an hourly capacity of 16,000 to 21,000 passengers, must also be kept in uninterrupted motion. Besides an organized fire department, some 35,000 automatic sprinklers must be in instant readiness for emergency use.

All these are but major features in a business which, while separate from, is vitally necessary to, the primary business of service to the shopping public. Is it any wonder we sometimes feel impelled to pay our respects to this organization which, unseen by outside eyes, successfully maintains the status quo for thousands of employes and hundreds of thousands of customers?

MILLINER WINS FESTIVAL HONOR ON NORTH SIDE

Russian Girl Chosen Best Mezzo Soprano.

Festival Tickets!

Reserved seats for the Chicagoland Music Festival are now on sale at 50 cents and $1 each. They may be obtained by mail [make check or money order payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.] or by calling at the Tribune public service bureaus at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune tower lobby.

Twenty years ago, when Anna Elvove was a girl in Minsk, Russia, she listened to the sad Russian songs and the gay gypsy songs. Then she sang them for herself.

Last night Anna sang again. This time it was before an audience of 550 in the Edgewater Beach hotel in the north side vocal solo preliminaries to the tenth annual Chicagoland Music festival. And when Anna and the other mezzo sopranos had all sung the judges voted hers the best voice.

Anna is 28 years old and lives at 1364 Estes avenue. She helps with the household expenses by making hats for a milliner. But even while she works she hums little songs to herself. And while she cleans and dusts her home, she says, she hums and practices.

Hopes to Sing in Opera.

Anna says she sings happy music when she's happy and sad music to make her cry when she's sad. Mountains and water are her favorite audiences, and she feels that she sings her best when inspired by them.

Her ambition is to sing in opera one day. She has been trying for three years to win in her division of the Chicagoland festival. Two years ago she won first in the north side preliminaries and last year she was second. This year she would like nothing better than to win first place in the entire festival.

Other winners of the north side preliminaries were:

ALIEN RELIEFER'S RAP AT AMERICA AROUSES COURT

A man who is not a citizen but who accepts relief funds paid out of taxpayers' money should be the last person to criticize the United States, declared Judge Mason S. Sullivan yesterday in the Stockyards court. He made the remark in assessing a fine of $25 against Martin Polivatis, 69 years old, 5602 South Newland avenue, for disorderly conduct.

Polivatis came to America from Lithuania in 1911, is not a citizen, and has been on relief five years. It was testified that he struck his landlord, Martin Volatis, with a length of pipe in a quarrel in which Volatis censured him for taking relief while not a citizen. Volatis asserted that Polivatis denounced America.

Although the Works Projects administration bars aliens from its rolls, the state relief law under which Polivatis receives aid draws no distinction between citizens and aliens.

2 CHICAGO GUARD REGIMENTS MOVE ON 'ENEMY' FORCE

Camp Grant, Ill., Aug. 4 [Special].—Two of Chicago's infantry regiments, the 131st, commanded by Col. John M. Richman, and the 132d, commanded by Col. Le Roy E. Nelson, in training here with other regiments of the Illinois National Guard, engaged today in a spectacular combat problem which will not be concluded until early tomorrow morning.

The 131st in assault moved out of camp first with full field equipment to attack an "enemy" force. The attack involved a crossing of the Kishwaukee river. Later in the day the 132d in reserve moved to support the atacked.

New York, Aug. 4 [Special].—The popularity of jitterbug antics is being challenged by a new dance imported from England called the "boomps-a-daisy." Its inventor, Dorothy Norman Cropper, told a meeting of the Dancing Masters of America, before which it was presented, that it is quite dignified despite its insistence on bustle bending. Ruth Mason of Newark, N. J., and Carlton Richardson of Athol, Mass., gave a demonstration, yodeling the routine: "Hands, knees, and boomps-a-daisy, I like a bustle that bends; hands, knees, and boomps-a-daisy, what is a boomp between friends!"

More than six minutes passed. Tulupan became alarmed and found Bittner floating unconscious. Tulupan towed him ashore and started artificial respiration. Dr. J. A. Ross, village president of Wauconda, administered adrenalin and said last night Bittner probably would recover. He lives at Church street and Railroad avenue in Morton Grove.

ASK COUNCIL AID FOR AIRPORT ON LAKE CALUMET

Needed in Campaign for Plane Factories.

As part of the city's program to make Chicago a center of aviation manufacturing as well as of air transportation, the city council on Tuesday will be asked to raise $12,500 to create airport and seaplane facilities at the northern end of Lake Calumet on the Illinois-Indiana state line.

The facilities are needed by the Howard Aircraft company, which proposes to build an aircraft manufacturing plant on what is now swamp land at the northern tip of the lake. The company is asking the city to fill a strip along the western shore of the lake and roll out a cinder airplane runway 2,500 feet long and 500 feet wide.

Wants to Ask Federal Aid.

Aldermen William A. Rowan [10th] and Arthur G. Lindell [9th] have prepared a resolution asking that Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, be authorized to seek federal assistance in raising these funds.

"The Howard company is the city's only aircraft manufacturing unit," said Lindell. "It has been asked to move to Indianapolis and Elgin, where rent free sites are offered. However, company officials say they will stay in Chicago if they are assured of a runway for their ships at Lake Calumet.

"Their plant is now in the Clearing Industrial district, and they have to test their planes on Chicago airport which is far too busy for this kind of work. The company has just sold a stock issue of approximately a million dollars and proposes now to begin building military and commercial planes in addition to the private planes it has been turning out."

Supported by A. of C.

The aldermen's action is backed by the Chicago Association of Commerce, which has been trying to help the Howard company find a site at Chicago. Denis Mulligan, the association's new aviation expert; B. W. DeWeese, general manager of the Howard company, and Aldermen Lindell and Rowan talked over the proposal with Commissioner Hewitt yesterday.

Approximately 140,000 cubic yards of fill would be required to provide the airport site. The area to be filled now is swamp with an average water depth of one foot. Some dredging would be necessary to provide seaplane channels.

MICHIGAN STATE OFFICIAL BRAVES N. Y. TEMPTATIONS

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly of Michigan, who came here to represent Gov. Luren Dickinson, declined cocktails today at a luncheon in his honor at the New York World's Fair. Since he attended a governors' conference in New York recently, Gov. Dickinson has been warning young folks of liquor's "hellish brink." Kelly made it plain that he didn't have any constitutional objection to drinking, just remarking, "I'm not a noonday drinker."

All day long there were chances aplenty to toss off a tall cold one, but Secretary Kelly declined, indicating at the same time he objected not at all to drinking in its proper place.

Finally, resting in his hotel suite as he chatted with visitors, he took one swallow of a long Scotch and soda that had been sweating its icy glass for a good half hour. With a smile for the guests who had been teasing him gently, Kelly said: "Liquor has never been a problem in my life."

LIVES ON RELIEF WHILE DABBLING IN STOCKS; JAILED

Woman Aided by Social Worker's Leniency.

The story of a woman who was living on relief while she played the stock market was told yesterday to Judge Gibson Gorman by Attorney G. B. Foley, representing the Chicago Relief administration. When the story had been told the woman pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three months in the house of correction and was ordered to repay more than $1,000 relief she received.

The woman is Miss Esther English, 46 years old, a former clerk in the social service office at the county hospital and once a teacher on the Work Projects administration adult education program. She lived at 11 West Erie street.

Signs Her Own Bond.

Miss English was arrested on April 14. According to the testimony of W. O. Ellis, a special CRA fraud investigator, she admitted owning securities worth $900. She was allowed to sign her own bond in Women's court, Foley said, at the urging of Mrs. Ethel McDowell.

Mrs. McDowell is the chief of the professional social workers in the Municipal courts.

Miss English failed to appear for trial in May and she was rearrested. She was released again on her own bond as a matter of routine. It was necessary to rearrest her early this week in order to have her in court yesterday. In an earlier case Judge Gorman remarked that it costs the city $90 every time a warant is issued.

A postal employé testified that Miss English had $180 in a postal savings account at the time she signed her last pauper's oath on Oct. 15, 1937. A. J. Daniel, vice president of Thompson Ross Securities company at 29 South La Salle street, testified that Miss English made sales and purchases of securities several times while she was receiving relief. Most of these transactions ranged from $300 to $400.

Calls Sentence Warning.

"You are a clever, cunning, calculating woman," said Judge Gorman in sentencing her. "Psychiatric reports show that you are not commitable to an institution. I am going to punish you as a warning to others who take money that is needed by those on relief."

Judge Gorman praised Harvey Owen, who hands out the relief checks at the Halsted office of the CRA, for detecting Mrs. Bernice Reagan, colored, of 6141 South Throop street, in an attempt to obtain the relief check of a man who had moved to Texas. Mrs. Reagan pleaded guilty and was held in $400 bond pending further investigation.

BANKER PAROLED; SERVES 9 YEARS OF 40 YEAR TERM

San Quentin, Cal., Aug. 4 (AP).—Gilbert H. Beesemyer, 54, sentenced to forty years in San Quentin prison in 1930 on ten counts of grand theft in connection with the $8,000,000 looting of the Guaranty Building and Loan association of Hollywood, was granted an immediate parole today.

The state board of paroles granted the parole "with permission to leave the state," announcing that Beesemyer would take a job in Chicago, the nature of which was not revealed.

Revelation of the alleged defalcations created a furor in California. Beesemyer, secretary-manager of the association, confessed the thefts on Dec. 12, 1930, three days after the Bank of Hollywood, an allied institution with 6,891 depositors, closed its doors.

He said he lost the money in unsuccessful oil, mining, and other ventures.

Her attorney, Magnus Rosenberger, said Mrs. Thurston wanted the money only for her children, not for herself. Her husband, Joseph, a street car conductor, sued for divorce alleging intemperance. Mrs. Thurston filed a cross bill on the ground of cruelty.

A woman entered the book department of a loop store and asked a saleswoman (Marian Van Ande) the name of Ogden Nash's latest book.

I'm a Stranger Here Myself, replied Miss Van Ande.

"O, I thought you were a clerk," replied the woman.

Speaking of books, a serious book on economic conditions, Don't Kill the Goose, is authored by Ryless and Omar Goslin.

Autograph Hunters.

Autograph hunters make it a point to meet the Superchief every Thursday and Sunday when it arrives at Dearborn station, and the usual mob was there when Kay Francis of the movies and Author Louis Bromfield stepped off the train Thursday. Miss Francis, piloted by Ernest Byfield, an old friend, finally pushed her way through the station and to his waiting car, with the autograph seekers following along. When Rosalind Russell, who had remained hidden in her stateroom until she thought it safe to emerge, finally appeared wearing a fashionable new high hat, she was just in time to be swamped by a returning horde of them, books in hands.

"You'd ask her for an autograph even if you didn't know who she was," commented Mr. Bromfield, indicating Miss Russell and her high headgear.

"The autograph hunters have made it a necessity for movie stars to learn to write," wisecracked some one else.

Miss Francis, who was wearing a dark frock and hat and carrying a short gray fox coat, went shopping for presents for the help on the Bromfield farm at Mansfield, O., where she will visit Mr. and Mrs. Bromfield. After shopping she rejoined Mr. Byfield and Mr. Bromfield for food and talk at the Pump room.

Bromfield repeated the comment made by Harpo Marx while he was watching a girls' indoor baseball game: "I never thought I'd live to see the day when I'd want to kiss a third baseman."

Two Lawrence Sisters to Have Debut Luncheon

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE debutantes and their beaux, who seem to be enjoying a rest now that the early summer whirl of parties is over, have a gay luncheon party in September to add to their calendars. It will be the debut of those attractive sisters, Miss Kitty and Miss Evelyn Lawrence.

The party, on Sept. 10, will not be just an ordinary luncheon, for there is to be dancing. It will be given outdoors, weather permitting, at the home of the debutantes' mother, Mrs. Samuel D. Rowe, and Mr. Rowe, in Barrington. If the sisters do not go abroad this winter, there will be another party for them later on. They are daughters of John H. Lawrence of Winnetka.

On Saturday, Sept. 9, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Caspar Butz, Miss Jean Alice Butz, and William Wheeler Darrow will entertain at tea and dancing at home in Winnetka for Mrs. Butz' daughter, Miss Jean Darrow. Miss Darrow will enter the University of Michigan later in September. Her brother, who was graduated in June from Yale, will go to Harvard for graduate work. Miss Butz will return to Scripps college.

Dinner-Dance Aug. 24 for Two Debutantes.

Miss Marilyn Martin, daughter of the Mellen C. Martins, and Miss Priscilla Blackett will be the special guests at a dinner-dance on Aug. 24 at the Indian Hill club. The party will be given by Miss Sally Jane Crowder, Miss Margot Webb, and the Misses Nancy and Jean Wolcott.

Miss Martin will make a joint debut with Miss Elise Petersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh G. Petersen, on Sept. 8 at the Indian Hill club. Miss Blackett, daughter of the Hill Blacketts, will make her debut at a tea on Sept. 14.

Carolyn McKay Will Be Bride in Wausau.

For a city that is supposed to be in the middle of its dullest season Chicago is not particularly quiet, although it is a pity that two of today's interesting weddings are not taking place here.

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Ann McKay of Wausau, Wis., to Henry T. Stanton Jr. of Wayne, will take place in Wausau at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The ceremony that will unite Mrs. William V. Kelley Jr., formerly of Lake Forest, and Edward Dickson Maltby, will be read at 4 o'clock in All Saints' church, Beverly Hills, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Sr., their younger sons, James and Charles, and their daughter, Mrs. John D. Clemens, and Mr. Clemens, all were gathered in Wausau yesterday for the wedding rehearsal and bridal dinner. Mrs. Clemens and Mrs. Howard Seymour of Wayne will be among the five bridesmaids. James Stanton will be his brother's best man. Ushering will be Peter Bunce of New York, Mr. Clemens, George Hawkins, and Frank Ireland.

Joan Bennett Will Attend Mrs. Kelley.

Joan Bennett, the film star, will be Mrs. Kelley's matron of honor, and Miss Bennett's little daughter, Melinda Markey, will be the ring bearer. William V. Kelley III. will give his mother in marriage.

The bride will wear beige crêpe with a flowered hat and veil and a corsage of orchids. Miss Bennett will wear violet crêpe. The reception at Miss Bennett's home will be held out-of-doors. A long buffet table and several small ones under umbrellas are being placed in the garden. A partially inclosed barbeque is being transformed into a bar.

Mr. Maltby and his bride will pass through Chicago on a trip east later this fall. They will live in her Beverly Hills home until a new one they are building in Bel Air is completed. The late Mr. Kelley was a brother of Phelps, Russell, and Gordon Kelley of Lake Forest.

Give Party Tonight for Junior Ranneys.

A gay party in Lake Forest is a dinner-dance the George A. Ranneys are giving tonight for their son, George Jr. and his wife, the former Nancy Ryerson, who returned to Chicago to live following his graduation from the Yale law school.

The Country Club of Evanston and the Sheridan Shore Yacht club are joining forces for a dance tonight at the Yacht club.

Dr. and Mrs. Louis T. Curry are entertaining at dinner and dancing at the Beverly Hills Country club for their daughter, Anne, who is entering Northwestern this fall, and her guest, Miss Betty Hall of Waukegan. Miss Curry has been attending Carleton college.

Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley, Miss Elaine Victor and C. B. Goes are among those who will be exhibiting in a horse show today at Delavan Lake, Wis. The show will be an annual event.

BY ANNA NANGLE.

That death is not our enemy, but a friend—that it is merely a gentle although compulsory transition to a better world peopled with familiar folk—is the theme of "On Borrowed Time." Superbly produced, directed, and acted, it is, in my opinion, unquestionably one of the outstanding pictures of the year.

Old Gramps battled valiantly with death, not through personal cowardice, but tenaciously and courageously for the sake of his young grandson, Pud.

A good deed, kindly done, results in the granting of a wish. Inadvertently Gramps receives power to hold any one he chooses in his favorite apple tree for as long as he desires.

The beckoning Mr. Brink had already summoned imperiously to Gramps' son and daughter-in-law, and Pud is left an orphan. Next on his list is the old man, who fights him off. When Mr. Brink appears at Granny's bedside, however, she wearily and willing stretches forth her hand to him.

Her death is a blow to the sturdy old man and when he's able to trap Mr. Brink in the tree he knows that little Pud will not be left to his fatuous, greedy aunt for care. Such victory has its price, however, and the tree becomes deadly. Gramps fences it off and has amiable conversations with the invisible Mr. Brink. He learns ultimately, however, that death is not to be denied and that it is for many a reward and a blessed release rather than a punishment.

The film was skilfully handled and the entire treatment of the theme has a charming simplicity, admirably consistent to the gentle fantasy of the subject matter.

Mr. Barrymore, it seemed to me, is better than ever before in his long career in his interpretation of Gramps—a simple, happy old fellow with a blunt tongue and his own ideas of the good life, which very definitly do not include formal churchgoing when the fish are biting on bright, warm Sunday mornings.

Beulah Bondi is every bit his equal as Granny, a gentle, spotless little old lady with a weary, plaintive voice and a kindly tolerance toward all. Young Bobs Watson is a fat faced, engaging little boy who can be most piteous when he screws up his features and cries. He's permitted to be natural and unaffected and given lines such as any average sharp eared youngster might blurt out. Some of his and Gramps' scenes with Aunt Demetria are very, very funny. Sir Cedric Hardwicke is fittingly cold and implacable as Mr. Brink—imperious and a bit fearsome, but fascinating.

There are a few minor discordances, but on the whole the film is excellent and one that I am sure most people will thoroughly enjoy. Settings, photography, and the entire cast, including the ragged old dog, are beautifully suited, and the result is one of the most pleasing films I have ever seen. M.-G.-M. can be very proud of this production.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

So the Meek Inherit the Earth, Huh?

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 4.—It was not so very long ago that Bette Davis, in an English court of law, was hurling defiance at the Brothers Warner, and threatening all manner of things in reprisal for real or fancied grievances.

Apparently the grievances were more fancied than legal, because the be-wigged British jurist sided with the Brothers Warner and told Bette to go home to Burbank, where she would find a light shining in the window to guide her across the bridge.

The holdout, Miss Davis, is now the pet of the Warner lot, and every time you turn around out here, or so it seems, the Brothers Warner are announcing with justifiable pride that Miss Davis either has just started or just completed a motion picture.

It is to be observed that the holdout more frequently than not persuades the cinema caliphs to treat her [or him] with kid gloves.

There have been many notable holdouts in the film industry, and here is meant that part of the industry distinct from the mechanical phases. . . . Myrna Loy became a holdout at M.-G.-M. and won. . . . Jim Cagney, from time to time, has gone on a holdout, and has yet to lose one. . . . Bob Montgomery, at M.-G.-M., doesn't go on a holdout, but he achieves the same result by turning down scripts that he doesn't like.

George Raft had frequent run-ins at Paramount and almost invariably won his point, whether it was over money or a change in characterization or whatever. . . . Loretta Young finished out her contract at 20th Century-Fox declaring her independence in tones stentorian.

When a performer says "damned if I will," and the studio bosses retort "damned if you won't," the factor that determines the result is the box-office strength of the performer.

That is why studios most always wind up behind the 8-ball, because it is fairly obvious that before a performer initiates a holdout, he or she knows to the penny his or her worth at the box-office. . . . It would be a trifle insane for a performer who was poison at the box-office to threaten to walk out on a contract that his studio very happily would cancel.

Most daring one-girl walkout ever staged in this town was that brave and gallant resignation of Ann Sothern from a nice contract at RKO. . . . She wanted different sorts of parts from those they had lined up for her . . . the studio refused . . . so out she walked and she had no place to walk to. . . . That takes considerable "moxie" or heart, because then you're filling your wallet with what the gamblers might call "if" money . . . it's money IF you get it.

La Sothern's move was a departure from all the safe and sound rules of movie walkouts, and whenever the cinema holdouts get together to hold annual elections, she is a cinch to win the presidency hands down.

There is another sound reason why studios rarely win a contest or compel a performer to accept a disadvantageous compromise. . . . This is the fact that the studios have no substitutes to employ against the stars. . . . Once a performer has built up a reputation on the screens of the world, he is well-nigh invulnerable.

The movies, you see, create their own Frankenstein monsters and then can't control the course they take. . . . The only effective substitute who could be used against a Loretta Young, for instance, would be an actress equally attractive, equally talented and equally potent at the box-office.

You can imagine the dilemma in which the Brothers Warner found themselves when they had to recruit a substitute in the Bette Davis case.

Just where would any studio find a second Bette Davis? . . . The hills of Hollywood send back a despairing echo, because it is well accepted that she is unique, extraordinary and unusual, as well as super-special.

I would like to report that the players who never go on walkouts here are rewarded for this exhibition of loyalty, but it wouldn't square with the facts. . . . Studios have the most respect for the actors and actresses who occasionally rear up on their hind legs and create a rumpus.

The meek may inherit the earth but not that section of earth where motion pictures are filmed. . . . The meek, in Hollywood, take a fierce shoving-around. . . . It pains me to set this down thus bluntly, but it's the truth. . . . However I do not advise meek performers suddenly to start studio revolutions, because the only successful rebels are those who pack a wallop at the box-office . . . that should be remembered at all times.

Lovely Colors Mark Return to Elegance

BY RHEA SEEGER.

PARIS [By Mail].—Edwardian colors are featured in the elegant fashions of the new season. You'll wear costumes in plum, garnet, bronze, green, rose damask, and brown, good old-fashioned colories every one of them, used for modern versions of "grand toilettes."

You'll see the revival of quilling and pleatings, deep flounces, flounces festooned on a wide skirt, intricate narrow flounces on sleeves and quilling around deeply cut bodice tops. Handsome affairs suggesting the slower, pageant-like existence of the former era.

Small waistlines, near the painfully sounding wasp waists, probably will cause concern. But it is really a clever optical illusion achieved with tiny fitted bodices and wide, wide full skirts.

The term wide skirts doesn't mean just a matter of yardage; gores, circular cut godets, panels, and similar trickery keep the width or dramatic sweep of the skirt down below the hipline. Darts, tucks, and inside stiffening to the bodices assure the proper smooth unwrinkled appearance and the defined waistline. It's going to be fun to wear such creations.

Separate jackets apparently have received some sort of a shot, for the fashion rages more triumphantly than ever. Jackets from now on will be as irresistible to the clothes collector as costume jewelry, gloves, or gadgets. They are fanciful creations, as decorative in cut, color, and trim as anything from the eye catching uniform jackets in a continental opera.

Candy pink, lime green, magenta, cerise, caramel, star sapphire blue, and amethyst pink are a few of the delicate shades used for the background colors. Braid, in stunning contrast, is plastered on in whirls, floral patterns, snail shells, and any other flamboyant designs. The resplendent courtiers of a Vienna court never had more dress parade nor more romantic jackets.

Long, wide sleeves that end at the bracelet line accent the brevity of the jackets—and these sleeves are as lavishly braided as the jacket. Sometimes there is so much braid the color of the material merely peeks through the design made by the braid.

To complete the piquant charm of these jackets there are small hats, also reminiscent of the snappy small soldier caps. Likewise braided, and trimmed with frogs to repeat the frogs on the jackets, these toppers are as saucy and different as the costumes.

Gordon Plays Sowerby Work at Ravinia Park

BY CECIL SMITH.

If Jacques Gordon felt any misgivings about the continuing affection with which his Chicago audience regards him, his last doubts must have been dispelled by his reception at Ravinia last night. He was roundly applauded when he first came upon the stage. When he had finished his concerto, stamping feet added their resonance to that of clapping hands, and he responded by playing the Prize Song from Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" as an encore.

The assignment which brought Mr. Gordon to Ravinia was Leo Sowerby's Concerto in G minor for violin and orchestra. Mr. Sowerby originally worte the concerto in 1913 and won his first important recognition in Chicago through its performance by Herman Felber and an orchestra conducted by Glenn Dillard Gunn.

Since that time he has made considerable revisions. The essential musical material, however, still sounds like 1913 Sowerby. Those who hoped that the work would add new stature to a distinguished Chicago composer's reputation were disappointed. The ghost of Edward MacDowell broods over its pages, mingling its shade with a French harmonic and melodic style that sounds rather like early John Alden Carpenter.

The beginning of the final movement picks up a bit, with a suggestion of the lively rhythms of a barn dance, but the movement quickly returns to a mood of plushy pre-war romanticism.

Mr. Gordon's performance caught the feeling of the music and reproduced it faithfully to the audience. His playing was serene and warm in tone quality, but somehow it just missed both brilliance and aristocracy.

Earlier in the evening Dr. Rodzinski conducted Dvorak's Fourth symphony for the first time in the memory of the present generation of Chicago listeners. A light, cheerful symphony, the forgotten work is an agreeable summer diversion.

Young Pianist Wins Praise at Grant Park

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Soloist at Grant park last night with the Rico Marcelli orchestra was Henry Jackson, a smiling, be-spectacled young American pianist. It seems he studied in Chicago some years ago and has since made concert appearances in towns as far distant as Amsterdam.

There was a little to censure and a lot to praise in the presentation of Rachmaninoff's second concerto. That the performance was somewhat lacking in passion and in cumulative power may be ascribed to the fact that orchestra and soloist had not known each other long enough to be able to function as one.

That the piano sometimes sounded matter-of-fact and non-luminous can only be ascribed to the fact that Mr. Jackson sometimes played in a matter-of-fact and non-luminous manner.

But his tone, especially in the juicy second theme of the final movement, often became full and liquid and flowing. He revealed an exquisite feeling for nuance, and managed to make some of his themes more eloquent than the most eloquent speech. Technically, he was clean and competent.

With the exception of "The Star Spangled Banner," every bar of music last evening was Russian. A high point was the second movement of Tschaikowsky's fourth symphony, which Mr. Marcelli performed with a glorious simplicity and transparency and candor.

WEDDING

At 8:30 o'clock tonight in the chapel of the First Methodist church in Evanston, Miss Marjorie Bays will become the bride of Paul Camill Peter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Camill Albert Peter of Philadelphia. The Rev. Aubrey S. More will officiate. A reception will follow in Glenna hall.

The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred William Bays of Evanston, was May queen at Swarthmore college last spring. Her attendants will include Mrs. Charles Minor Jr., as matron of honor, and Miss Beatrice Peter of Philadelphia as maid of honor.

John Newton Peabody Jr. of Fort Washington, Pa., will be best man. The only Chicagoan among the ushers is Sydney Ferguson of Glencoe. Mr. Peter and his bride will be at home in Philadelphia after Sept. 1.

Treasure Hunt Chart Is Guide to Garden Tour

BY SUZETTE FARMER.

Most maps strive for information and simplicity. But the map which was put out by the Barrington Garden club for yesterday's tour of homes and gardens was a promise of adventure. It resembled the charts used in treasure hunts, and every spot which was designated might well have been the ultimate goal of the thousand who made the tour.

The junior William D. Horne home, a remodeled farm house, is reached after a long drive down a winding country road. Wide stone slabs lead through trees to a swimming pool which has been divided into two sections to provide a shallower pool for the children.

At Wakefield, which belongs to Mr. and Mrs. George E. Van Hagen, the stable and white paddock fences looked cool and refreshing at the bottom of a little hill. Large blue spruces graced one side of the lovely home and the old fashioned garden.

Harper's Weekly, the week-end cottage of the Paul C. Harpers, presented an unusual picture. It is an early Illinois farm house. The building itself is almost a hundred years old, and Mrs. Harper has exercised exquisite taste and judgment in keeping the furnishings in spirit with the house. Her luncheon table was set with straw mats and pewter plates and drinking cups.

Miss Elizabeth Howland and Mrs. Harold C. Cheney were responsible for the charming arrangement of the luncheon table at Oldfields, the Cheney residence. The breakfast table on the porch had been planned by Mrs. Warren McCracken, who used a red and white checked gingham cloth and California pottery, with a floral arrangement of zinnias and Queen Anne's lace.

The tiny "secret rose garden" admirably expresses the personality of Mrs. Cheney, according to Mrs. Frank Hecht, president of the club, and Mrs. Potter Smith, the publicity chairman. Everything is done on a dainty scale and even the white benches look fragile with their lacy grillwork.

The drive to the French provincial house of the Meadow Hill Farms takes one along a beautiful lake in which ducks were swimming about lazily. Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Hardy, whose pride and joy the home must be, have kept the decorations French. The little circular entrance hall is gay with bright wall paper and a wrought iron circular staircase decorated with heavy glass balls.

"Let's go over the household budget while the children aren't around to hear your language."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It's a doting mother asking. And you can tell, from the tone of her letter, that she hopes our answer will be "yes."

Sorry, lady, but it's "no." Kind of a loud one, too.

Lots of blond haired babies are brunettes almost before their mothers know it. And our best advice is that the mothers make the best of it. It would be a shame to subject a child's hair to bleaching.

Not that bleaching, when it's done by an expert, isn't a safe business nowadays. But once you start you can't stop very gracefully—and there is a limit to the length of time even expertly treated hair can be bleached successfully. Ten years, maybe, or even fifteen, but what's that when you start at 6?

Then there is the esthetic side of it. It just wouldn't be right. Artificiality—the obvious kind—is trying enough in the mature woman. It seems to us particularly pathetic when it's foisted on a child.

Above all, we urge this mother and any others who might have the impulse not to try to take over the beauty operator's job. Brush your child's hair until its color is a miracle of highlights and subtle natural shadings. Arrange it attractively. In the case of a child this always means simply childishly. Braids are far better than waves and fancy hairdresses.

Don't tinker with the color. If you take our advice you won't even let the expert do this in the case of a small child, but if you're absolutely determined that the brown locks shall be golden let the beautician, a good one, be the one to take the responsibility. It's going to take time and money to keep that hair presentable. We'll bet any money you'll wish you'd never thought of trying to outwit nature.

Games Such as Ping-Pong and Tennis Are Good for the Eyes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Keep your eye on the ball if you want to win a tennis or a ping-pong championship. Keep your eye on the ball—and we mean literally a ball you catch and dodge and throw—if you want strong and beautiful eyes.

According to one successful expert who has enabled several rejected candidates to pass West Point and Annapolis examinations for eyesight, there are only two eye troubles that cannot be cured by exercise.

Sports played with a ball, such as tennis, baseball, ping-pong, volley ball, and handball, will pep up those muscles of sight. If you get your quota of sports this summer, your eyes will have to move quickly, right and left, up and down. They will have to look far and near as they follow the dancing ball. The better vision resulting will make them look fresh and clear and more beautiful.

While we have never actually counted, you don't see many professional baseball players wearing glasses, do you? When tennis tournaments are played there are not many spectacles on the courts.

Of course, the eye exercise isn't the only reason champions and sports professionals have good sight. Champions and contenders have to keep themselves in condition, and naturally their eyes reflect their physical well being as a whole. It is also true that persons with poor vision don't go in for tennis and baseball in a big way.

But we can counteract the effects of close work and a sedentary life on eyes by giving them exercise following the ball.

Good-bye To Vienna

By Olga L. Rosmanith

(Copyright 1939: By News Syndicate Company, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

An American girl and her Viennese sweetheart, Franz Gruenwald, in a café in Vienna hear a radio announcement of Hitler's entry into Austria. The girl, Marian Taylor, has been staying in Franz's home studying voice. Franz fears for his foster father, Prof. von Plasy, author of a recent anti-Nazi book. He refuses to flee the country and leave his wife, Gisela, and son Johann, who has the mind of a child. Leopoldine, a pro-Nazi woman surgeon, in love with Franz, warns him to send the American girl home. Von Plasy is taken off to jail to die from shock. In order to take Gisela's money out of the country to deliver to her friend, Herr Wiedermann, in Riga, Marian invests it in rare stamps. Herr Speyer, the stamp merchant, guesses her purpose, but is sympathetic and asks her to deliver a picture to a friend of his in Riga, a Mme. Sayonara Lonska. Franz loses his job. When Leopoldine secures one for him he accepts it for the sake of his dependents. In Riga Marian learns Herr Wiedermann is in love with Gisela and wants to arrange for her and Johann to come there. Mme. Lonska, she discovers, is a spy and that the picture from Herr Speyer was a message in code. Marian returns to Vienna. Gisela goes to Riga. She and Herr Wiedermann are married and he adopts Johann. Franz spurns Leopoldine's offer to be his mistress. Next day Franz is seized by the Gestapo. Leopoldine's brother, Karl, a Storm Trooper intrigued by Marian's beauty, offers to help locate Franz, though she doubts his sincerity. He falls madly in love with her, though she tells him she can love no one but Franz. Marian sees Herr Speyer, who advises her to see Wilhelm Boehm, a head Nazi official, who would know Franz's whereabouts, but he turns her down. Marian appeals to and gains an audience with Boehm's wife. She gets no help but hears Frau Boehm mention Sayonara's name over the phone. Convinced that Herr Boehm is also a spy, Marian gains admission to see him again on pretext of a message from a friend in Riga. She frightens him into promising Franz's release. A messenger brings Marian to where Franz, allowed to escape, is hiding in a Jewish friend's shop. They steal to his house for Franz's motorcycle. Karl appears and unselfishly offers to help Franz out of the country.

INSTALMENT XLVIII.

AN INTERCEPTED LETTER.

In spite of Jan's description of the farming dynasties of Hungary, Marian was unprepared for the high standard of the farm's domestic civilization. There was no water indoors, but the hired girls removed all consciousness of any lack. The heavy cooking was done outdoors in an oven made of hard-baked earth like a great beehive, but the food was delicate, even epicurean. Delicious dark brown loaves, sweet butter, rich cream and milk, eggs, cheeses, fragrant meats, spices, paprika, red and green peppers, sumptuous Hungarian cooking. Sour red wines of Hungary that stimulated appetite, luscious fresh strawberries, spiced apples, thick savory ghoulash.

The farm was both refined and comfortable. Fine old walnut furniture, mirror polished, black with age, hand woven linen, crystal cut glass, heirloom silver, household discipline, considerate manners, deep respect for the womenfolk from the men, good humor, much laughter.

The Jarolyi family consisted of Father Jarolyi, as tough and wiry as his little horses, his wife, a good humored walking mountain with eyes like sloes, some aged grandparents, and the eight hard riding, rope twirling brothers, of which only the two eldest, Jan and Bela, could speak German. They rode with her along the Danube shore and showed her where Franz would slip from the barge into the water and where they would pick him up. "If only he could come on a barge that went in the daylight," she worried. "Suppose he is swept away from us in the dark."

But that was impossible they assured her. Six of them would be waving lamps along the riverside—two just east of the village to show him where to go in, two above the farm to show him where to prepare to come out, and two where they hoped to get him, where the bank curved out into the stream and afforded an easy place for landing. Two would be waiting in readiness there on horseback in case anything did go wrong and he went further down the stream. No current could sweep any one faster than they could gallop. In fact, it was quite unnecessary for them to take such elaborate precautions, but it would shame them forever to do such a simple thing for Karl Steinweg and make a mess of it.

"It is wonderfully good of you to do all this——" Her heart was so full of gratitude to and liking for them that she felt she expressed herself very lamely.

Jan and Bela both spoke at once. But no, this was the most tremendous fun for them. They could only wish it were a more difficult and daring adventure involving some fancy horsemanship.

"And when will we know that he is coming?"

"There will be a telephone call to Kelnyak about a stud horse when all is arranged. We expect to pick him up tomorrow."

They rode back to the farm for the gargantuan breakfast which seemed to put no flesh on any of them except the ponderous mother who actually ate little. Afterwards Jan harnessed the carriage horses to take Marian for a drive to a picturesque little town lying twenty miles eastward.

Marian would always remember Jan when she heard laughter. Just as she would always think of Emil Wiedermann and Karl when people spoke of love.

Her mind strayed to Karl now. Whatever the outcome of Franz's adventure, Karl's performance remained the same. One of the noblest manifestations of love a woman could ever expect from a man. A lasting affection was born for him in that minute.

She was still thinking about him while she lunched with Jan under awnings in a restaurant garden sloping to a tree shaded lake. Three Gypsy musicians were walking through the garden and fiddling as they walked. She remembered now how Karl had drawn himself into the corner of the booth that first night out with her and sat there quietly looking at her. He must have begun to long for her then.

Born to act on impulse, Marian turned to Jan and said: "Do you think you could get me some paper and an envelope? I have a pen. I would like to write something while I am in the mood for it. It won't take me two minutes."

Jan went into the inn and returned with some cheap blue paper. Marian wrote without hesitating:

Dear Karl: I said I could have loved you. But there are more loves than one. I have seen into your great soul. I do love you.

MARIAN.

She folded it and put it into the envelope. "It only took you one minute," said Jan in admiring surprise.

Marian put her pen away after writing the address. She said: "A great deal can sometimes be said in a very few words."

. . . . . .

Exactly what Karl thought when he received the letter, enraged as he was at not receiving it first hand. Leopoldine had seen the blue envelope waiting for him addressed in a swift, vivid handwriting quite unlike any of the Jarolyis' and bearing a Hungarian stamp. To satisfy her curiosity without ceremony was the most natural thing in the world to her. She took it up to her room after dinner leaving a message downstairs that Herr Karl was to come to see her the minute he came in.

That night he came in very late, his mood a mixture of heart-break and elation, and her peremptory message stimulated rather than discouraged him. He went up the stairs feeling it would do him good to have a row with her. Nothing could please him better at the moment than an opportunity to forget himself.

He entered her room and closed the door quietly. But not quietly enough for Leopoldine. She twisted round on her sofa: "Have you no consideration for my nerves?"

He drew a small chair towards her, straddled it and folded his arms across the back. "I thought you took so much pride in not having any?"

His chin was down on his arms on the chair back and he was looking at her with actual amusement in his eyes. Amusement and something else. She stared incredulously. Was it—could it possibly be contempt?

"We'll let that pass. I want an accounting of my money, and a report of what it's done."

The amusement in his eyes deepened. "It made the lady very happy. I bought her forty-eight roses which she told me firmly were quite enough, so I gave the rest of it to a needy family who live on a barge."

He tipped the chair and reached for her cigaret box. "Mind if I smoke?"

Leopoldine tensed herself, swung round and sat up, her feet to the floor. She snatched the cigaret from his hand and threw it out of the window. "Now listen to me. You've been up to something very peculiar these last few days and I want an explanation of it. You take advantage of me because I work like a dog and I'm doing the work of ten men at the hospital. You stay out till all hours doing God knows what with my money, and don't even have the courtesy to come and see me when you come in or leave a message. Now if you're not spending the money on that girl I must have it back."

"You can't have it back. It's spent I tell you. And all on the lady you intended it for."

She opened her little bag and produced Marian's letter.

"Then how do you account for this? She isn't even in Austria."

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Today's column is to fulfill yesterday's promise. And that was that suggestions would be forthcoming about how to make a long train journey with your children an interesting experience.

Traveling is fun to almost all children of all ages. There is the anticipation of the place or people they are going to, the interest of the train itself, the motion, the flying scenery, the gadgets, the various stops, the things that happen, and the little situations that arise.

But aside from all that, on long journeys there are long hours of inactivity which irk almost any young thing. What to do about those is our problem, because rarely can you figure on leaving a child entirely on his own devices for so long. Also, one owes some consideration to one's fellow passengers.

Having made a few suggestions yesterday about breaking up the actual sitting still during such a trip, let us see what else might divert our children en route. Books are always a standby.

Following the train's route on a map is interesting to many children.

Checkers, cards and other similar games can be well played on a train.

Other ways in which your children use their leisure or talents can be followed on the train, too. Drawing, crocheting, knitting or sewing, writthe letters or post cards—various occupations can be planned for.

A beloved doll or furry animal will beguile the trip, with a change of little clothes and possibly a tiny lunch packed for him in a tiny lunch basket. Very small toys and blocks can be enjoyed on a table or the lap board I suggested.

And among the most successful of devices is the one I have described to you before. It consists of a surprise box, containing little wrapped packages [they may be of the simplest], each marked with the time it is to be opened. If your imagination gets busy you can make these directions funny or intriguing. Besides the time of day you might label one, for instance: "Count twenty-five telegraph poles before opening this package."

The Vestee Effect Glorified

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The vestee is glorified for this early autumn dress. It carries a collar and buttons, too, arranged in a variety of ways.

Sketched at the left, a version of the dress with contrasting vestee and cuffs. For example, on a black silk or woolen dress the accessories, detachable of course, might be of white or pastel pique or other such material.

The dress itself is a simple one with puffed sleeves, either long or short, and a moderately flared skirt. Such a plain dress is an ideal background for accessories and jewelry. You'll like it for your first social occasions of the fall.

There's another pattern to keep the dress company. It makes a turban in any of three ways, all attractive and flattering. It's available in one head-size only, adaptable to your own needs, and may be had for ten cents extra. The number is 2822.

Style No. 2657 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting for the long sleeved frock.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Ribbed Sweater with High Neck Suits Many Types

BY JEAN M'DONALD.

A few years ago there were definite styles for the young woman, for the young middle aged woman, and elderly matron, but now every garment is essentially youthful and, to all intents and purposes, these styles are suitable to all. The type and color of the materials are the present day criterion in all hand knitted garments. Gay, youthful, flecked yarns of both the crêpe and wool boucle types work up successfully for the very young. More conservative tones are available for those who still feel that vivid hues are for youth. The sweater illustrated is typically a sports model, done in ribbing of K 2, P 2 throughout. Small needles at the waistband are exchanged for a larger size and the pattern is carried through the entire sweater.

Instructions for knitting are available in sizes 14 and 16, and in 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

For instructions in knitting the high necked, short sleeved, ribbed sweater, No. X-50, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

On the House

If you have a radiator under a double window and aren't satisfied with the general effect, you can get a smart radiator inclosure and build shelves at each end for books. The shelves should be radiator height. Add glass shelves between the windows and you have added quite a bit of distinction to your window space. And you gain considerable shelf space. If you're planning a tea, a buffet supper, a picnic, or just a gathering, you couldn't do better than to bake a loaf of quick orange date bread for the occasion. It's delicious with just butter for sandwiches, and with a cream cheese spread it's incomparably good.

Orange Date Bread.

[One loaf, 3¾ by 7¾ inches.]

1 medium orange, pulp and juice
Boiling water to make 1 cup
Rind from the orange
1 cup pitted dates
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ cup chopped nuts

Place the unstrained juice and pulp of the orange in a measuring cup and fill with hot water. Pour into mixing bowl. Put orange rind and dates through the food chopper and measure 1 cup, together. Add to liquid in mixing bowl. Add melted shortening, vanilla, and well beaten egg. Sift together flour, salt, baking powder, and sugar. Add to first mixture with nuts. Stir enough to blend. Fill a well greased and floured loaf pan, let stand 20 minutes, and bake for an hour and 20 minutes at 350 degrees, moderate temperature.

HAVE YOU A RECIPE 23 YEARS OLD? A reader has written in for "poached pears," a recipe which appeared in this column, then conducted by Jane Eddington, 22 or 23 years ago. Our files do not run back that far, so if any other reader happens to have that particular recipe we shall be very grateful for a copy of it.

I do not know whether or not it is similar to this recipe for poached apples. Pears could be prepared in the same manner.

Poached Apples.

1¼ cups sugar
1 cup water
1 stick cinnamon

Pare and core the apples. Cut into rings. Boil sugar, water, and cinnamon together for 5 minutes and add apple slices, a few at a time. Cover and simmer until tender but not broken. Test with a toothpick and remove slices from sirup as soon as they are tender. Chill and serve them with cream or whipped cream. The sirup may be boiled down and poured over the slices.

Sally Will List Her Guests in Sunday Paper

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

All you baseball fans have but one more day to wait for the good news. By this time tomorrow you'll all know whether your letter won an invitation to the Cubs-Cincinnati game.

The names of the boys and girls who have been selected to be my guests for the party at Wrigley field next Thursday will be printed in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

I had quite a time making up my mind while reading your letters. But some of you forgot one or another of the three simple rules. Some of you forgot to include your addresses, others signed only a first name, and quite a number forgot to tell me their ages.

However, tomorrow's column will also bring news of our next party, so those who aren't winners this week will have an opportunity to try again.

Some youngsters have asked whether coming to one party keeps a child from winning again. The answer is no. Any boy or girl is eligible to try for an invitation to any party.

Watch for tomorrow's TRIBUNE, boys and girls, and see if you can't be with me for a good time on Aug. 17.

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Any one who aspires to "top scores" at match-point duplicate must learn to "limber up" in his penalty doubles. Perhaps the most important of all bidding considerations at duplicate is the respective vulnerabilities. If you are not vulnerable and your opponents are, you always should be on the alert to nip an incautious overcall. The fact that you yourself probably can go game is of distinctly secondary importance. The first question you should ask yourself is, "How much can I beat these vulnerable opponents?"

In today's hand, for example, West allowed a horrible vulnerable overcall to go unpunished and, curiously enough, did not even get the compensation of a game.

East	South	West	North
1 club	1 diamond	1 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Remarkable as this bidding will appear, it actually occurred among four players who have the reputation of being far above average. South was not so naïve as to imagine that his vulnerable one diamond overcall was justified and, as he shiveringly admitted later, had "stepped out" with a sheer bluff or psychic. West's no trump bid was the sort of thing that loses top scores. With East opening the bidding, West most certainly should have realized that there was more to be gained from doubling even one diamond than from going out for a game of his own. True, he had only three diamonds, but they were very good ones and he not only had strength in every other suit, but the 4-3-3-3 distribution that lends itself so well to defense. Perhaps he feared that South had a very long diamond suit and might make five out of seven diamonds and one other trick somewhere, but if so, this was not a logical fear. If West doubled one diamond [as he should], there would be no compulsion on East's part to leave in the double. If East's hand were freaky, or unsuited to the defense of such a low contract, surely he would have the vision and decisiveness to take out the double and then West could coöperate in reaching the best game contract.

The curious feature of the bidding was that, when West failed to double one diamond, and bid only one no trump, East jumped to the logical conclusion that West had very little! East's reasoning was on the basis just discussed that West surely would have doubled if he had had the stuff for it. With that as a sound premise, East could not believe that his own partner had so much strength, hence did not even try for a game. Perhaps many readers will criticize East's pass after the "free bid" from West, but the fact remains that misunderstanding had inevitably entered the picture.

Anyway, East-West's failure to reach game was a small matter compared with their lost opportunity to play against one diamond doubled, which would have been defeated to the tune of at least 800 points and, possibly, 1,100.

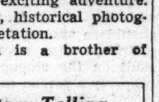
BOOKS

Heinrich Mann Completes Life of King Henry

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Henry, King of France," by Heinrich Mann. [Knopf, $3.] Published Tuesday.

In "Henry, King of France," Heinrich Mann continues and completes his fictionized life of Henry IV. with the same vigor and impressiveness and urgent excitement that thrilled readers two years ago in his "Young Henry of Navarre."



Heinrich Mann.

King of France, but still with years of battle ahead before his kingdom really belonged to him, the hero of this long, detailed tale of adventure and love appears in the first sentence: "The king had won his victory." The book is a record of victory piled upon victory—in politics, in gaining the love of woman and of his people until fate finally darkened his path with the death of the woman he loved and the gathering of enemies about him when he gave up his ancestral faith and married a Medici.

This Henry of France was wound like a tendril about the white marble finger of Gabrielle d'Estree, but his people also deeply possessed their king. Says the author, "His people came first, and they were nearest to his heart when they were poor."

Filled with intimate detail of daily life, with its dirt and corruption as well as its progressive good, highlighted with adventure in every phase of life, this full, rich picture of the period is kept aloft throughout its 783 pages by the skill of Heinrich Mann in plot-making and word-adorning. He brings to life a dead day and imbues it with a new vividness for today.

There is nothing ostentatiously contemporaneous about the language which Herr Mann uses—no od's bodikins or gadzooks—and yet he manages to give his pages the authenticity of contemporaneousness.

"Henry, King of France," is a good story, in the same sense that "The Three Musketeers" is a good story—it is filled with exciting adventure. But it is, besides, historical photography and interpretation.

Skill in Story Telling

"The Painter and the Lady" by William Blake. [Simon & Schuster, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

Last year a book called "The World Is Mine" flashed across the literary sky like Halley's comet. It was a picaresque tale of fantastic excitement about a foundling hero who became the richest man in the world. High finance and chicanery filled its bubbling pages, and a lifelong scheme of revenge gave it the tag of "A Modern Monte Cristo." It was entertainment de luxe and it established its author in the popular fancy.

"The Painter and the Lady" will not consolidate that smashing victory. It is "foreign" in a strangely persistent way. Not only its scene, the wine growing provinces of France and Marseilles as the city of adventure, but its characters are local—without that something that makes the characters in great fiction universal.

The characters, even by their own standards, are a queer lot. They include two brothers who hate each other in a strange, "dual-soul" sort of relationship. Both want to be artists. One becomes the husband of a rich, self-willed wife, the other an artist to whom fame comes over his political canvases. The two war on the opposing sides of capitalism and socialism. One finally is accused of a murder that he did not commit, and both suffer for it.

There also are two women, the wife of one of the brothers and the mistress of the other [who previously had been his brother's mistress]. There is a background mêlée of as sly a group of underhanded schemers as this reader has met for some time.

Even if Mr. Blake will not duplicate the success of "The World Is Mine" with "The Painter and the Lady," he will not entirely lose his claque, for there is some subtle irony here that readers will mine with pleasure, and a skill in story telling which will turn eyes toward Mr. Blake's next work.

"William Blake" is the pen name of William Blech, the husband of Christina Stead, author of that fantastic tale of finance, "House of All Nations."

"American Nabob," by Holmes Alexander. [Harpers, $2.50.]

Curtis Larkins was a lusty, raw, incorrigible Virginian of the 1840s torn between ideals and ambition. Thus he crossed the mountains to a wild, raw country that matched him in mood, where, he said, "I can sink to my own level."

There he prospered as a wildcat banker. He began to dream of his new home, West Augusta, as the heart of a new empire he would rule. He bought up a mountain of coal, a countryside of oil, and, when the civil war came along, worked diligently toward the creation of his new state. West Virginia. And he succeeded.

But in doing it he lost his wife, whose prim mind had never understood his clowning omnipotence. He lost Siple Larkins, the man he wanted as his foster son. He lost his friends. He gained vast power and wealth, immeasurable hatred, and the many monuments he built to himself. He ended a broken old man, with only two persons he could claim—his old servant, Noel, and Kathy Schulekraft, daughter of a slave dealer, but even her heart was not his. He buried it with the man he killed, Siple Larkins.

This is an exciting, tumultuous book, a frontier story that hitherto has been untold. It is told well and engrossingly, and pulsates with the stirring forces of pioneers who made a new era and built a new state.

Commendable First Novel

"Sons Without Anger," by Stanley Young. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

A selection of the Discoverers.

On his deathbed the father of the four sons in this book reflects that he is "sorry for the whole desperate band of sons who, from indulgent parents, go out into the world without knowledge, without desire, and without anger." How the four Darrows of the younger generation faced the loss of the family fortune and its corollary, the loss of the family prestige, is the theme of this first novel, which has so many excellences that its author is immediately labeled some one to watch.

For 150 years the Darrows had been Connecticut "aristocrats"—that is, they had lived their own good life, but they also had felt the New England urge to make life good for their community. They had felt responsibility as well as enjoyed prosperity. But when the financial fabric of their life was wrecked only one of them knew the threads for their true worth. The others, "without knowledge and without desire" for living any life but the one they had always lived, were wrecked.

How they met their future "without anger" is told, sometimes vividly, but always interestingly. The acquisition by an Italian speculator and his daughter of the Darrow family plus the Darrow estate gives an added fillip to the plot.

These 2 Books Will Appeal to Young and Old

"Runner of the Mountain Tops," by Mabel L. Robinson. [Random House, $3.]

These two new books have the unique quality of appealing both to young readers and to the mature mind. They tell the story of the Chinese family of Soong and the great naturalist, Louis Agassiz.

"Three Sisters" is a delightful, human, and touching narrative of Ai-ling Soong, Ching-ling, and Mei-ling, daughters of a remarkable Chinese, Charlie Soong, who had become imbued with western ideals as a boy in America and who returned to China to work for a democracy. Several of the most appealing chapters tell of his struggles in his determination to get an American education.

Later he became equally determined that all six of his children should go to school in this country. The two eldest girls were graduated from Wesleyan college at Macon, Ga., while Mei-ling took her degree at Wellesley. She is now the famous Madame Chiang Kai-shek, Ai-ling is wife of one of China's wealthiest men, H. H. Kung, and Ching-ling is the widow of the first president of the Chinese republic, Dr. Sun Yat Sen. The three Soong brothers, too, have worked for the good of their country.

The author of "Three Sisters" has told a complex story with clarity, simplicity, and a real sweetness of spirit that endears her book to readers young and old.

In "Runner of the Mountain Tops" Mabel L. Robinson describes a vivid, dynamic personality, a man who spent his entire life in intense devotion to one devouring ambition: the desire to plumb the depths of knowledge of the world of nature. As a little boy in Switzerland Louis Agassiz spent endless hours collecting specimens that taught him at first hand about zoölogy and botany. Recognizing the brilliance of his mind, his parents struggled to give him the education he needed, sending him to schools and universities at Bienne, Lausanne, Zurich, and Heidelberg.

As a lecturer and professor at Harvard, Agassiz spent many years of his life in this country. People flocked to his lectures in droves and students filled his classes to overflowing, for he had the capacity of passing on his own enthusiasm for his subject to others.

DEATH LEAP OF 3 REFUGEES LAID TO PERSECUTION

Broken Czech Exile Tells Despondency at Inquest.

A tragic aftermath of the Nazi occupation of Czecho-Slovakia was unfolded yesterday before a coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Adele Langer, 43 years old, and her sons, Karel Tommy, 6, and Jan Misha, 4½.

Mrs. Langer hurled her two small sons to death late Thursday night from the thirteenth floor of the Congress hotel. A few seconds later she followed them in a death leap. The three bodies struck the sidewalk in Michigan avenue, south of Congress street.

Hear Husband's Account.

Her suicide, the jury found, was committed while she was temporarily insane. The insanity arose, they found, from despondency at having been forced to leave her home and relatives in Prague to escape Nazi persecution of Jews.

The jury reached this verdict after hearing the wretched, broken account of Karel Langer, 46 years old, who until Hitler's march on Czecho-Slovakia was owner of the $1,500,000 Hynek Marpeles textile mills in Prague. He sold the firm, the largest textile and cloth goods company in the country, voluntarily, he said, but for a nominal sum that he might escape, and escape quickly.

Practically Gave It Away.

"I practically gave it away to my oldest employés," he testified, "because I felt Hitler would soon seize it or order me to give it away."

Langer, a short, frail, little man, spoke through an interpreter, Attorney Otto Oplatka. His eyes were bloodshot, and visible tremors shot through his frame.

Get Visiting Permit.

They came to the United States about a month ago on a six months' visitors' visa, he said, but also had a visa to Bolivia so that they would not be forced back to Czecho-Slovakia when their time here had expired. They came to Chicago three weeks ago to be near two aunts of Mrs. Langer and took a basement apartment at 1627 Humboldt boulevard.

With the $7,500 he had been able to salvage from his fortune he hoped to establish a business in Canada, something he was unable to do on a visitor's visa in the United States. He had written to friends in Hamilton, Ont., he said, asking them to help him find a home and work.

His wife had been depressed since leaving Czecho-Slovakia, he said, and frequently talked of committing suicide "and taking the babies with her." The two boys had been sent to a boys' camp to learn English, he said, but did not like it and returned Sunday.

The Czecho-Slovak National council will conduct the funeral services at 9:30 a. m. Monday at a chapel at 437 Plymouth court to the Bohemian National cemetery. A delegation from the American Jewish congress also will attend.

Tragedy for Exiles

BRIDGES ADMITS HIS SUPPORT OF MARX TEACHINGS

Government Completes Its Questioning of Alien.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 4 [Special].—Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. leader, admitted on the witness stand at his deportation hearing today that he supports to a certain extent the teachings of Karl Marx which advocate the abolition of private property.

The government completed its two and a half days' questioning of Bridges at noon today. Recalled to the stand in his own defense this afternoon, he told of his youth in Australia and denied the 1934 San Francisco general strike, under his direction, was of a revolutionary nature.

During his testimony under government questioning Bridges denied he is a communist and expressed doubt the communist party advocates overthrow of the government by violence, the charges on which his deportation is sought.

Admits Getting Red Help.

However, the C. I. O. leader admitted close association with known communists and testified that the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union, of which he is president, received support and coöperation from the communist party. He also revealed such extreme leftist economic and political views that government attorneys expressed the belief his testimony had helped their case.

In Bridges' last few minutes on the stand today as a government witness, Thomas B. Shoemaker, chief government counsel, brought from him his admission of leanings toward Karl Marx's teachings. The political and economic philosophies of Marx, a nineteenth century German socialist, are the basis for the communist party's principles.

Testifying that the only property he owns is "an old auto here and a piece of land in Australia," Bridges said: "I don't see why a handful of individuals should control the oil fields and the railroads. They stole them in the first place."

Favors Public Ownership.

"I am in favor of government ownership of big utilities, factories, and means of production," the witness continued, "and I believe a minimum wage should be granted all workers, and the right for them to work should be assured."

Bridges also advocated placing a limit on the amount of money and property a person could amass, heavy inheritance taxes, and possible confiscation of some large estates.

Shoemaker's last question was: "Did you attend any meeting, as a member of the communist party or otherwise, to seek their [the communists'] aid?"

"I attended caucuses with communist officials, maybe five or six times," Bridges replied.

Questioned earlier by Examiner James M. Landis, who is conducting the hearing, Bridges testified he was not opposed to communist membership in labor unions and that he had been asked many times to join the communist party.

The hearing, which began July 10, is expected to continue for three or four more weeks. The defense will be resumed Monday.

ALLEN-BRADLEY C. I. O. STRIKE IS ENDED BY UNION

Action Comes on Eve of Test of New Law.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 4 [Special].—The 86 day strike conducted by C. I. O. union employés of the Allen-Bradley company was called off late today by the executive board of the United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers. The executive board previously had been authorized by the members to stop the strike without settlement if necessary.

The action of the C. I. O. board came almost on the eve of a hearing in Circuit court scheduled for Monday in which the new state labor board sought enforcement of its order forbidding mass picketing at the Allen-Bradley plant.

Order Defied by Strikers.

The order, the first of its kind under the new state law sponsored by the Heil administration and designed to curb union excesses in Wisconsin, had been defied by the union. The scheduled hearing had been regarded as a test case of the legal powers of the state labor board.

The union said, while announcing the end of the strike, that it had arranged an unique contract which would maintain its security in the plant whether the company recognizes it or not. Fred Wolter, president, said the strikers have signed contracts with the union by which they promise to remain in good union standing for the next two years or give up their jobs with the Allen-Bradley company.

Doubts It Can Be Enforced.

Leo Mann, attorney for the company, said at once that such a contract is probably contrary to public policy and void under the law.

Mann raised the question as to how the union could enforce any such contract with its own members if the company took no part in it. He asked how the union could keep its men in line if the company refused to fire them if and when they leave the union, as it will refuse.

Union attorneys, in reply, held that civil suits for breach of contract could be brought if the men did not fulfill their agreements.

Capt. John I. Howe, chief investigator for Police Commissioner Allman, started in surprise a few days ago when his eyes fell on an insurance advertisment he had received in the mail. The advertisment was sent by Samuel L. Fink, an insurance broker with offices at 172 West Jackson boulevard. It described a new kind of household insurance.

The postage stamp intrigued the captain. After studying it for a few moments, he read the circular carefully. Then he examined the stamp again. It had a series of small holes punched through it, barely discernible because of the cancelation marks. The perforations formed the words, "I Will."

Contains An Ironic Message.

"Do not delay," Fink's advertisment warned the prospective customers. "This is important. See me as soon as possible."

Capt. Howe wasn't in the market for insurance, but he certainly wanted to see Fink.

Yesterday, after a preliminary investigation, he had Fink arrested. Sergt. Frank O'Sullivan of Capt. Howe's squad found $117 worth of the perforated stamps in the insurance broker's office. Fink admitted using them to solicit customers by mail. He said he got them from Arthur R. Tarnopol, 2501 Division street, a clerk in the city water meter department.

Tells of Buying Stamps.

Tarnopol, a city employé for ten years, was taken into custody. He told police he gave the stamps to Fink in payment of insurance premiums and personal loans. He said he bought them for a fraction of their face value from Francis Hawkins, colored, who worked in the mailing room of the board of health.

Hawkins admitted to Capt. Howe he had stolen the stamps. He began taking them, in 1, 2, and 3 cent denominations, about eighteen months ago. Tarnopol, who worked in the health department mailing room before being transferred to his present job, suggested the thefts, Hawkins said.

Nearly $2,500 Worth Stolen.

All told, it was estimated that Hawkins took nearly $2,500 in city stamps. He has worked for the city since 1926, records show, and is the father of three children. All three men were charged with conspiracy. In addition, Hawkins was charged with grand larceny, while Fink and Tarnopol were charged with receiving stolen property.

"There's just one thing that I'd like to know," said Fink as he was being led away. "How could any one tell the stamps were stolen?"

"You should be better acquainted with your city," Capt. Howe replied. "'I Will,' is Chicago's motto. Only stamps purchased with city funds for city business have that marking."

GIRL ON BICYCLE HIT BY A TRUCK; FATALLY HURT

Antoinette Bulanda, 13 years old, 11725 Sangamon street, was fatally injured yesterday when she was struck by a dump truck while riding her bicycle at 120th street and Lowe avenue. She died in the Roseland Community hospital. The truck driver was Arthur Heitmann, 2204 Des Plaines street, Blue Island.

Aron Sabbath, 57 years old, died in the Belmont hospital of injuries suffered several hours earlier when his automobile collided with a truck at Montrose and Laramie avenues.

Mrs. Mary Beresi, 39 years old, 3419 Panama avenue, died yesterday in the Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines, of injuries incurred Thursday night in the collision of two automobiles at Wolf and Rand roads, near Des Plaines.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 479 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 368 were killed in Chicago, where 12,431 were injured in the period.

RADIO COMPANY HEAD SEIZED AS HIT-RUN DRIVER

At 5:55 a. m. yesterday Donald Quinn, 17 years old, 2357 Howard street, and George Loeffler, 16, of 7342 North Bell avenue, were struck in Highway 12, two miles south of Fox Lake, by an automobile which did not stop. The Quinn boy was seriously hurt. A passing motorist said the car was a large gray sedan.

Shortly after 6 a. m. Billings was stopped by a policeman in Morton Grove because his car, a large gray sedan, appeared to have been in an accident. Billings gave his name and was released. Later, when Morton Grove heard of the accident, Billings was arrested. He denied the charge, but said his car was involved in an accident on the south side Thursday. Policemen said broken glass found on the scene matched a shattered headlight on Billings' car, which also bore a bent license plate, and a dented and bloodstained fender.

HIGHLAND PARK AUTOIST HELD AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Deputy sherifs charged that Redfearn, driving with his wife and two children, drove recklessly Thursday night when he approached the scene of an accident at the intersection of routes 22 and 42A, about two miles west of Lake Forest. They said he nearly hit one of the deputies and several garage employés working on the wreck. He was arrested. On a doctor's diagnosis that he was too drunk to be responsible, he was booked at the Lake Forest police station, then driven home.

THIEF, FEARING INCOME INQUIRY, KEEPS ACCOUNTS

Alex R. Piper, alias Frank Gore, 28 years old, is an honest bookkeeper, and it caused his downfall. The Central police seized Alex on suspicion July 29. At 442 South Clark street, where he lives, the police found articles which might have been stolen. Then they found Alex's account book, showing what he had stolen and what he had pawned.

Alex R. Piper.

"Why did you keep books so carefully?" some one asked.

ENGAGED COUPLE BLOWN TO DEATH BY BOMB IN AUTO

The explosion occurred as they were driving in Salupo's car through Shaker Heights, fashionable Cleveland suburb. The force of the blast shook the neighborhood.

Police tonight were investigating a theory the bombing might have resulted from a fight in the window cleaning business, in which Salupo was engaged with two other police characters.

The victims were en route to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boos, where Miss Evans had been employed as a maid. Her sister disclosed that Dorothy accepted yesterday an engagement ring from Salupo, 29 years old, whom she had known for three months as an ardent suitor with plenty of money.

TWO DRIVERS GET JAIL TERMS FOR FLEEING CRASH

Two men were sentenced to the Bridewell by Judge Francis Borrelli in the Safety court yesterday for violations of the trafic laws. Dominick Biaselli, 1532 Ohio street, was sentenced to 30 days for leaving the scene of an accident and 10 days for reckless driving, the sentences to run concurrently. Frank Quatrino, 3026 Lexington street, was sentenced to 20 days for leaving the scene of an accident. Both also were fined $10 for failing to have state drivers' licenses.

Judge Borrelli discharged Mrs. Harriett Horwith, 40 years old, 721 Brompton avenue, who was arrested after she struck a motorcycle driven by Harold Carter, 1755 Newport avenue, at Halsted street and Clybourn avenue on Aug. 1. Testimony indicated that she drove into Halsted street as the signal light was changing.

STRIKERS VOTE TODAY ON TERMS OF AUTO PEACE

Detroit, Aug. 4 (AP).—Executives of the C.I.O. branch of the United Automobile Workers tonight ratified terms of an agreement to settle the month old strike of skilled workers in twelve General Motors plants.

The strikers will vote tomorrow at their plants on the agreement, which was reached early this morning in conferences between corporation executives and the C.I.O.

Vote for A. F. of L. Union.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 4 (AP).—Employés of the Curtis-Wright Airplane company, by a vote of more than 2 to 1, today designated the International Association of Machinists, an A. F. of L. affiliate, as their sole collective bargaining agency. The election was conducted by the National Labor Relations board. A total of 391 voted for the union and 188 against out of 740 workers eligible to vote. Production employés of the firm struck March 1, demanding higher wages. The company agreed to bargain with the union if a majority of the employés favored it.

BURGLARS LOOT HOME.

FORMER TAXICAB CHIEF SEIZED IN TAVERN SHOOTING

Charles Hinkle.

The complaint was signed by Charles Hinkle of 900 Rush street, manager of a saloon at 1226½ Milwaukee avenue, who was shot in the right leg. He staggered into a drug store at 1236 Milwaukee avenue at about 6:15 a. m. yesterday and later told police he had been shot by McLaughlin in the latter's tavern. Several hours later he denied that McLaughlin shot him. Then he changed his mind again and signed the complaint against McLaughlin.

Hinkle and three women who were in the saloon all were charged with disorderly conduct. The women are Mrs. Eve Besse, 30 years old, 734 Aldine avenue; Miss Dorothy Hill, 3829½ Fremont street, and Miss Beatrice Rayburn, 2738 Pine Grove avenue. They and McLaughlin will be arraigned in Felony court Monday.

GUNMAN SHOOTS CLERK BEFORE HE HANDS OVER CASH

George Shayne, 28 years old, a clerk, was shot in the abdomen and seriously wounded last night by a Negro bandit in Betty's Dress shop, 306 East 51st street. He was taken to the Michael Reese hospital. Police said the bandit shot Shayne because the latter apparently did not move fast enough to suit his fancy.

The robber had been in the store earlier in the day, trying to make a purchase on credit. Shayne told him to bring along a friend who would vouch for him. The Negro returned alone, but with a gun. Before Shayne could hand over the money as ordered the gunman fired and fled.

In the store at the time were Max Schwartz, 7635 Yates avenue, the owner and a brother-in-law of Shayne, and Mrs. Rose Shayne, 6558 South Peoria street, a sister-in-law. Shayne also lives at the Peoria street address.

VANDALS PIERCE 200 AUTOS' TIRES WITH ICE PICKS

Police of the Hyde Park and Grand Crossing districts started an investigation yesterday to find out why the tires of 200 automobiles, parked overnight in the Windsor park district, had been punctured with ice picks.

Indignant motorists discovered the vandalism shortly after breakfast. In several cases all four tires were deflated. In most of the others only the tires on the street side had been pierced. The area covered extended from 74th to 79th streets on Colfax, Kingston, Essex, and Phillips avenues.

C. I. O. Loses Election in Oklahoma Armour Plant

Representatives of Armour & Co. announced yesterday that workers in their plant in Oklahoma City, Okla., had voted against the Packing House Workers' Organizing committee, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The vote was 333 against the P. W. O. C. and 308 for it. There were two blank and four challenged ballots. In Chicago on Thursday the packing house workers won in an election at the Armour 31st street plant. Another election is to be held soon in Fort Worth, Tex.

VIOLENCE BARRED IN ALL PICKETING, MICHIGAN RULES

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 4 [Special].—Peaceful picketing, as legalized by Michigan's new labor relations law enacted by the 1939 legislature, is defined as complete absence of violence or any unlawful act, according to an interpretation announced today by Attorney General Thomas Read.

Read prepared the opinion at the request of Walter N. Moers of Lansing, a member of the three-man industrial mediation board created by the law.

"Picketing is never peaceful," the Read opinion states, "where violence or intimidation is used. Therefore, it may be interpreted that the statute which states that there may be peaceful picketing means not only the absence of violence but the absence of an unlawful act."

Watermelon Slayer Gets 99 Years in Penitentiary

Athon Papas, 55 years old, fruit stand watchman, was sentenced to ninety-nine years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge John Sbarbaro in the Criminal court. On Tuesday a jury found him guilty of the murder of Miss Muriel Campbell, 18 years old, 1228 Maple avenue, Berwyn. Papas shot the girl in front of a fruit and vegetable stand at 5624 West North avenue on May 30 after she and some friends had broken a watermelon. Defense Attorney William McKinley, arguing for a new trial, called the verdict a result of passion and prejudice.

PASS RECEIVERS MAY DOMINATE ALL-STAR GAME

WYATT, BROWN TO CATCH FOR COLLEGE TEAM

Poll Closes Tonight

THE voting to select a staff of coaches to direct the College All-Stars in their game with the New York Giants in Soldiers' field Aug. 30 closes at midnight tonight. No mail votes postmarked after the deadline will be accepted.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

For every brilliant, exceptional forward passer there must be pass receivers whose work, generally overshadowed, is no less important. The 1939 All-Stars have splendid passers. Davey O'Brien, Sid Luckman and Johnny Pingel are known from coast to coast.

Ed Danowski.

Who will catch the passes of these stars in the game in Soldiers' field Aug. 30 with the New York Giants, champions of the National Football league?

Jim Lee Howell and Jim Poole will be the targets for the passes of Ed Danowski and Tuffy Leemans of the Giants. If O'Brien, the collegian who will start the game at quarter back, wishes to throw a pass he may shoot it to Earl Brown of Notre Dame or Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee. These boys will be the starting ends.

Goldberg Can Catch 'Em, Too.

Then there's Bob MacLeod of Dartmouth, the right half back. MacLeod's reputation is built on splendid defensive ability, hard blocking, as an efficient runner, and as a pass receiver. Bob starred in this last department of football offense and he may surprise the New York Giants.

Sammy Baugh had his Gaynell Tinsley and Green Bay's Packers were beaten. Cecil Isbell had his John Kovatch, and that started the parade against the Washington Redskins last year. It may be Earl Brown who will lead in the air attack against the Giants.

Brown Has Everything.

Energy, speed, aggressiveness, agility, and stamina that comes from rigorous training brought Brown from the position of a third string end in his sophomore year, a substitute for Len Skoglund in the junior season, to All-American rating last fall. Earl also won three monograms in basketball and he captained the team in his senior year.

Earl starred in every one of Notre Dame's eight victories last fall and it was no fault of his if an individual may be excused in event of a team's defeat, that Southern California whipped Notre Dame in the final contest. He is a great pass catcher. He took a short touchdown toss from Harry Stevenson against Kansas in the opening Notre Dame game last fall. The next week he grabbed another pass by Stevenson in the end zone against Illinois, which was thrown from the 45 yard line. And

Mayer, motion picture magnate who has spent $300,000 in the last year acquiring a racing stable, announced today he was withdrawing from competition in California and prepared to leave for Saratoga track in New York. A representative said Mayer was dissatisfied with the weights assigned his horses and other actions of tracks in this state.

WASHINGTON PK. OFFERS PAIR OF STAKES TODAY

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Two $2,500 stake events will head this afternoon's program at Washington Park. The six furlong Chicago handicap has drawn ten of the midwest's fastest sprinters and the Sheridan handicap, a gallop of a mile and seventy yards, has attracted nine good performers which fancy the longer route.

The Valdina farm's Viscounty, which ran fourth in the Kentucky Derby, is expected to be established as the favorite in the Sheridan. Among the strong contenders will be Charles H. Cleary's Calexico, Dixiana's Star Boarder, and Shady Brook farm's Timeful.

The Woolford entry of Joe Schenck and Rifted Clouds probably will get the heaviest support in the Chicago, and Mrs. Emil Denemark's Prairie Dog, which showed great improvement in winning the feature event on opening day, is expected to be another important factor.

Yarberry Rides Again.

Jockey Warren Yarberry, who drew a ten day suspension in the latter part of the Arlington Park meeting, will resume riding today, having drawn the assignment on Joe Schenck. Paul Ryan, who is leading the Washington Park jockeys, will fill his engagement on Prairie Dog before beginning a ten day suspension for rough riding aboard Trim Stepper and Bucket Head in the first and second races yesterday.

Charles H. Cleary, owner of Flying Lill, and Herbert M. Woolf, owner of Unerring, yesterday signed an agreement with Walter L. Gregory, president of the track, for a match race between the two fillies, which are candidates for the championship of their age and sex. According to the terms, they will meet for a $5,000 purse on Aug. 31 over a mile route, regardless of weather or track conditions, each carrying 110 pounds, winner take all.

Flying Lill Is One Up.

In their meeting in the Matron handicap at Arlington Park, Flying Lill won by a neck after running the mile in 1:36 3-5. She was carrying a pound less than her rival. Later Unerring beat a field of Classic candidates, including the Millsdale stable's Sun Lover, which finished second to Challedon in the big race.

The Calumet farm's Talked About won the Dorchester purse, a six furlong dash which headed yesterday's program. Closing powerfully in the stretch after laying off the early pace, he got to the front at the eighth pole and drew away gradually to beat the Bomar stable's Noble Boy by nearly two lengths. The Shadybrook farm's Visigoth, after being outrun during the early stages, came on well in the stretch and took third place, a neck short of Noble Boy.

Talked About was the 2 to 1 favorite, paying $6.20, $3.60, and $3. He ran the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5.

McCombs' Third in Row.

This was the third consecutive winner ridden by Ken McCombs and the second in a row saddled by J. C. Hodgins for Calumet farm. On Quest had led the way home in the previous race, a six furlong event for maiden 3 year olds. Just before that McCombs had brought in Honey Chile, a 30 to 1 shot.

One of the participants in the patrons' handicapping contest picked the first five winners, but went out when his choice in the sixth race, Vassar, finished third while Dead Calm was winning by a nose over Little Tramp.

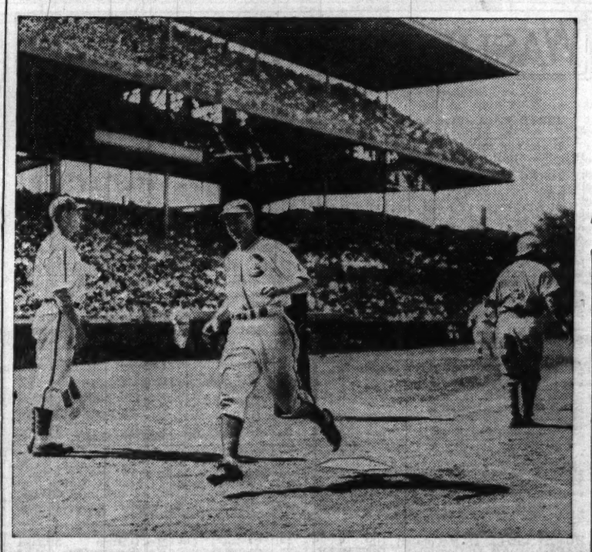
One Run—Good as a Million



Stan Hack scores the lone run in the Cubs' 1 to 0 victory over the Boston Bees yesterday. Hack walked, moved to third on Billy Herman's single and scored on Augie Galan's sacrifice fly. In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

FRITZ CRISLER of Michigan, in sizing up football prospects in the Big Ten conference, says Northwestern and Minnesota have the power, but Ohio State and Purdue are close behind. . . . Replacement of six losses in the line will decide the Wolverines' chances, he says. . . . Isn't anybody casting a vote for Wisconsin? . . . And while we're on the subject, our operatives at Bloomington inform us that Indiana will be no setup. . . . Dizzy Dean easily is baseball's most expensive chattel. . . . He cost the Cubs $185,000 in cash and by the end of this season will have lived through two $20,000 contracts. . . . He has pitched 146 innings, making the cost approximately $154 an inning. . . . The price jumps if allowance is made for the fact that the Cubs also gave the Cardinals three players in the deal. . . . Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh half back, hurt his toe in a basketball game at a summer training camp in Maine, but the injury will not interfere with his participation in the All-Star game, in which he has been elected to a starting position at left half back. . . . Nick Conteas, a quarter back, who weighs 215 pounds, will be the heaviest man on the Northwestern football squad. . . .

In Philadelphia, while he was incapacitated due to a pulled leg muscle, Gee Walker, the world's most erratic base runner, was given permission to coach at first base. . . . While Gee was at the position Eric McNair hit sharply to left field. . . . McNair galloped around first and broke for second. . . . He was thrown out at second by fifteen feet. . . . The Sox players drew up resolutions proclaiming Walker the worst coach they ever had seen. . . . Walker's defense was that he had hollered at his fellow Mississippian to "gee." . . . "Gee" in Mississippi mule language means "go to the right," just as it does every place where there are mules. . . . "Dumb mule that he is," charged Walker, "McNair turned to the left against my instructions." . . . Johnny Berardino, the Browns' young second baseman, was a movie actor at the age of 6. . . . Design for Living.

Each day to do some little deed
To make some sad heart lighter;
Each hour to speak some kindly word
To make some dark spot brighter;
To hold your tongue or else defend
When some one's on the rack;
So take and don't strike back.

Who need no help, I'm sure,
But to walk among the lowly,
The discouraged, and the poor;
No toddying to those on top,
Who hardly know you're living;
It's among the meek and humble
Real inspiration's given.

Right at home on your own street
It doesn't take gardenias
To comfort lonely hours;
There's a mighty lasting fragrance

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—Fourteen hits, including a homer by Larry Rosenthal, a triple by Jack Hayes and a double by Luke Appling, weren't enough to counteract the ill effects of four Washington double plays, some sloppy Chicago base running and some unseemly enemy swatting in the Sox-Senators opener this afternoon. So the Senators won in the tenth inning, 6 to 5, their fourth conquest of the Sox in fifteen games this season.

If a goat is to be nominated for the Sox's failure, the doubtful honor must go to Mike Kreevich, the club's leading hitter, who had the misfortune to hit the balls which started all four of the Senators' double plays, thereby equaling the major league record established by Goose Goslin of the Tigers on April 28, 1934. Manager Jimmy Dykes finally lost hope and, when it came time for Mike to bat in the ninth, sent Johnny Marcum up for him.

Error Helps Senators.

Clint Brown, making his forty-second stand of the season, was the losing pitcher, whipped with none out in the tenth on a triple by Charley Gelbert and a sunkissed single by Jimmy Bloodworth.

The Sox made four runs in the second, third, and fourth innings—then put on their high fedoras until after the Senators had gone ahead, 5 to 4, when an error by Joe Kuhel bloomed into a run by Gelbert in the eighth. The Sox then fought back to tie the score at 5 all in the ninth.

Pete Appleton, fourth Washington pitcher, was the winner, as the Washington boys ran up a five-game winning streak. Thornton Lee missed his tenth victory, but escaped a ninth defeat. It was Brown's sixth loss.

Rosenthal Smashes One.

In the first game of the series against the A's, last Tuesday, Rosenthal opened the scoring by driving out a homer with one on base. This proved a delightful precedent, so Larry decided to repeat the act in the opener today.

With one out in the second inning, Radcliff singled to center and went to second while Bloodworth was making a nice play to retire McNair. Rosenthal then socked his homer over the high right field signboard, scoring behind Radcliff. Larry's shot was the third to clear the distant and lofty advertising exhibit this season.

The Sox added a run in the third. Hayes tripled with one out and scored on a single by Kuhel.

Luke Falls to Slide.

The Sox made their fourth run in the fourth and would have had at least two but for the fact Appling did not choose to slide. Luke pushed off with a double but neglected to hit the dirt after running toward the plate on Radcliff's single to left and Ferrell tagged him out. Radcliff reached second on the play and scored on McNair's single to center.

Estalella opened the home sixth with a double and Gelbert walked. Bloodworth filed to Radcliff, but Vernon singled to left, loading the bases. Ferrell lifted a sacrifice fly to Kreevich, Estalella scoring the tying run.

Error Starts Trouble.

With one out in the Washington eighth Gelbert was safe on Kuhel's fumble. Bloodworth filed to Kreevich. Kreevich was handcuffed by Vernon's liner and it was scored as a hit. Gelbert reaching third. Ferrell singled to left, scoring Gelbert.

PASSEAU YIELDS ONLY FOUR HITS; HACK SCORES

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, showing further improvement as the result of the tonic applied by the addition of Bobby Mattick and Bill Nicholson to the active ranks, removed the sting from Boston's Bees yesterday and made the operation worth a 1 to 0 triumph in the opener of the series. However, the improvement didn't include a boisterous attack by the tottering champions, their lone run being mainly the outcome of a slight attack of wildness suffered by 32 year old Lou Fette.

Claude Passeau.

Neither did the Bees perform any worthwhile deeds with their bats, but they did reveal a suspicion that Claude Passeau, who choked them off on four hits, wasn't conducting himself in keeping with the rules and regulations. They accused the ex-Philly of sneaking in "spit ball" pitches at various stages of the nine inning journey and the umpires gave support to the Bees' charges by finally warning Passeau that the trickery hadn't escaped their vigilance.

Fette Grows Suspicious.

Fette, while batting in an early inning, suddenly brought up the spit ball subject by demanding Umpire Chief Ballanfant take a peek at the ball just as the Cub expert was about to wind up. There was no evidence of cheating. Later on the umpires, who were watching carefully, walked to the mound and quietly cautioned Passeau. Then in the ninth Umpire Magerkurth, who was working at first base, became highly exercised about the matter. He charged over and laid down the law, the speech bringing Manager Hartnett forth as attorney for the defense. Passeau, of course, denied the charge and Magerkurth could find no evidence, so the game proceeded.

Passeau's pitching, regardless of what he was throwing, was so effective that only one man reached third base, this happening in the first inning, but his record wouldn't have been so good in this respect if Nicholson hadn't charged into the ivy in the eighth to snare an extra base wallop from the bat of Al Simmons. The catch sort of made amends for the Chattanooga rookie's error on a fly ball earlier in the game and also for the fact that he was held hitless.

Walk Sets Up Run.

The Cubs fashioned three hits off Fette in the first two innings, but couldn't score until he gave them assistance by his wildness. He walked Hack to open the third. Hack went to third when Herman dunked a single into center, but even with this flying start only one scored. Galan flied to Garms, Hack scoring and Herman racing to second, where a favorable decision by Umpire Magerkurth awaited him. Then Leiber walked and was doubled off first base on Nicholson's liner to Hassett.

The first of the hits off Passeau came from Sisti, who opened the battle with an infield scratch. Passeau took care of the next three batters. In the second Garms doubled to left with one out and still was on second when the inning ended. The next hit showed up with one out in the fifth. Warstler singled, whereupon Nichol-

UNSATISFACTORY FIGHTS STIR IRE OF BOXING HEAD

Chairman Triner Declares War on Offenders.

Joe Triner, commission chairman, made this plain after Willie Joyce's questionable knockout of Maxie Fisher, Newark, N. J., lightweight, in White City Wednesday. Triner also wasn't impressed by Billy Marquart's knockout of Johnny Rinaldi, New York junior welterweight, in Marigold Gardens two days earlier.

"This business is going to stop," the chairman declared yesterday. "At Monday's meeting of the board I'm going to urge my fellow members [Sheldon Clark and James R. Fitzpatrick] to help me put a stop to this wave of unsatisfactory matches.

He's After Managers.

"I know now that Jack Hurley, manager of Marquart, closed the match between Marquart and Rinaldi. I also am aware now that Izzy Kline, manager of Joyce, arranged the encounter between Joyce and Fisher. Jack Begun is supposed to be the matchmaker at Marigold arena and Sam Abruscato has been serving in the same capacity at White City. In the future these men must arrange their own bouts. If they aren't competent, then the promoters [Irving Schoenwald at Marigold and Bill Rand at White City] must obtain some one who can handle the job."

Betting Aroused Suspicion.

Triner didn't say what punishment would be meted out to offenders. This probably will be decided upon at Monday's meeting.

Advance predictions made by betters at White City and Marigold of the result of the Marquart-Rinaldi and Joyce-Fisher engagements are partly responsible for the chairman's belief that the knockouts may have been tainted.

Other bouts which have given cause for suspicion include Pete Lello's knockout of Irish Eddie McGeever, July 12; Milt Aron's technical knockout of Jackie Berg, June 26, and McGeever's knockout of Red Lyons May 5.

ROW IN SIOUX CITY, IA.

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 4 (AP).—Nate Bolden, 153 pound Chicago colored fighter, knocked out a 175 pounder in the fourth round of a scheduled eight round fight here last night, but the identity of his opponent was in question tonight.

Sioux City Promoter Jimmy O'Grady said 1 na signed statement: "The fighter who lost to Nate Bolden here Thursday night represented himself to be Rex Thomas. I had never seen Rex Thomas fight and as far as I was concerned the man who met Bolden was Thomas."

Reds End Losing Streak in Night Game.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 4 (AP).—Bucky Walters broke the Reds' two game losing streak tonight by subduing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 3, for his 19th victory of the season before 26,056 fans. Dolf Camilli hit his 17th home run for the Dodgers.

Walters, the first pitcher in either major league to win nineteen games, was in real trouble only in the sixth, when the Dodgers put together a walk, a pair of singles, and Ernie Koy's double for two runs after two were out. Camilli's homer in the ninth made up their total.

Billy Myers committed his first error in 142 chances—23 games since July 8—in the second when he fumbled Koy's grounder.

YANKS WIN, 5-4, DESPITE 3 HOME RUNS BY INDIANS

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Three Cleveland home runs were no match today for the assortment of twelve hits the New York Yankees put together in winning, 5 to 4, over the Indians. Oral Hildebrand and Marius Russo limited the Indians to five hits, which included a home run by Hal Trosky with one on in the first, another by Odell Hale in the second and one by Jeff Heath in the seventh to account for all Cleveland's runs. Errors, which cost the Indians a game at Boston yesterday when they made six, figured in the setback today. Umpire Joe Rue chased Johnny Allen off the Cleveland bench in the seventh inning for heckling after Manager Oscar Vitt and the Indians protested a called ball on Charley Keller.

DICK TRACY—Strictly in Line of Duty

son erred on Lopez's fly. Fette then hoisted to Nicholson and Sisti succumbed on a called third strike.

Fette Tightens Up.

After their scoring achievement in the third the Cubs didn't have much luck getting to base. Mattick singled in the fourth and died stealing. Herman doubled in the fifth with two out and Galan closed the inning with a tap to Warstler. The sixth brought an improvement. Leiber singled before anybody was retired, but this didn't even result in a journey as far as second. Fette wasn't disturbed again until the eighth when Herman singled with one out. He expired trying to steal second.

Helped by one of Mattick's choice stops and throws, Passeau turned in a perfect sixth inning, but after two were gone in the seventh he was frisked for the fourth hit. It was Warstler's second single that Mattick slapped down after it had eluded Hack. And then there was that Simmons clout which was within inches of an extra base drive with two out in the eighth. This was the one that Nicholson pulled out of the climbing ivy without regard for the brick wall immediately behind the foliage.

Charles Root, dean of the Cub staff, will perform against the Bees in the second of the series today. Boston's pitching will be in charge of Joe Sullivan, a lefty.

There is no truth to the report that Manager Hartnett has put Catcher Hartnett in the doghouse. Gus Mancuso did the catching in the opener against the Phils and the Cubs won. He caught the next with the Phils and the Cubs won again. So on the basis of a well established baseball superstition Mancuso caught again yesterday.

Mrs. Patricia Dean joined her husband, Dizzy, as a patient of Dr. John W. Davis, Cub physician, yesterday, when she underwent an operation at the Illinois Masonic hospital. She was reported resting comfortably. Dean, who developed soreness in his arm while pitching Tuesday, was at the hospital yesterday, as a visitor rather than a patient.

The first major upset of the tournament occurred in the semi-finals of the junior singles when the favored Ted Olewine of Santa Monica, Cal., was eliminated by Larry Dee of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-4. Dee was seeded third.

Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., won the right to meet Dee for the championship tomorrow by defeating Jack Kramer of San Francisco in the other semi-final, 6-4, 6-3.

Neale is the only non-Californian in the junior doubles final. Dee and Neale will meet Kramer and Olewine in the finals, the latter team having beaten Bobby Carrothers of Coronado, Cal., and Harper Ink of San Diego, Cal., 7-5, 6-3, in the other semi-final match.

Riggs Rallies to Gain Final Tennis Round

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—America's unhappy Davis cup outlook grew no brighter today as Bobby Riggs of Chicago entered the final round of the forty-ninth annual Meadow club invitation tournament with a hollow 4-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Bob Kamrath of Austin, Tex. Riggs' opponent tomorrow, for the second successive year, will be Sidney Wood, who was equally unimpressive in defeating Ernest Sutter of New Orleans, La., 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

If Riggs, present Wimbledon champion, wins over Wood, 1931 Wimbledon champion, it will give him the third leg on the $1,000 challenge bowl, and permanent possession. Riggs beat Wood in straight sets in 1938.

The doubles team of Don McNeill and Frankie Parker gained the final round, but rain interrupted the match between Riggs and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., who trailed Bill and Chester Murphy of Chicago, 11-13, 4-2. McNeill and Parker defeated Frank Guernsey Jr. of Orlando, Fla., and Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta, Ga., 6-2, 5-7, 7-9, 6-4, 6-2.

Riggs disappointed every one with a wretched service. Kamrath, who has been playing indifferent tennis all summer, took liberties with Riggs' first offering and chased Bobby all over the court from the baseline. Wood had none of his usual speed against Sutter, but his greater tournament experience and his sharper control finally won for him.

Parker was easily the best doubles man on the court today. His peculiar arching service permitted only a soft return which either he or McNeill usually stowed away. The engagement was prolonged, however, by McNeill's erratic efforts.

NORTH. INDIANA PUBLIC SERVICE FILES BIG LOAN

New Offerings Increase in Last Week.

The Northern Indiana Public Service company yesterday filed with the Securities and Exchange commission a registration statement covering $45,000,000 of 3¾ per cent first mortgage bonds, series A, due in 1969. The company, which has headquarters at Hammond, Ind., will use the proceeds, together with $6,000,000 to be borrowed from banks, to refund outstanding obligations. Halsey, Stuart & Co. of Chicago will head the underwriting syndicate.

New security issues offered the investing public during the week ended Thursday totaled $64,207,196, compared with $40,741,500 in the preceding week, and $7,165,497 a year ago, a compilation disclosed yesterday. Poor's Publishing company reported municipal issues accounted for the major part of the week's financing, 79 per cent of which was undertaken to provide new capital rather than refund outstanding issues.

Most Issues Municipals.

The municipal total was $50,260,850, against $9,474,500 the week before, and $7,165,497 a year ago. Miscellaneous issues totaled $2,500,000, against only $119,000 in the preceding week, and none of this classification a year earlier.

The value of stock offerings was $11,046,346, compared with $4,648,000 in the preceding week, and none in 1938. Railroad offerings aggregated $400,000. None of this classification appeared either the week before or a year ago.

The Terminal Railroad association of St. Louis announced yesterday that bids will be invited on Aug. 14 on $7,000,000 of series B refunding and improvement bonds, dated July 1, 1939, and due July 1, 1974. The coupon rate is not to exceed 3½ per cent. With the proceeds the company will redeem the first 4½ per cent bonds which are due Oct. 1.

Utility Offering Scheduled.

The $14,250,000 of first mortgage bonds of the Iowa Public Service company, scheduled to reach the market next week, will be offered at 101, it was announced at a Securities and Exchange commission hearing on the issue.

Next Friday a group headed by E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., will offer $4,100,000 of first mortgage 4 per cent bonds, $500,000 of 3½ per cent notes and 2,200 shares of preferred stock of the Central Ohio Light and Power company.

Summer's Peak Passes.

August 4, 1939.

ANY ONE visiting the farm at this season of the year sees ample evidence that summer's peak has passed, and that August is the month.

The drowsy, quiet atmosphere of the countryside, which hints that the growing season in the woodlots and in the fields is just about passed . . . the way the starlings and the cowbirds perch on the telephone wires with their recently hatched young . . . the lack of joyous bird songs in the woods except for the occasional call of a jay and the whistle of a cardinal . . . the rank vegetation, the many flowering weeds . . . early apples showing a flush of color . . . tassled corn in the fields . . . these and many other signs tell us that the month is August.

Happy Songs Missed.

When we walked through some of the woodlots earlier in the week we missed the happy songs of the meadowlarks and the melodious concerts of the catbirds and brown thrashers. But the fact that most of the birds are not singing is not unusual. The season for bird music is gone. May and June are the months for concerts by the feathered residents of the farm. During August our birds must moult and during this change in their plumage they do not break out into long singing sessions.

To get a good look at the small game birds which were hatched on the Du Page county farm by bantam hens is almost as difficult as trying to find a needle in a haystack. The birds have grown rapidly, run around in very tall grass which makes it possible for them to hide easily, and they're very fast on the getaway.

We had our troubles this week when we visited the grassy area where the quail, partridges, and pheasants have been raised. First we found a little brown hen. She was alone, but we knew that somewhere near her were a half dozen or more partridge chicks.

The hen fussed away at us while we stood in the tall grass waiting for a sight of her family. We were sure that her chicks had hidden. Our belief was correct. We heard a couple of high pitched whistles right at our feet—undoubtedly the signal that a partridge gives when it tells its pals to "scram," and then out from the grass sprinted the little fellows.

A Fleeting Glimpse.

We caught a fleeting glimpse of these little brown birds [about 5 inches high] and then presto! no birds. They had squatted in the grass and made themselves invisible. When we scared them from their hiding places, they rushed away a few feet and immediately were swallowed up again by the vegetation. This tall grass is just what these shy young game birds want. It furnishes protection and an abundance of natural insect food.

Some of the wild pheasants which have hatched out on the farm know where to find the choicest feed. This week one of the workers found a hen pheasant and her family of about 12 half grown birds having a fine time in one of the garden plots. They were going right down the rows inspecting the vegetable display and helping themselves to anything that appealed to their appetites. These ringnecks are pretty smart about gardens, especially if tomatoes are available, for they are very fond of those juicy vegetables.

Electric Line Is Ruled Subject to 2 Rail Acts

The Interstate Commerce commission yesterday ruled the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin railroad subject to provisions of the railroad retirement and carriers' taxing acts of 1937. Electric lines of a purely local character are exempt from the two acts, but the commission ruled the Aurora and Elgin operated "more than a street, interurban, or suburban electric railway."

South Chicago Bank Pays More on Waived Deposits

A 10 per cent disbursement totaling $87,948 on the waived deposits of the South Chicago Savings bank was announced yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. Depositors had waived 50 per cent of their claims after the bank moratorium of 1933 in order to help the bank reopen. This is the sixth 10 per cent payment.

Stocks Given Drubbing in Every Group

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 4. — With all sections of the list joining in the slide, the stock market today took its most severe drubbing in two weeks. Prices steadied somewhat in the final hour of trading, but losses ranged to more than 3 points in higher priced issues.

The fact that leading stocks took the worst beating supported the belief that the market's main play in the last few days has been mainly professional. This group is prone to cash in its chips in a hurry when prices fail to follow through on a rise. Many market observers maintain this is what happened late yesterday and today.

Steel Group Weakens.

Steels were almost universally weak, losses of 2 points or more being charged against Bethlehem, United States Steel, Youngstown, Crucible, Continental, National, and Sloss-Sheffield. "Big Steel" dropped under the 50 mark to close at 49¼ in heavy trading.

The volume leader in the decline was United States Rubber, off 1⅝. General Tire and Goodyear dropped a point or so.

Metals tumbled, with losses of 1 to more than 2 points recorded by Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Howe Sound, American Smelting, and Magma. United States Smelting managed to hold even.

Aviation Shares Sink.

Aviation group losses included declines of 1 to 2 points in Douglas, Boeing, United Aircraft, Wright Aero, and Pan-American.

Losses of more than a point in the farm equipment shares were topped with a drop of 3½ in J. I. Case. In the mail order group Sears-Roebuck slipped 1¾ and Montgomery Ward, one of the most active issues of the day, eased ¾ point.

Chrysler, another of the most active stocks, ranged between 79¾ and 82½. It closed off 1⅝ at 80⅝. General Motors lost 1. Oils scraped 1939 lows in some cases, but with losses mostly confined to fractions.

APPAREL SHOW SALES REPORTED AT NEW PEAK

The largest volume of business in the history of Chicago's annual fall wash apparel show was reported yesterday. Nearly $1,000,000 worth of washable apparel was sold, according to Glenn G. Hayes, executive director. In addition, national fabric houses booked orders with apparel manufacturers running into hundreds of thousands of dollars, Hayes said.

Exhibitors reported increases in business for fall over last year ranging from 5 to 37½ per cent, Hayes said. About 100 exhibitors from all parts of the country took part in the show, which closed last night.

More than 15,000 visiting buyers were reported taking part in the annual fall market of the Interstate Merchants' council, retail affiliate of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Officials of the council's trade and style shows estimated the market program, which will continue through next week, will bring $350,000 in revenue to the city's hotels, and $250,000 to railroads and other transportation agencies.

NEBRASKA POWER DISTRICT PLANS TO BUY UTILITY

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 4 [Special].—W. W. Youngman, Public Works administration attorney from Washington, said here today the Loup river public power district intends to buy the Nebraska Power company of Omaha if it can. Although the Nebraska hydro setup agreed not to buy Nebraska Power before Oct. 1, there is nothing to prevent negotiations before that time and closing the deal as soon after Oct. 1 as possible, he said.

Engineers probably will be in Nebraska next week, Youngman said, to investigate proposed deals by which the Loup and Platte Valley districts would acquire parts of the Western Public Service company, Northwestern Public Service, and possibly Nebraska properties of Iowa-Nebraska Power of Lincoln, the state's second largest private utility.

NLRB BLAMES REPUBLIC STEEL FOR '37 STRIKES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—The National Labor Relations board today attributed the "Little Steel" strikes of 1937 to "numerous unfair labor practices" by the Republic Steel corporation. It took this view in a brief opposing the company's suit to set aside the board's order for reinstatement of the strikers with back pay.

The brief was filed in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia, where argument will be heard Monday, but the board made it public here.

Auto Production Shrinks; Rusk Work on New Models

Automobile output approached the seasonal low point this week. Ward's Automotive Reports said yesterday. Car and truck assemblies during the period were 28,250, compared with 40,595 last week and 14,771 in the corresponding week last year. Only one major manufacturer operated on a normal basis according to Ward's, and all producers were rushing 1940 models to take advantage of an expending car market.

CITY ELEVATORS READY TO STORE SURPLUS CORN

Urge Placing of Ten Million Bushels.

Chicago grain elevator operators said yesterday they are prepared to handle 10 million bushels of surplus corn acquired by the government as security for loans to farmers. They expressed the conviction that Chicago elevators should be given a major share of the storage business because of the city's proximity to the big corn producing areas.

Elevators in the Chicago area have a combined storage capacity of approximately 48 million bushels, and only about 20 million bushels of grains of all kinds are being stored at present, according to elevator interests.

Supplements Farm Storage.

The government's plan to store corn in elevators supplements the program for construction of government owned corn storage bins to be located at rural points. Department of agriculture officials have received bids on the construction of steel bins capable of storing 50 to 100 million bushels of grain, and are expected to make the awards shortly. In addition, the government recently began making inquiries for space in elevators in which to store an additional 50 million bushels.

The government has made loans on 257,127,595 bushels of corn at the rate of 57 cents a bushel for a total outlay of $146,662,732. With a new corn crop nearly ready for marketing, the problem of storing the grain is becoming acute.

Chicago Is Export Center.

In seeking the storage business Chicago interests assert this center is the natural outlet for shipments of corn to Europe. It is estimated that 21 million bushels of the 1937 corn crop are now stored on Illinois and Iowa farms tributary to the Chicago market.

Nearly half of this farm-stored corn, is was said, could be brought into Chicago, where it would be easily available for transportation by lake to Montreal and other Canadian markets.

Limited receipts of wheat and an unexpected shortage in this year's oats crop will facilitate the handling of surplus corn in the Chicago area, it was said. Operators reported receipts of wheat have diminished, apparently because a large percentage of the crop is being held on the farms or in country elevators and pledged for loans.

Explain Elevator Capacity.

The 48 million bushel capacity is theoretical, elevator operators said, and deductions must be made for room necessary for loading and unloading. The total actual space, they reported, would house 44 million bushels. The rebuilding of the Rosenbaum Brothers' three elevators which were destroyed by fire last May is expected to augment the capacity figure by another 4 million bushels.

Of the total theoretical space available, an amount equal to 4,900,000 bushels has been pledged to the Commodity Credit corporation for the storage of grain held as collateral for government loans. Of the total theoretical capacity, space for approximately 23 million bushels is operated for the general storage of grain and space for 25 million bushels is used primarily for the storage of grain owned by individual elevator companies.

Report on Present Storage.

Chicago Board of Trade reports last week showed that 11,400,000 bushels of wheat, 6,600,000 bushels of corn, a million bushels of oats, and a million bushels of rye, barley, and soy beans are now stored in Chicago elevators.

The North Western elevator, with a listed or a theoretical capacity of 10,564,00 bushels, is the largest of the local houses and is operated under a lease by Cargill, Inc. Other large terminals, their operators, and their listed capacities, follow:

INVESTIGATE FIRE IN MALT PLANT; $100,000 DAMAGE

Assistant Corporation Counsel Earle Downes and fire department experts yesterday were investigating a fire in the malt house of the Northwest Malt and Grain company, 4600 Cortland street, which caused a loss estimated at more than $100,000 early in the day. Five-eleven and special alarms were sounded because 800,000 bushels of malt and barley were stored in the elevator bins.

The fire started in the top floor of the five story plant and swept across the roof. The flames raced over the conveyor chute connecting the building with the elevator, about 200 feet north of the plant. The estimate of damages was made by G. W. Hales, president of the company, and Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan.

If the flames had reached the grain elevator the explosion would have been the eleventh major grain elevator blaze in the last two decades in Chicago. The most recent was in the Rosenbaum granary at Calumet river and 102d street on May 11 with a loss of $4,000,000.

United States, Russia Extend Trade Accord

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—The United States and soviet Russia agreed today to continue in effect an agreement whereby Russia will buy a minimum of $40,000,000 of American goods in the next twelve months and the United States will accord Russia the same tarif reductions as countries with which it has trade agreements.

The state department released the texts of notes between the people's commissar for foreign trade of the soviet union, A. I. Mikoyan, and Stuart E. Grummon, American charge d'affaires at Moscow, which put the extension of the agreement into effect Sunday, Aug. 6.

Predict Large Business.

Although the pact sets $40,000,000 as the minimum soviet purchases here, officials forecast soviet orders in excess of this sum. They base their predictions on performances of the last two years.

Soviet purchases in the 1937-1938 treaty year were $65,394,000. In the first eleven months of the 1938-1939 agreement year they were $58,700,000. In 1933 soviet purchases had reached a low of $10,674,000 from a high of $136,162,000 in 1930.

"The soviet union has profited under the successive commercial agreements," the state department also said. "United States imports from the soviet union have increased steadily from the low of less than $10,000,000 in 1932 to $27,000,000 in the calendar year 1937."

Machinery Sent to Russia.

Four-fifths of United States exports to Russia consist of machinery and vehicles used in Russia's industrialization and militarization program. America also sold in 1938 about $5,000,000 worth of non-metallic minerals and $2,000,000 worth of high grade gasoline for aircraft engines.

Furs form the largest item of Russian sales to the United States—$13,000,000 in 1938. Other important imports from Russia are flax fabrics and non-metallic minerals such as anthracite and asbestos. Russia is the largest supplier of sausage casings to the United States, $400,000 worth. Unusual items of import are crabmeat sauce and paste, $522,000; caviar, $181,000, and bristles for brushes, $100,000.

RULES NLRB NEED NOT DIVULGE ITS DELIBERATIONS

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 4 [Special].—The third United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today that the National Labor Relations board cannot be forced to divulge its deliberations. The court denied the request of the Botany Worsted mills of Passaic, N. J., that it be allowed to question the board on its reasoning in ruling against the company in a case involving reëmployment of a dismissed worker.

"We are glad to insure to members of the labor board the same protection accorded to jurors since the 18th century," said the opinion by Judge William Clark. The court did, however, return the record of the case to the labor board for further determination of whether Joseph Piedl, the employé, had obtained "equivalent" employment since his discharge.

The board had sought to have the court enforce its reinstatement order, but the judges indicated that they believed Piedl's present job as a C. I. O. textile organizer could be regarded substantially equivalent to the position he lost.

PRESIDENT SIGNS TRUST INDENTURE STANDARDS BILL

Washington, D. C., Aug 4. (AP)—President Roosevelt signed into law today legislation establishing standards for trust indentures and giving the Securities and Exchange Commission authority to enforce them.

Presented as an investment reform measure by Senator Barkley [D.-K.], the bill was altered radically before final passage to restrict the Sec's powers. As Finally approved, it fixed rules for the conduct of trustees in carrying out terms of trust indentures which set out the assets supporting the issuance of bonds and other securities.

Given the general approval of private banking and investment houses, the legislation would impose restrictions on trust indentures on all issues of securities subject to registration by the SEC.

New York Bank Clearings and Deposits Are Larger

New York, Aug 4 [Special].—Bank clearings totaled $3,627,540,275 in the week ended today, against $3,047,700,804 in the preceding week, the New York Clearing house announced today. Total net demand deposits increased $21,436,000.

CHICAGO DEPARTMENT STORES' SALES 2.4 PCT. HIGHER THAN YEAR AGO

Chicago department store sales were 2.4 per cent higher last week than in the corresponding week of 1938, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. For the four weeks ended July 29 there was an advance of 2.2 per cent.

In the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district, the week's average gain was 2.65 per cent, and the four weeks' upturn 4.7 per cent. Benefiting from improvement in automotive industry employment by comparison with last year, Detroit sales were 9 per cent higher in the week and 15.5 per cent higher in the fours weeks.

Of the twelve reserve districts throughout the country, five showed increases and seven decreases in the week's tabulation. The Atlanta district made the best showing, with sales up 6 per cent. The largest loss was in the Boston district, where sales were 9 per cent lower.

In the four weeks' tabulation ten of the districts registered improvement and two districts recorded sales unchanged from last year's levels. The Atlanta district also led this advance with a gain of 9 per cent.

CHICAGO CORP. ASSET VALUE $1.03 PER SHARE

Net asset value of Chicago corporation common stock on July 31 equaled $1.03 a share, the corporation, one of the largest investment trusts in the middle west, announced yesterday. Its net assets at the close of last month had an indicated market value of $31,524,934, equal to $57.44 a share on 548,800 shares of convertible preference stock outstanding. Net asset value of the common stock was figured after allowing for the preference stock at $50 a share and dividend accumulations.

Chicago corporation had net assets of $28,665,143 on June 30, equal to $52.18 a share on 559,300 shares of preference stock outstanding, and 20 cents a common share.

Chicago corporation declared a dividend of 75 cents on the preferred stock, payable Sept. 1, to stockholders of record Aug. 15. That amount is due quarterly on the stock and arrears after the payment will be 75 cents, the same as at present.

Railway and Light Securities company announced net asset value of $19.45 a common share July 31, against $16.58 a share on June 30 and $16.95 on July 31, 1938.

STEEL PAY RULE OF LABOR BOARD UPSET BY COURT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today upset a labor department determination under the Walsh-Healy act which found 62½ cents an hour to be the prevailing wage of the steel industry in an "eastern" district extending from the Atlantic seaboard to western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Kentucky.

The Walsh-Healy act requires firms which receive government contracts to pay the prevailing wage in their localities and empowers the secretary of labor to determine the prevailing wage in each locality.

A number of "little steel" companies filed suit in District court here for a permanent injunction against the finding, but their complaint was dismissed. Then they obtained a temporary injunction from the Court of Appeals pending further proceedings.

The Court of Appeals found today that the lower court erred in the dismissal and remanded the case for further hearing there, meanwhile continuing its temporary restraining order.

WEST SIDE BANK STOCK LIABILITY CASE APPEALED

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 4 (AP).—The Illinois Supreme court was asked today to decide litigation involving the liability of stockholders of the closed West Side Trust and Savings bank of Chicago.

Edward Morris Jr., Nelson Morris, Helen Swift Neilson, and other stockholders appealed from a decision of the Cook County Superior court which held them liable for the bank's indebtedness.

After the bank closed in 1933 a creditors' petition placed the institution's liabilities at $4,602,977. The appeal petition said since the Superior court's ruling part of the indebtedness had been paid through liquidation under the stockholders' liability law.

HOLC Cuts Interest on Home Loans

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—Shortly after conferring with President Roosevelt today, John H. Fahey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan bank board, announced a reduction in Home Owner's Loan corporation interest rates from 5 to 4½ per cent. This follows similar action by the Federal Housing administration earlier this week, which set the maximum interest rate on mortgages committed for insurance by the FHA on small homes at 4½ instead of 5 per cent.

John H. Fahey.

Only several weeks ago Fahey, while testifying before the monopoly investigating committee, issued a strong warning against further reductions in interest rates, a consistent aim of the New Deal administration.

Estimates Saving to Borrowers.

It was likely that Fahey's 11 o'clock appointment with the President had some bearing on the announcement this afternoon. The reduction of one-half of 1 per cent in HOLC interest rates will save borrowers of the corporation between 5 and 6 million dollars a year, Fahey estimated.

He said that the reduction will apply to all borrowers who meet their obligations in accordance with their contracts and will be put into effect as soon as detailed arrangements can be made throughout the country. The new rate will amount to 4½ per cent net to borrowers on their declining loan balance, Fahey explained, and will not be retroactive.

Lends Over Three Billions.

The HOLC was created in June, 1933, to make loans to property owners whose mortgages were being foreclosed. The corporation made 1,017,948 loans, totaling 3 billion 93 million dollars, before it stopped lending operations in June, 1936. It is now collecting the balance of loans outstanding and disposing of property it acquired when borrowers failed to meet their loans.

Of the more than one million borrowers, Fahey said that 726,000 are on their way to home ownership or have paid up their accounts in full, and that more than 125,000 others have made sufficient payments to keep their accounts open. This leaves more than 166,000 borrowers who have defaulted.

The house today passed and sent to the President a senate bill authorizing the HOLC to extend from fifteen to twenty years the amortization period for home loans. This is another effort to ease the burden and possibly improve the chances for better returns on the outstanding loans.

SPEND 8 MILLION ON SHELL OIL'S ILLINOIS PLANT

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 4 (AP).—The Shell Oil company will spend $8,000,000 in an expansion and modernization program at its Wood River, Ill., refinery.

The additions and alterations, which already are under way, will raise the refinery's crude oil capacity from 50,000 to 75,000 barrels daily and will add more than 300 men to the permanent pay roll. More than 1,000 construction workers will be employed during the building program.

Alexander Fraser, president, today said the plans include a new cracking unit of 18,000 barrels daily capacity, used to break down heavy oils into high octane gasoline.

American Oil Firm Loses Mexican High Court Suit

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Mexican Supreme court today announced it had denied an injunction sought by the Richmond Petroleum company, Standard Oil Company of California subsidiary, seeking to block cancellation of drilling concessions for a quarter million acres in the states of Tabasco, Campeche, and Chiapas. The court held that a concession granted Gen. Fortunato Zuazua prohibited transfer of the lands except to Mexicans or Mexican companies organized with Mexican capital. Gen Zuazua obtained the concession in 1930 and transferred it to Richmond Petroleum in 1936.

COAL PROGRAM MEANS BIG RISE IN FUEL COSTS

Operator to Battle Price Fixing.

Fuel costs of Chicago building owners will be forced up more than 2 million dollars annually if a proposed coal price schedule is adopted by the department of the interior, Chicago coal interests declared yesterday. The fuel costs of industrial corporations will increase additional millions, it was said.

The chorus of protests arising since publication of the price schedule for this area on July 26 is expected to be renewed in Washington next Monday when hearings on this district's rates are to begin.

James C. Hoskins, Chicago coal operator, who estimated the extent of the increase in costs, declared he will protest the boost when the hearings begin and will seek a federal court injunction if the schedule is adopted by the interior department's bituminous coal division.

Foe of Price Fixing.

Hoskins, president of the Hoskins Coal and Dock corporation, has been an outspoken foe of government price fixing in the coal industry. In announcing his intention to carry the current controversy to the United States Supreme court if this step is necessary, he recalled that he had sought a similar injunction to prevent enforcement of a price schedule under the national recovery act. Invalidation of that act and nullification of the proposed price fixing scheme made it unnecessary for him to continue the old fight.

"Under the new schedule," Hoskins said, "the price of high volatile egg coal from eastern Kentucky and West Virginia is fixed at $2.60 a ton in the Chicago area, designated district No. 29. The same coal may be bought for $2.10 a ton, or 50 cents less, at any other port on Lake Michigan, known as district No. 99. This coal is used in homes and apartment buildings and consumed in steamships. District 29, made up of what is known as the Chicago switching district, includes Gary on the south and Glencoe on the north.

Cites Another Discrimination.

"Another example of discrimination is shown in the price schedule on Pocahontas screenings, low volatile coal. The price of 1¼ inch screenings is set at $1.90 a ton in the Chicago switching district, or 25 cents a ton higher than in nearby districts. The price is $1.65 a ton in districts 28 and 30 in northern Indiana.

"Large steel and industrial plants consume this type of coal, and much of it is converted into coke at the steel plants in the Calumet area.

"Prices established for other grades of coal are just as discriminatory for the Chicago district, which consumes more than 25 million tons of coal a year. Eight million tons are used within the city limits in office buildings, apartment buildings, and homes.

"The establishment of prices proposed at the mine is to eliminate the saving of water transportation and charge consumers 'all the trafic will bear.' The government has spent more than 22 million dollars on the development of Chicago harbor facilities and more than 80 million dollars on the development of the Illinois waterways. The new schedule revives the discrimination attempted under the NRA."

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Bonds of all categories felt the pull of moderate selling today. Closing losses in corporates ranged from fractions to around 2 points. United States government loans lost 1-32d to 15-32ds point. Low yield ratings were relatively as weak as the speculative types which usually move with the stock market.

Some dealers said institutional holders were reducing commitments now that demand for business loans is showing definite expansion.

Pressure on the general run of rails and utilities, which had been leaders in the July upturn, was attributed to profit selling to even accounts over the week-end.

Chicago Stocks.

Lower prices were posted against most of the active issues on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader, closed ¼ point net lower at 30⅞ on a turnover of 2,800 shares. Fractional declines were registered also by Middle West, Marshall Field, and Zenith.

Hall Printing attracted interest by advancing to 15⅝, the highest price this year. The stock closed at 14⅞ for a gain of ⅝ point. Only twenty-one of the 110 issues traded showed advances. Sixty-four declined and twenty-five closed unchanged.

Sale of a membership on the exchange was made at $1,500, unchanged from the last previous sale.

Bank Stocks.

Bid prices of Chicago bank stocks were mostly lower yesterday than in Thursday's trading. Continental Illinois was down 1½ points, First National and Northern Trust each down 2 points, and declines of 1 point were registered for bids on Chicago Title and City National stocks.

CENT. REPUBLIC TRUST COLLECTS $630,000 MORE

Receiver Reports Three Months' Liquidation.

An estimated $630,000 was collected by the Central Republic Trust company, which is liquidating the assets of its predecessor, the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, from liquidations in the three months ended July 31. This was disclosed yesterday in the quarterly statement of Receiver Charles H. Albers. The report was filed with Judge John Prystalski in the Circuit court.

Charles H. Albers.

The amount was substantially below the $1,100,000 collected in the preceding quarter, Albers said, but ran slightly ahead of normal quarterly collections in the last few years. The $630,000 compared with collections of around $500,000 for the quarterly periods since January, 1937, with the exception of collections in the three months ended last April 30.

Money Turned Over to RFC.

Albers said the amount collected in the latter period was "unusual" and represented the largest amount since Jan. 31, 1937, when $3,400,000 was obtained.

The $630,000 collected in the latest period was turned over to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. It applies on the 90 million dollar loan made by the RFC in 1932 to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

Only about $133,000 of the amount collected went to reduce the principal of the loan. The remainder was for interest on the unpaid balance, which is computed at 5½ per cent. As a result, the unpaid balance on July 31 amounted to about $43,000,000, according to Albers.

Reduce Real Estate Holdings.

Albers reported that his office had elliminated numerous real estate holdings during the period, trading these against issues already held in substantial amounts. This procedure, he explained, would enable the receivers' office to offer for sale securities with a broader market or to control the sale of assets underlying securities held in the increased amount.

The extent to which the receiver was forced to make generous settlements of claims was indicated by two cases chosen at random from the report submitted to the court. In one a total debt of $23,408 was settled for $782. The debtor had no assets except wearing apparel, according to his sworn statement, and his liabilities totaled $300,000.

How Debts Are Scaled.

In another case a claim of $107,925 was settled for $1,000. The debtor's sworn statement showed ownership only of a homestead at Coral Gables, Fla., and a one-fifth interest in an estate closed in 1929. The property representing the bulk of the estate was disposed of at a foreclosure sale several months ago. Under Florida law, the receiver was prevented from attaching the homestead because it consisted of only about a quarter of an acre. The law of that state prohibits attachment of a homestead less than half an acre.

Business Bits

An announcement by the Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating corporation yesterday said C. U. Williams, president for twenty-one years, has retired. He is succeeded by his son, W. W. Williams, who has been vice president since the firm's incorporation in 1924.

W. W. Williams.

John B. Reynolds has been elected president of the Chicago Federal Savings & Loan association, and Benjamin Keach has been named secretary-treasurer, it was announced by the association.

Fred Borries, president of the Millers' National federation, announced the election of Herman Steen as vice president. Steen will also continue with his present duties as secretary, a post which he has held since 1929.

The oldest employé in point of service at the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company plant in Pullman laid aside his tools and retired yesterday after fifty years of service. He is Jacob Hofer, a wood machinist, of 43 West 109th place. Other old timers at the plant gathered about Hofer as company officials gave him his first pension check. Hofer, who was born in Germany in 1869, began working for the company in 1884, just one year after it was established. For many years, he directed a Pullman band which played at virtually all civic affairs in the district.

WHEAT CANCELS EARLY UPTURN; CORN ADVANCES

The grain markets were full of crosscurrents yesterday and price fluctuations were erratic. Wheat advanced about 1 cent a bushel early in sympathy with firmer Liverpool and Winnipeg markets and on unfavorable crop reports from the Canadian northwest. Profit taking and a reaction in Winnipeg late in the session wiped out the early upturn.

Closing prices on wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Kansas City was ¾ cent lower and Winnipeg was ¼ to ⅝ cent higher.

Corn showed a firm undertone and closed ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher. Continued small receipts and estimates that Chicago elevator stocks would show a decrease of about 1,500,000 bushels for the week had considerable effect on sentiment. A forecast for continued warm and dry weather also was effective in decreasing selling pressure on corn.

Fears were expressed yesterday that unless soaking rains were received shortly the condition of the corn crop in many sections of the main commercial producing area would start to deteriorate.

day, Illinois coal producers awaited action by the interstate commerce commission on a lake cargo coal rate schedule proposed by railroads, but held up by the commission.

This schedule, however, is not involved in the interior department's price program. The lake carriers are not subject to interstate commerce commission regulation as the rail carriers are. Illinois mine operators who desire to ship by water would not benefit unless the commission allows the railways to put the new rate in effect.

Virtually all of the coal delivered by lake freighter to ports along the Great Lakes originates at eastern mines, according to Illinois operators who contend the eastern mines hold an unfair competitive position because of lower rail rates to Lake Erie docks, from which the coal is shipped to other points.

Favors Eastern Coal.

They assert that because of this advantage, coal travels 1,100 miles by rail and water from eastern mines to Milwaukee at rates with which the Illinois mines cannot compete, although the Illinois coal would be transported less than 400 miles.

Industrialists in the Rock Island, Moline, and Davenport area, meanwhile, filed protests in Washington yesterday against the interior department's price schedule, which they said would cost them $350,000 extra each year. They retained Luther Walter, Chicago attorney, to represent them at hearings for their district scheduled to begin next month.

OCTOBER EGGS SELL LOWEST FOR SIX YEARS

The failure of cash egg prices to show signs of stability despite favorable storage and arrival statistics yesterday inspired liquidation of October contracts on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The delivery sank to 18.20 cents a dozen, a new seasonal low and the lowest August price in six years. At the close a loss of .20 cent a dozen was recorded at 18.25 cents.

November butter also lost .20 cent, closing at 23.70 cents a pound. Hedging and professional selling entered the market due to the prolonged unsettled condition of the cash market. The Dairy Products Marketing association bought nearly 300,000 pounds of butter here and in New York to maintain its pegged price.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The average cost of hogs to packers on the Chicago market yesterday sank to $5.45, the lowest since February, 1934. The price was off 10 cents for the day and showed a decline of $2.80 compared with the corresponding day last year. It was $6.95 lower than in 1937, when prices of hogs and pork were highest since 1926.

The trade for lambs was active at mostly steady prices yesterday. Weakness prevailed in most classes of steers and yearlings yesterday, but not enough arrived to put the trade to a test.
